THE BROOKLYN EAGLE ALMANAC.

VOLUME XXV.

JANUARY, 1910.

NO. 1 OF EAGLE LIBRARY

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER OF THE EAGLE ALMANAC.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago the Brooklyn Daily Eagle issued its first Eagle Almanac. At that time Brooklyn was an independent city. In an introductory note to the first number of the Almanac, after attention was called to its features, it was said: "But apart from all the wealth of its general instruction it is plainly, unmistakably, and, it is hoped, thoroughly, an Almanac for the use of Brooklyn and Long Island people."

Twenty-five years have passed since that was written. Brooklyn is no longer an independent city. As a great borough it is a most important part of the Greater City of New York. It has grown and broadened in its relations. It is identified, closely, with the affairs and the interests of more than four millions of people. It follows then that the Eagle Almanac has in the change grown and broadened in its relation to its clients.

Therefore the sentence quoted above must now read: "An Almanac for the use of the people of New York City and the suburbs dependent on the city." That is what the Eagle Almanac of to-day is.

And what a change in those short twenty-five years. Probably conditions of living have altered more in the past quarter-century than any other quarter-century history has ever recorded. Mighty steam locomotives have knitted our country together. The business man of to-day thinks nothing of his eighteen-hour trip to Chicago. He is surrounded with every comfort and luxury, even to the telephone, which was just being put to practical use when the first Eagle Almanac was printed. There were 3,000 telephones in New York City in 1885. To-day there are 342,519. The telegraph was a well known instrument then, but the wireless telegraph was not known until 1897 and the first wireless message across the Atlantic was not effected until December 13, 1901. Its practical use is reflected in the C. Q. D. message flashed by the steamship Republic when she was almost sunk by the collision with the Florida, January 23, 1909. The word "automobile" does not appear in the 1886 Eagle Almanac. There are approximately 87,000 registered automobiles in New York State to-day. In 1901 there were 950. The pneumatic tire bicycle has come and—we might almost say—gone. It remains for the 1910 Eagle Almanac to tell of the first real flights of a practical airship. Even five years ago this machine of the heavens was practically unknown. To-day "airship" is on the lips of all nations.

So the wheel of progress revolves. With it grows the Eagle Almanac. Few are so fortunate as to have a complete file of Almanacs, but to him who has, it is highly prized. Without doubt its twenty-five volumes contain the best history of this city for a generation past.

The first Almanac contained 232 pages, this number contains 690. A glance at the 1886 issue is interesting. There were then twelve Assembly districts in Brooklyn, now there are twenty-three. The receipts of the Brooklyn post office were, in 1885, $388,949. For the year ended 1909 they were $2,451,210. On May 15, 1885, the Brooklyn elevated railroad commenced running. It was not an electric road then, for electricity as adapted to transit had not reached a practical stage. To-day we have an underground electric system in the city with 79.25 miles of track, over two miles of which runs under the East River. With the building of the Fourth avenue subway in Brooklyn, which is now progressing, there will be an underground railroad from the Bronx to Coney Island. On May 24, 1883, the Brooklyn Bridge was opened to the public, the one connecting link between Brooklyn and the island of Manhattan. It was a wonder of engineering skill, taking thirteen years to build. To-day there are three more great spans across the East river, each greater in some proportion than the Brooklyn Bridge, but none more architecturally beautiful. It was stated in the 1886 Almanac that 8,528,840 railroad passengers crossed the Brooklyn Bridge in 1884. The 1909 Almanac says that 1,504,653 cars crossed the bridge in 1903, or nearly one-fifth as many cars as people. In 1884 such explorers as Lieutenant A. W. Greeley, Captain Winfield Schley and Dr. Fridtjof Nansen were making vain attempts to discover the North Pole. The farthest point north reached up to that time was 83 degrees and 24½ minutes. The present Almanac records the discovery of the North Pole.

Many more comparisons could be made but they would be for the most part Brooklyn comparisons rather than that of the Greater City. When the first Eagle Almanac was issued it dealt with the affairs and interests of a population of 631,381; the twenty-fifth number deals with the manifold and multiplied affairs of a population of over 4,500,000. This is an extraordinary growth of about 650 per cent. In this growth of twenty-five years the material development of New York City staggers belief and almost computation. But it is all reflected in the Almanac for 1910.

It goes for the saying that in so great an aggregation of population the interests are many. Indeed, it may be concluded that there is not a single item of human endeavor that can be suggested in which a considerable number will not have an active interest. To meet the demand that such interests make is the aim and, it is believed, the achievement of the Eagle Almanac of to-day. Within its covers the political student as well as the active politician can find the political history of the city. The principles on which the citizens have divided will be found as fully stated as is the vote cast in the various divisions making up the great city.

Other chapters are as fully treated. Should it be a church and its record, its minister and its growth, he will find what he seeks. If he is a member of any one of the numerous societies, for whatever purpose it was organized, he will find all that he will want to know about the other societies and associations of the city, though their name be legion. If he be interested in finance he will find not only a record of all the banking institutions, their capital stock, surplus, deposits and balances, but all matters that are cognate in having a bearing on the subject.

It is the same as to trade and commerce and, as having a relation, the figures of the imports and exports at this port are spread on its pages. The charitable institutions of a city famed for the wealth and comprehensiveness of its charities are given with all the statistical information that any one may want. Such matter as proceed from the national government but having a relation to the city are given place. The same may be said of the census figures as they apply to New York, while conservative estimates of the growth since the taking of the census are added in order that, at least, the approximate number of population may be known. Labor laws, unions and officials make a division. The means of transportation are not neglected. The educational features of the city are presented most fully. A street directory is of practical value. Sports of all kinds are given attention and the statistics of records and events make it an authority on the subject.

All great events that are of importance and of interest are presented in their proper relation in this book. In other words it is "a book of information, general of the world and special of New York City and Long Island."

Keeping pace with this great commercial, material, intellectual and population growth, indeed in its van, has been the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, whose duty has been to record, day by day, week by week and month by month, the progress of this growth, and under whose auspices the Eagle Almanac is produced. To the public it is hardly necessary to say this, for during all of these twenty-five years the Eagle has been its own daily exhibit of its own development, while the public has set it up as the sign mark of the progress and development of the borough. It has loyally stood for every local interest. It was the staunch champion of the Fourth avenue subway. It has been a liberal subscriber to grand opera enterprise and a friend of the Academy of Music. It has championed every worthy cause and been the friend of every meritorious endeavor. It is and aims to be one of the great public institutions of this great city.

THE EAGLE'S LIGHT AND POWER SUPPLY.

ALL the artificial light used in the Eagle Building, and the power to run its entire equipment of machinery, including elevators, linotypes and printing presses, is electric, and is supplied by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn. Prior to the opening of the enlarged Eagle Building in 1904, the machinery had been operated by steam. Then it was decided that for both the old and new building electric power would be far more convenient and effective, and the change was determined upon. The original plans contemplated the generation of the necessary current by engines and dynamos on the premises, but a further and complete investigation prior to the purchase of dynamos convinced the Eagle that to secure driving energy from Edison mains would be a more advantageous and economical method of operation. Accordingly they entered into a five years contract with the Edison Company for their exclusive lighting and power service, changed their elevators over from hydraulic to electric, and equipped all their type-setting, printing, stereotyping and book-binding machinery with direct connected electric motors, eliminating steam absolutely, except during the winter months, when it is used at low pressure for heating only.

The controlling reason that governed the Eagle in the making of this contract was economy, the management having become thoroughly convinced that they could buy their current supply from the Edison Company cheaper than it was possible to generate it in a plant of their own; but the absolute reliability of the Edison service was also a determining factor, for it can be readily appreciated that in the case of a daily newspaper, whose time of going to press is calculated to a nicety in order to make close connections with an extensive delivery system, any sudden failure or cessation of power, even for a few minutes, would be a very serious contingency, to be most carefully and zealously guarded against.

BOROUGH OF BRONX STREET AND AVENUE DIRECTORY.

COMPILED FOR EAGLE ALMANAC BY TROW DIRECTORY, PRINTING AND BOOKBINDING CO.

The following resolution, adopted by the Board of Aldermen March 21, 1882, and approved by the Mayor March 28, 1882, will explain the plan of numbering the streets north of Harlem River: That Willis Avenue be numbered, commencing at the Harlem River, and that said numbering run continuously through Willis, Melrose and Webster avenues. That all other avenues in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards, having a generally northerly and southerly direction, be given the same number at the cross streets nearest their southern terminus as that on Willis, Melrose, and Webster avenues at the intersection of said cross street, and then numbered accordingly.

The prefix West is given to all cross streets in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards lying west of Jerome av., which runs from Harlem River at Macomb's Dam Bridge to City line, and that the prefix East is given to all cross streets lying east of said avenue and the Harlem River.

The letters following names indicate position of the thoroughfare on the Almanac maps.

ASTRONOMICAL CALCULATIONS, 1910.

Prepared expressly for the EAGLE ALMANAC by BERLIN H. WRIGHT, DeLand, Fla.

VISIBILITY OF THE PRINCIPAL PLANETS, 1910.

Copyright, 1909, by Berlin H. Wright, De Land, Fla.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The figure shows at a glance when all of the major planets are brightest, and whether east of the Sun (evening stars) or west of him and morning stars, at the time. It also shows the relative duration of visibility and brightness as to the superior planets, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. With Venus, the light-shaded portion simply is the approximate measure of duration and place of visibility and not of brilliancy, while of the others it (the light portion) shows both the duration and brilliancy. Thus, Jupiter will be brightest the last of March, and then will shine equally in the morning and evening; he will be dimmer, by half, at the beginning of the year and visible wholly after midnight. From April 1 he will decrease to invisibility the latter part of October and first of November; after the last of June he will only be seen in the evening east of the Sun, and after his period of invisibility he will reappear on the other (west) side of the Sun as a morning star, and as such increase in brilliancy the remainder of the year, and at the end of the year be visible for about 4 hours. It will be seen that Mars does not attain his maximum degree of brilliancy within the year, but will be brightest of the year at its beginning, when he will be mainly an evening star. Venus, being an inferior planet, between the Earth and Sun, can never be seen opposite the Sun, as in the case of the others on the chart, nor is she at her greatest brilliancy when farthest (in angular distance) from the Sun, as shown.

From this it will be seen that the light portions represent the comparative angular distance of the planets from the Sun. Then each of the 12 spaces will be one hour spaces of 15° each, when the day and night are equal, and more when the night is more than 12h. duration. Thus, on April 23, Venus will be at her point of greatest angular distance west of the Sun—46°, or about 3h. of time between the rising of the Sun and Venus. Again, Jupiter will be at opposition or 180° from the Sun March 31, or 90° on each side of the central line, and rising, therefore, at sunset, and he will set with the Sun, or rise with it October 19.

Of course, the chart can only show an approximation as to the boundaries of the light portion, as this must change with the latitude of the observer, and, to be exact, such boundaries would not be straight, and the scale is too small to admit of greater exactness. It will, however, prove a valuable aid to the average person who is not an astronomer, in understanding the movements of the planets, and definitely settling the question of what constitutes Evening and Morning Stars. In this connection, see "Planets Brightest," "Evening and Morning Stars," and the table of "Rising, Setting and Meridian Passage of the Planets."

Replies to any questions will be sent to all who enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope, by Berlin H. Wright, De Land, Fla.

ECLIPSES 1910.

There will be four eclipses this year, two of the Sun and two of the Moon, as follows:

I. Total of the Sun, May 9, invisible in the United States.

II. Total of the Moon, May 23-24, beginning on the evening of the 23d and visible in North, Central and South Americas except Alaska. Visible as follows:

Standard Time	Partial Eclipse Begins	Total Eclipse Begins	Middle of Eclipse	Total Eclipse Ends	Partial Eclipse Ends	Diagram, Eclipse II.

Hawaiian	5 15 " *	6 38 " *	7 3 "	7 28 "	8 51 "

* Moon rises with the Eclipse on.

Size of Eclipse = 13.2 digits, the Moon's diameter being taken as 12 digits. Hence it is more than total as shown by the Fig.

III. Partial of the Sun, November 2, invisible in United States, except Alaska and Hawaiian Islands.

IV. Total of the Moon, November 16. Visible as follows:

Standard Time	Partial Eclipse Begins	Total Eclipse Begins	Middle of Eclipse	Total Eclipse Ends	Partial Eclipse Ends	Diagram, Eclipse IV.

The figure shows the course of the Moon through the earth's shadow, 6000 miles, from West to East, the first contacts of the Moon with the shadow taking place at a, the middle or greatest Eclipse at c, and the last contact or end at d.

Both eclipses, II and IV, are shown in each figure. The former, occurring at the descending and the latter at the ascending node, hence the differing directions through the shadow taken by the Moon.

HALLEY'S COMET AGAIN.

We mentioned the expected return of this remarkable body in the EAGLE ALMANAC for 1909 as being predicted to reappear in October. At time of printing much additional interest is manifested in this matter and additional data is at hand. By some this is believed to have been the "Star of Bethlehem." Its appearances since the 13th Century seem to have been coincident with many disastrous events which has tended to increase the superstitious belief in the malign influence of comets. This comet should be an interesting celestial object well into 1910, rising at first before the Sun, on May 8, about 2h. earlier. It will pass near Pollux in Gemini June 9, after its conjunction with the Sun, when it ought to be at its greatest brilliancy as an evening star, setting about 2h. 30m. after the Sun, or at about the close of evening twilight. These predictions are those of celebrated astronomers and are based on the movements of this comet at its most recent appearances, late in 1835 and early in 1759. It is not impossible that in its wanderings in space, beyond the orbit of our outermost planet, Neptune—and even within the limits of our own system—it may or will have passed sufficiently near some body as to have its course and period so changed as to render these predictions somewhat "off," although it is believed that all such contingencies have been taken into account. It is not believed that it will collide with any of the planets. It is possible, however, that considerable magnetic or electrical disturbance will result. It was telescopically "picked up" in September, 1909.

Explanation of Signs: ♈ Aries. ♉ Taurus. ♊ Gemini. ♋ Cancer. ♌ Leo. ♍ Virgo. ♎ Libra. ♏ Scorpio. ♐ Sagittarius. ♑ Capricornus. ♒ Aquarius. ♓ Pisces. The place indicated for the planets is for the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th Sundays of each month, in the order of the planets.

Note—The Moon will "run high" from Lowest to Highest and "run low" from Highest to Lowest each month and it has an annual swing from N. to S. also, being highest at full Dec. 21 and lowest at full June 21, a variation between extremes of about 57°. The Full Moon must always be opposite the Sun or 180° from it, and the Moon's orbit is inclined about 5° to that of the Sun's apparent path which is inclined 23½° from that of the Equator, hence (23½° + 5°) × 2 = 57°, for when the Sun is highest the Full Moon must be lowest and vice versa.

THE RITUALISTIC CALENDAR.

The Ritualistic calendar changes each year. In general the following is the order in which colors are used on the altar in Ritualistic churches in the U. S.: White, from Christmas Day to the Octave of the Epiphany and from the first service on Easter Day to the Vigil of Pentecost, except red on the days commemorative of martyred saints. It is also used in Trinity Sunday, the conversion of St. Paul, the purification, the Annunciation, the feast of St. John Baptist, St. Michael, St. Luke, All Saints, and on days commemorative of saints who are not martyrs.

Red, from the first Vespers of Pentecost to the first Vespers of Trinity Sunday; on the Day of Holy Innocents, if on a Sunday, and on feasts of all martyred saints. Violet, from Septuagesima to Easter Eve (Maundy Thursday); from Advent Sunday, the beginning of the Church Year, until Christmas Eve; on Ember days, except in Whitsun week, on Rogation Days, and on Holy Innocents, if on a Sunday. Black, on Good Friday and at funerals. Green is prescribed for all other days.

HIGH WATER AT NEW YORK (GOVERNOR'S ISLAND).

The high water tables are from the book prepared and published by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey at Washington. 0h. 00m. is midnight, and 12h. 00m. is noon. To change Eastern Standard Time to New York "Local Time," add 4 minutes. Eastern Standard Time is 5 hours slower than Greenwich Time. The height is reckoned at Governor's Island from level of average low water. All hours less than 12 are in the forenoon (a. m.), all greater are in the afternoon (p. m.), and when diminished by 32 give the times after noon; for instance, 15.47 is 3.47 p. m. ☾, new moon; ☽, 1st quar.; ☉, full moon; ☿, 3d quar.; E, moon on equator; N, S, moon farthest north or south of equator; A, P, moon in apogee or perigee.

WEATHER AND TEMPERATURE FLAGS.

NOTE.—The display of weather and temperature flags, with the exception of the cold-wave flag, is now confined to rural districts and towns of 5,000 or less inhabitants; the display has been discontinued in places of greater population. The cold-wave flag will be displayed as heretofore.

When No. 4 is placed above Nos. 1, 2, or 3, it indicates warmer; when below, colder; when not displayed, temperature is expected to remain about stationary. The cold-wave flag is displayed when an unusual fall in temperature (the limits varying with the locality and time of year) is anticipated. When displayed on poles, the flags are arranged to read downward; when displayed from horizontal supports, a small streamer is attached to indicate the point from which the signals are to be read.

Storm and Hurricane Warnings.

1st.—A storm warning; red flag with black center. 2d.—When red pennant is hoisted above storm warning, winds are expected from northeast quadrant; when below, from the southeast quadrant. 3d.—When white pennant is hoisted above storm warning, winds are expected from the northwest quadrant; when below, from the southwest quadrant. 4th.—Hurricane warning and extremely dangerous storms, two red flags with black centers, displayed one above the other. 5th.—Night storm warnings; a red light for easterly winds and a white light below a red light for westerly winds.

Stations displaying day warnings during the summer months:

Atlantic Yacht Club, Sea Gate, N. Y.; Penataquit Yacht Club, Bay Shore (L. I.), N. Y.; Indian Harbor Yacht Club, Greenwich, Conn.; New Rochelle Yacht Club, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Yonkers Yacht Club, Yonkers, N. Y.

GAZETTEER OF SUBURBAN NEW YORK.

A number attached to the initials N. Y. indicates the ward of that city. Air-line distances are reckoned from Brooklyn Borough Hall. Numbers at the left hand of names of places are for convenience of reference to them. A number following a place name, when preceded by the sign + indicates that the place is a part of or contiguous to the place indicated by the number; when the number is preceded by the sign = it indicates that the name belongs to the same place as that indicated by the number. The former town names are retained as aids in locating places occurring within the enlarged city limits of Greater New York. For Post Offices and Postmasters see page 73.

THE NEW CROSS-ISLAND TROLLEY.

On August 25, 1909, the people of Suffolk County and Long Island, generally, celebrated the opening of the new cross-island trolley line from Amityville to Huntington, a completed extension of the Huntington Railroad.

The new line is about 15.5 miles long. Leaving Huntington the car tracks take a south-westerly direction until they intersect the Broad Hollow road, running southerly over that road, passing under the main line of the L. I. R. R., thence westerly to Farmingdale. Leaving Farmingdale over Main street to Amityville is a distance of about 3.5 miles. The line is built of 70 pound steel rail. There are thirteen sidings on the line which is a single track railroad. The power house of the road is located at Long Island City, 40 miles away. There are two transformer stations, one at Huntington and the other at Farmingdale. The cars have a seating capacity of 70 persons each. A regular signal system is being installed for the operation of the cars. There are six fare zones over the 18 miles, the trip over each zone costing 5 cents, or 30 cents in all. First zone, Huntington Harbor to station; 2d, Huntington station to the DeForest farm at West Hills; 3d, DeForest farm to Duryea Farm at Melville; 4th, Melville to the Farmingdale railroad station; 5th, Farmingdale to North village line of Amityville; 6th, North Village line to wharf on Great South Bay.

The schedule of the cross-island route, subject to change, is as follows: Cars leave Huntington and Amityville on the even hour from 6 A.M. to 9 P.M. The run across the island takes about forty minutes, but this will probably be reduced later.

GAZETTEER OF LONG ISLAND.

Abbreviations: B'klyn, when this is followed by a number the ward is indicated; N. Hamp., North Hempstead; E. H., Easthampton; S. H., Southampton. Airline distances are reckoned from Brooklyn City Hall. Numbers at the left hand of the names of places are for convenience of reference to them. A number immediately following a name when preceded by the sign= indicates that the place named is a part of or adjoining to the place indicated by the number; when the number is preceded by the sign= it indicates simply another name for the same place. In connection with places occurring in the Borough of Queens the old town names are retained as an aid in locating such places more definitely. For Post Offices and Postmasters see page 72.

POSTAL REGULATIONS.

Domestic matter is divided into four classes, governed as follows:

1st—Embraces letters, postal cards, post cards, all matter wholly or partly in writing or sealed against inspection, postage 2 cents per ounce or fraction. Limit of weight, 4 pounds. Mail should be fully prepaid to insure rapid handling and quick delivery.

Postal cards issued by the Post Office Department may bear written, printed or other additions as follows: (a). The face of the card may be divided by a vertical line placed approximately one-third of the distance from the left end of the card; the space to the left of the line to be used for a message, etc., but the space to the right for the address only. (b). Addresses upon postal cards may be either written, printed or affixed thereto at the option of the sender. (Act of July 12, 1876, ch. 179, 1 Supp., 110). (c). Very thin sheets of paper may be attached to the card on condition that they completely adhere thereto. Such sheets may bear both writing and printing. (d). Advertisements, illustrations or writing may appear on the back of the card and on the left third of the face. The addition to a postal card of matter other than as above authorized will subject the card, when sent in the mails, to postage according to the character of the message—at the letter rate if wholly or partly in writing or the third-class rate if entirely in print. In either case the postage value of the stamp impressed upon the card will not be impaired. Postal cards must be treated in all respects as sealed letters, except that when undeliverable to the addressee they may not be returned to the sender. Postal cards bearing particles of glass, metal, mica, sand, tinsel, or other similar substances, are unmailable, except when enclosed in envelopes with proper postage attached, or when treated in such manner as will prevent the objectionable substances from being rubbed off or injuring persons handling the mails.

2d—Newspapers and periodicals in their entirety which have been entered as "Second Class Matter." Parts of publications are third class matter. Postage 1 cent for each 4 ounces or fraction thereof when mailed by other than publisher; postage to be fully prepaid or will be disposed of as waste. No limit of weight.

3d—Books, sections of periodicals, newspaper clippings, circulars and matter wholly in print, blue prints, proof sheets, corrected proof sheets and manuscript copy accompanying the same, engravings, lithographs, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions and plants. Also facsimile copies made by a mechanical process such as the printing press, electric pen, mimeograph, hektograph, copygraph, etc., provided they are mailed at the post office window in the minimum number of twenty identical copies separately addressed. If mailed elsewhere or in less number, first class postage is required. A circular may have in writing therein the name of the addressee or sender or date; any other additions render it subject to first class postage. Postage 1 cent each 2 ounces or fraction thereof. Limit of weight, 4 pounds, except single books. Postage must be fully prepaid and great care exercised not to add any written words or figures except such as are permissible.

4th—Unsealed packages of merchandise and all matter not embraced in the first, second or third class, and which from its nature will not destroy or damage the mails or injure the persons handling it. Postage, 1 cent an ounce or fraction thereof. Must be fully prepaid. Limit of weight, 4 pounds. Permissible written additions: Name of sender and address and occupation, but only when preceded by the word "from," and any marks, names, numbers or letters for purpose of description. Sealed packages and other written additions render it liable to first class postage.

Forwarding Mail Matter.

Matter of the first class can be forwarded until it reaches the addressee.

All other classes require prepayment of the original postage before forwarding.

What Cannot Be Mailed.

5. All obscene, lewd, or lascivious matter, and every article or thing intended, designed, or adapted for any indecent or immoral purpose, or for the prevention of conception or procuring abortion, or matter tending to incite arson, murder or assassination.

6. Postal, post, or other cards mailed without wrappers and all matter bearing upon the outside cover or wrapper any delineations, epithets, terms, or language of an indecent, lewd, lascivious, obscene, libelous, scurrilous, defamatory or threatening character, or calculated by the terms of manner or style of display, and obviously intended to reflect injuriously upon the character or conduct of another.

Domestic Matter—Registered Mail.

Any article of the 1st, 2d, 3d or 4th class mail matter may be registered at any Post Office in the United States. The fee on registered matter, domestic or foreign, is 10 cents for each letter or parcel, to be affixed in stamps, in addition to the postage. Full prepayment of postage and fee is required. Two or more letters or parcels addressed to, or intended for, the same person cannot be tied or otherwise fastened together and registered as one.

A return receipt signed by the addressee and showing delivery is returned to the sender of each domestic registered letter or parcel.

The Postal authorities give an indemnity for domestic first class registered mail lost in transit up to $50. At the main office mail matter can be registered at all hours, except Sunday, from 8 A.M. Monday to 10 P.M. Saturday. At carrier stations from 8 A.M. to 9 P.M.

Letter carriers will register letters at residences as safely as if they were taken to the Post Office. The conditions are that they must (1) be in good order and inclosed in a secure envelope; (2) bear the name and address of sender; (3) bear the name and Post Office address of the person to whom they are to be delivered; and (4) the postage and registry fee must be prepaid either with stamps attached to the letter or in money to the letter carrier, who will write the amount in the receipt which he gives you. The carrier cannot wait for you to prepare your letter, or to make change, or engage in conversation. If you give him too much money for postage, it will be returned to you direct from the Post Office, but not if the postage and fee are paid in stamps.

Foreign Mail Matter.

1. Any article of mail matter, except parcels-post packages for France, The Netherlands, Uruguay, Great Britain, Barbadoes, may be registered, provided that when presented for registration the postage thereon be fully prepaid by postage stamps affixed, also the registration fee, which is uniformly 10 cents.

2. Name and address in full of sender must be indorsed on or written across the end of the letter or article before it can be registered.

3. The senders of registered articles may obtain assurance of their receipt by persons addressed by indorsing them with the words, "Return receipt requested."

Special Delivery System.

A special 10 cent stamp, when attached to a letter or package (in addition to the lawful postage), will entitle such to immediate delivery at destination within the carrier limit of a free delivery office between the hours of 7 A.M. and 11 P.M., by messengers, and on Sundays in Brooklyn from 8 to 10 A.M. and 2 to 11 P.M. in the General P. O. district.

On and after July 1, 1907, when, in addition to the stamps required to transmit any letter or package of mail matter through the mails, there shall be attached to the envelope or covering 10 cents worth of ordinary stamps of any denomination, with "special delivery" or their equivalent written or printed on the envelope or covering, under such regulations as the Postmaster General may prescribe, the said package shall be handled, transmitted and delivered in all respects as though it bore a regulation "special delivery" stamp.

Short paid second, third and fourth class matter, to which is attached a special delivery stamp, cannot be forwarded.

Special delivery matter is forwarded by ordinary scheduled mails only, but secures immediate delivery at office of destination during prescribed hours. Inquiry should be made at the Post Office regarding delivery of out of town mails on Sundays.

Private Mailing Cards.

An act of Congress, approved May 19, 1898, authorized the transmission in the mails of private cards bearing written messages. The law in brief states that it shall be lawful to transmit by mail, at the postage rate of one cent apiece, payable by stamps to be affixed by sender, and under such regulations as the Postmaster General may prescribe, written messages on private mailing cards, such cards to be sent openly in the mails to be approximately of same form, quality and weight as the stamped postal card now in use in U. S.

To be entitled to such privileges users of mailing cards must conform to these rules:

1. (a) A "post card" must be an unfolded piece of cardboard not exceeding 9 by 14 centimeters (approximately 3 9-16 by 5 9-16 inches), nor less than 7 by 10 centimeters (approximately 2 7/8 by 4 inches). (b) In form, quality and weight of paper must be substantially like the Government postal card. (c) Any color not interfering with a legible address and postmark. (d) It may or may not bear near the top of the face the words "Post Card." (e) Face of card may be divided by a vertical line; left half to be used for a message, etc.; that to the right for the address only. (f) Very thin sheets of paper may be attached to card, on condition that they completely adhere thereto; such sheets may bear both writing and printing. (g) Advertisements and illustrations may appear on back of card and left half of face.

2. Cards without cover, conforming to foregoing conditions, are transmissible in domestic mails (including the possessions of the United States) and to Cuba, Canada, Mexico, Republic of Panama, and the U. S. postal agency at Shanghai, China, at postage rate of 1 cent each.

3. When post cards are prepared by printers and stationers for sale, they should bear in upper right hand corner of face an oblong diagram containing the words "Place postage stamp here," and at bottom of space to the right of the vertical dividing line, the words "This space for the address."

4. Cards which do not conform to the conditions prescribed by these regulations are, when sent in the mails, chargeable with postage according to character of message—at letter rate, if wholly or partly in writing, or at third class rate, if entirely in print.

5. Cards bearing particles of glass, metal, mica, sand, tinsel or other similar substances, are unmailable, except when inclosed in envelopes, with proper postage attached, or when treated in such manner as will prevent the objectionable substance from being rubbed off or injuring persons handling the mails.

Mails Between P. O. Stations.

Mail matter deposited at a P. O. Station (or in a street letter box within its district), for delivery in district of another station, is dispatched direct to the latter. Dispatches are made from 17 to 32 times week days and 3 to 6 times Sundays.

Special Delivery Matter.

Special Delivery matter is delivered from the General Post Office and all branches, between 7 A.M. and 11 P.M. daily, including Sundays.

Numbered Stations.

Numbered Stations of the New York Post Office are established in order to provide the residents in their vicinity with facilities for:

1. Purchase of postage stamps, postal cards, stamped envelopes.

2. The procuring of money orders payable in the United States. International money orders may be obtained at all Branch Post Office Stations.

3. The registration of letters and parcels addressed to Post Offices in the United States or in foreign countries. Packages of merchandise ought not to be presented here for registration (except singly or in small quantities), but may be registered at the General P. O. or any branch office.

4. The mailing (in limited quantities only) of newspapers and packages too large to be deposited in letter boxes. Packages of merchandise in quantities from dealers or others cannot be received at Sub-Stations, but should be taken to the Gen. Post Office or Branch Post Office Sta. Packages will be received (singly or in limited numbers only) for dispatch by Parcels Post to countries with which the United States has Parcels Post Conventions. Letters may, but need not, be deposited in numbered stations.

POPULATION—CITY, STATE AND NATION.

New York City Census, 1905.

New York City, as constituted prior to the act of consolidation, effective Jan. 1, 1898, had a population in 1890 of 1,515,301, compared with a population in 1900 of 3,437,202, showing an apparent increase of 1,921,901, or 126.8 per cent.

In 1890 the city comprised all of what is now Manhattan and greater part of what is now the Bronx, but under the act of consolidation Kings Co., Richmond Co., the larger part of Queens Co. and a small part of Westchester Co. became a part of the city.

Manhattan comprises that part of the old city south of the Harlem River, this area being known formerly as Manhattan Island.

Bronx was formed from that part of the old City of New York lying north of the Harlem River and the small part of Westchester Co. annexed under the act of consolidation. All of this area was at one time a part of Westchester Co., but in 1873 the towns of Morrisania, West Farms and King's Bridge were annexed to New York; under consolidation, Jan. 1, 1898, all of the town of Westchester and parts of the towns of Eastchester and Pelham became a part of the city.

The towns of Flatbush, Flatlands, Gravesend and New Utrecht were absorbed by the City of Brooklyn in 1894, Flatbush becoming the 29th Ward, New Utrecht the 30th Ward, Gravesend the 31st Ward, Flatlands the 32d Ward. The city thus became coextensive with Kings Co., and on Jan. 1, 1898, Brooklyn became one of the five boroughs of New York City.

Richmond County, or Staten Island, became the Borough of Richmond.

Queens Borough was organized at the same time from what was Long Island City, the towns of Flushing, Jamaica and Newtown, and a small portion of the town of Hempstead, all of which were civic divisions of Queens Co. The remaining towns of the county, Oyster Bay and North Hempstead, together with the greater part of the town of Hempstead, were taken to form the new county of Nassau.

It is impossible to state definitely the population in 1890 of that part of the town of Hempstead, Queens Co., which became a part of Queens Borough, and of the parts of the towns of Eastchester and Pelham, Westchester Co., which became a part of Bronx Borough, but in the following is shown the estimated population for the City of New York, as now constituted, and in detail for each borough of the city, from 1790 to 1900:

The preceding table shows that the area comprised within the present limits of the City of New York had an estimated population of 49,401 in 1790, which had grown to 696,115 in 1850, representing an increase of 646,714, or 1,309.1 per cent. The population of the present City of New York had grown to 2,507,414 in 1890, or an increase since 1850 of 1,811,299, or 260.2 per cent. Since 1890 there has been an increase of 929,788, or 37.1 per cent.

The population of New York City on June 1, 1905, as actually enumerated, was 4,000,402, but from this total there was deducted 821 inmates of state and county institutions in the several boroughs of the city, which, under the plan of distributing the inmates of such institutions according to their actual residence at the time of admission to the institution, had been credited to other counties of the state, while there had been added 14,200 inmates of institutions who, at the time of their admission, were residents of New York City. These deductions and additions give a total population of 4,013,781, distributed by boroughs as shown in table No. 1.

These figures show an increase in population of N. Y. City from 1900 to 1905 of 576,579, or 16.8 per cent., as compared with an increase for the same area during the preceding 10 years of 929,788, or 37.1 per cent. The increases by boroughs are as follows:

The plan of distributing the population of public institutions is not observed in the U. S. Census and the gains or losses thus due should be borne in mind in making comparisons with the last two federal censuses. The net gain or loss in population in 1905, due to distribution of inmates of state and county institutions, according to city or town of residence at admission is summarized by boroughs as follows:

PARKS, DRIVES AND STATUES.

BROOKLYN.

(Office, Litchfield Mansion, Prospect Park.)
The Park system of Brooklyn and Queens, under one park commissioner, consists of 59 parks, including 13 small gore parks. There are also 4 playgrounds and 20 parkways under the supervision of this Park Commissioner. The total areas of parks and parkways in these two boroughs is 2,671 acres. For offices and employees see index, "Municipal Government."

Park Statuary.

The statuary of Prospect Park includes the bronze figure of J. S. T. Stranahan, bronze busts of John Howard Payne, Thomas Moore, Washington Irving, Beethoven and Mozart. In Aug., 1895, a shaft was erected on the slope of Lookout Hill to the memory of the four hundred Maryland soldiers who defended the rear of the American Army upon its retreat after the Battle of Long Island. It was erected by the Baltimore Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, in conjunction with the Park Department.

The bronze statue of Major-Gen. Gouverneur Kemble Warren, near Memorial Arch, in the Park Plaza, was unveiled on July 4, 1896. The bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln, dedicated Oct. 21, 1869, is placed in the front part of the Flower Garden, overlooking the lake. It was paid for by popular subscription.

Bust of Beethoven, gift of United German Singers of Brooklyn, unveiled 1904.
The bust of Mozart, in the Flower Garden, was unveiled Oct. 23, 1897. It is the gift of the "United Singers of Brooklyn" to the city, and was won by them as a prize in a saengerfest held in Philadelphia.

Bust of Von Weber, gift of United German Singers won at National Sangerfest in New York in 1909, unveiled in Oct. 1909.

Immediately fronting the Park is the Plaza, and Soldiers and Sailors' Memorial Arch, erected to the memory of the soldiers and sailors who lost their lives in the war of the Union. The bas-reliefs were prepared by Maurice J. Power, and show Lincoln and Grant on horseback, reviewing the army after the fall of Richmond. The arch in 1898 was further adorned by a bronze group on top, called the Quadriga, designed by Frederick MacMonnies; in 1900, two massive groups, one representing the Army and the other the Navy, for the sides.

At Gate 8, on the 9th av. side of Prospect Park, are two bronze panthers on pedestals. At Gate 4, at the Ocean Parkway entrance, are two specimens of bronze work in the shape of an athlete taming wild horses.

Other statues are scattered throughout the Borough. The Grant statue on Bedford av. near Dean, was unveiled April 25, 1896, the gift of the Union League Club to the city.

A statue of Henry Ward Beecher stands in the Park in front of the Borough Hall.

A statue of Alexander Hamilton graces the entrance to the Hamilton Club, Clinton and Remsen.

A statue of Gen. Fowler, a commander of the old 14th Regt., is in Fort Greene Park.

Dr. Skene monument, erected Jan., 1906, on a triangle north of Prospect Park Plaza, is a shaft of white marble 13 ft. high, 8 ft. thick, surrounded by a bronze bust, three times life size, by J. Massey Rhind, Bkln.; cost $5,000.

The equestrian statue of Gen. Henry W. Slocum, designed by MacMonnies, heroic size, costing $30,000, was unveiled May 30, 1905, at Bedford and Eastern pkway, President Roosevelt making an address.

An equestrian statue of Gen. George Washington, in the Plaza of the Williamsburg Bridge. Donated to the city by ex-Register James R. Howe; cost $50,000. Henry Merwin Shady, sculptor. Unveiled Sept. 29, 1906.

Frisson Ship Martyrs' Monument completed in Fort Greene Park, 1908. Height of shaft from lower plaza to top of bronze urn, 195.8 feet, from upper plaza 145.8 feet, the urn 20.8 feet. Diameter of shaft at the base is 17.6 feet, interior diameter, 9 feet. Electric elevator and two flights of stairs. Cost $174,144. P. J. Carlin Co., contractors. Dedicated Nov. 14, 1908.

Park Construction.

Two arches connecting Shore Drive with 4th av. were completed in 1901, one under 2d av., the other under 3d av. The macadam road under arches connects the Shore Road with 4th av. and will eventually be carried through to Fort Hamilton av.

Dyker Heights Park has a frontage on Gravesend Bay. The marsh in the center will be dredged and a lagoon created.

Sunset Park is on a high plateau with views of the harbor, Staten Island and a large part of Brooklyn.

Institute Park on Flatbush av., which divides it from Prospect Park and part of the original purchase of Prospect Park, has been developed into a picturesque space. An artificial lake has been made, trees and shrubs planted and hills constructed. Chap. 637, Laws of 1906, provides for an astronomical observatory, and Chap. 618, laws of 1906, provides for a botanical garden, both to be erected in Institute Park.

Seaside Park is the only property the city has on the ocean; developed in 1902.

A new park will also be constructed in the Eastern District, to be called Greenpoint Park, the Board of Estimate having authorized the condemnation of a plot of land in the 14th, 15th and 17th Wards, bounded by Berry, Nassau av., Lorimer, Driggs av., Manhattan av., Leonard, Bayard, Union av. and North 12th, comprising 45 acres. The value of the land is estimated at $1,769,234. Now used as a playground.

The land used for playgrounds is within the territory to be acquired for the park, having been bought at private purchase.

PUBLIC GOLF LINKS.

Are located at Forest Park, on Myrtle av., Jamaica and Woodhaven av.

QUEENS PARKS.

The park equipment of Queens is not extensive. There are a few undeveloped triangles in Long Island City; College Point has two small parks; there are two in Flushing; Corona has a small, attractive park; Jamaica has one of seven acres, in which is located the historic King Manor and another small undeveloped park on a hill overlooking the town. Rainey Park, in Astoria, fronting East River, 7½ acres, is also undeveloped.

BROOKLYN FOREST.

Brooklyn Forest is a natural woodland park, extending from the boundary of Highland Park as far as Richmond Hill, in Queens. It cost about $1,150,000. From its high points are obtained views of the Atlantic Ocean, Jamaica Bay and Long Island Sound. Roads have been made through and the main road is macadamized. The park drive leads into fine macadam roads connecting with Astoria, Flushing, the military reservation at Creedmoor, Whitestone, Queens and the north side of Long Island.

Highland Park, separated from Forest Park by cemetery property, adjoins the city reservoir. It contains many high eminences, and is a great pleasure ground for the East New York section.

PARKS, DRIVES AND STATUES—MANHATTAN—Continued.

City Hall Park constitutes a part of what was known in 17th century as "The Common Lands." At the close of the Revolutionary War improvements were begun. The city hall cornerstone was laid in 1803 and building used for the first time in 1811.

Madison Sq. Park was laid out as a Potters Field in 1794. The U. S. Govt. erected there an arsenal in 1806. Plans for improving the park were adopted in 1870.

Union Sq. Park was laid out in 1815 and enlarged in 1832, and plans for its improvement adopted in 1870.

Washington Sq. Park—In 1797 Potters Field was removed from Madison Sq. to Washington Sq. Park, later known as Washington Parade Ground. Plans for its improvement were adopted in 1870; carried out in 1871.

Tompkins Sq. Park was a parade ground in 1866. It was paved with concrete, but has been remodeled and laid out as a park.

Central Park—(For a history of this park see Eagle Almanac of 1907). The drives aggregate 9.452 miles and the bridge roads 5.503 miles; the walks, 31 miles. Its area is 843.019 acres. The following are some of the principal features: At 59th st. and 5th av. the Scholars' Gate, adorned by a bust of Von Humboldt, unveiled 1874. In the southwest part is the playground and carousel for children, and beyond is the common lawn of 16 acres. The Menagerie is in the southeast part, clustered around the old Arsenal Building. The mall is a broad promenade, a quarter of a mile long and 208 feet wide, bordered by double rows of elm trees and famous for the collection of statues, prominent among which are: Shakespeare, by J. Q. A. Ward, erected on the 300th anniversary of the poet's birth; Burns and Scott; the "Indian Hunter," by Ward; Fitz Greene Halleck, and a colossal Beethoven bust. Near by is the Music Pavilion. The Terrace, a sumptuous pile of richly carved masonry, and the Lake come next in view, and the famous Bethesda fountain, designed by Emma Stebbins and made in Munich. Beyond the Lake is the Ramble, 36 acres, passing a bust of Schiller, rustic cabins, gorges and waterfalls. Farther on is the Belvedere, a tower of stone; next are the city reservoirs. On the left is the American Museum of Natural History. Admittance free. Open 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. Sundays, 1 P.M. to 5 P.M. Tuesday and Saturday evenings. Opposite the Obelisk and near 5th av. and 83d is the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Admittance free except Mondays and Fridays (25c.); Monday and Friday evenings, 8 to 10.

The greenhouses, opened 1899, cost $55,000; located 300 feet south of E. 106th entrance.

Wm. H. Seward Park was opened to the public Oct. 17, 1903. This is the first park in Greater New York planned especially for playground and gymnasium features. It contains a splendid pavilion, shower baths, toilet facilities, etc.

Playgrounds during the summer are also maintained in Corlears Hook, Thos. Jefferson, St. Gabriel's, John Jay, E. 17th, East River, Hamilton Fish, Tompkins Square, DeWitt Clinton, Hudson and Battery Parks.

Bronx—(For history of this park see Eagle Almanac for 1908.) The northerly section, about 250 acres, is set apart as a Botanical Garden, free to the public. The southeasterly section of the park, comprising 261 acres, is in charge of the Zoological Society. Admission free, except on Mons. and Thurs. (25c.). Bronx Park is reached by the 3d av. elevated to 161st, with transfer to West Farms; to 177th, with transfer to Tremont av. trolley as far as Southern Boulevard; to 177th, with transfer to 3d av. as far as Fordham. Also subway, West Farms branch to 182d. Open 9 A.M. to 4 P.M.

Pelham Bay Park, with its coastal indentations, its picturesque bays and inlets and open water front, is one of the most beautiful in the world. It contains large tracts of woodland trees that are centuries old. This park is being developed by carriage roads and footpaths, has a fine new athletic and parade ground covering 120 acres, and an 18-hole golf course.

Crotona Park is being improved and a fine athletic field has been laid out in it, containing ball diamonds, tennis courts, etc.

Claremont Park lies on high ground, with an elevation of 100 ft. in places. It is fully developed, with many tennis courts and baseball diamonds. It contains the old Zbrowski mansion, now used for offices of the Park Dept.; acquired in 1888.

PARKS, DRIVES AND STATUES—THE BRONX—Continued.

St. Mary's Park was formerly a portion of the estate of Gouverneur Morris, a prominent delegate to the convention which framed the Constitution of the United States. A large portion of the park is very high, commanding fine views of the East River, L. I. Sound, Harlem and Hudson Rivers. Acquired in 1888. Franz Sigel Park (Cedar Park) lies on a high ridge overlooking the Harlem River. It was acquired June, 1895.

Macomb's Dam Park was acquired in 1899 and is divided into several sections by the streets. It is adjacent to the Harlem River and is the headquarters for many rowing clubs. Contains baseball diamonds and tennis courts and a quarter mile running track.

Grand Boulevard and Concourse.

The Concourse, under the jurisdiction of the Borough President of the Bronx, is designed to provide connection between Manhattan and the park systems in the northern and eastern portions of the Bronx. The estimated cost of the work of construction was $1,052,153. The contract was let Aug. 20, 1902, the lowest bid being $1,011,322.50. The ground was broken for the work by President Haffen on Oct. 2, 1902, at the junction of Morris av. and 175th. The time estimated for its construction was 1,000 working days.

The entrance to the concourse, including Cedar (Franz Sigel) Park, is a stretch of land 3,300 ft. long and from 400 to 500 ft. wide, and extends from N. Y. Central and Hudson River R. R. to E. 164th; the route of the concourse is along the ridge between Jerome and Webster avs. It is about 4 miles long and 182 ft. wide, crossing a deep valley at E. 175th with a beautiful masonry arch. It will have a central driveway for fast driving 56 ft. in width, a macadamized driveway on each side 24 ft. in width for general traffic, and access to abutting property. There will be 20 ft. sidewalks on each side, and between the central and side driveways bicycle paths will be constructed. The spaces between the driveways and the paths will be planted with trees and sodded. While the present contract does not provide for the nine transverse roads, and the tunnel at E. 147th, there are six of these roads under contract; the nine roads and the tunnel will be commenced before the completion of the concourse, and will probably be completed when the concourse is.

The concourse is connected with Manhattan by means of the Madison av. and 149th st. bridge at Lenox av., through Mott and Walton avs., and also by means of E. 161st st. and Central (Macomb's) bridge, with 7th av. boulevard and Washington Heights. On the southerly end will be an elevated approach from 155th st. or Central Bridge. The land has been acquired for this structure and the cost of approach will be about $500,000.

A further connection with 4th av. is proposed by the City Improvement Commission by means of a bridge over the Harlem River and a viaduct from the Harlem River to Mott av. across Cedar Park. Statues and monuments—Poe, Poe Pk., unveiled Jan. 19, 1909.

THE NEW ERIE CANAL.

The construction of the new Erie Canal, now being pushed by the State of New York, is a water way undertaking second only in importance to the building of the Panama Canal.

The new canal is being constructed from the Hudson River to Lake Erie, parallel with the old canal, and will admit boats 200 feet long, 40 feet beam, 10 feet draught, and capable of carrying a cargo of 2,500 tons. The present canal accommodates only barges 78 feet long, 17½ feet beam and 6 feet draught, capable of carrying 240 tons. The original Erie Canal, opened to traffic in 1825, could handle boats of but 30 tons capacity, 61 feet long, 7 feet beam and 3½ feet draught. There were enlargements of the canal in 1850 and 1862. A bond issue of $101,000,000 was voted for this improvement by the people of the state in Nov., 1903. The main channel of the new canal from Troy to Buffalo will be 353 miles long, and there will be branches from Waterford, near Troy, to Lake Champlain, 57 miles long; from Three Rivers, near Syracuse, to Oswego, 27 miles; from Syracuse to Lake Onondaga, 6 miles, and from Rochester to Lake Ontario, 3 miles, making a total of 442 miles.

The locks in the new canal will be 328 feet long in the chambers, 45 feet wide and 12 feet deep. The prism varies from 75 feet bottom width in earth cuts, 94 feet width in rock cuts and 200 feet width in river and wide water portions of the route. The new canal route utilizes the Hudson River from New York City to Waterford, 4 miles north of Troy. At Waterford one branch continues northward along the bed of the Hudson to Fort Edward, and thence across the country to Whitehall on Lake Champlain. The second branch turns westward at Waterford, enters the Mohawk River above the Great Falls; thence it follows the bed of the Mohawk River to Rome, where it crosses the country to Oneida Lake, and then goes down the Oneida River to the point where the Oneida, Seneca and Oswego rivers join at Three Rivers. From there one branch keeps on down the bed of the Oswego River to Lake Ontario.

The second branch follows the bed of the Seneca River nearly to Seneca Lake, and thence up the Clyde River and some smaller streams and across a small land area to the Genesee at Rochester. The Genesee is crossed in a pool and about 6 miles west of Rochester the new canal joins and becomes identified with the present Erie Canal, which will be enlarged to the same capacity, and continues to the Niagara River at Tonawanda. The old canal follows the valley of the Mohawk. The new canal will be in the river itself and will utilize the existing water ways, as far as possible, the entire distance. Only about one-third of the new canal will be land excavation. The remainder will consist of the deepening of natural water ways. There are 72 locks in the old canal. They were originally 90 feet long, 15 feet wide and 4 feet deep. They have since been enlarged until they are now 140 feet long, 18 feet wide and 7 feet deep. It is expected that the canal will be opened throughout its entire length in 1917, while long sections of it, of great service to commerce, should be available in six or seven years. The present canal was commenced in 1817 and finished in 1825.

Statue of Liberty.

Twenty-five years ago, when the editors of the Eagle Almanac were preparing the first issue, France was putting the finishing touches on the Statue of Liberty, which was unveiled on Bedloe's Island in New York Harbor, Oct. 28, 1886. Soon after France became a republic a movement was inaugurated there to erect some suitable memorial to the fraternal feeling between the two governments. Frederic A. Bartholdi was the artist selected to do the work. $300,000 was raised in America to build the pedestal of this statue on Bedloe's Island. The statue was formally delivered to the American Minister at Paris, July 4, 1880. Following are statistics of the structure: Weight, 400,000 lbs.; height, low water mark to top of torch, 305 ft. 11 in.; statue, 151.2 ft. high; pedestal, 91 ft. high; foundation, 52.1 ft. high.

Boats leave the Battery every hour on the hour for Bedloe's Island, 9 A.M. to 7 P.M., returning on the half hour. Excursion fare 25 cents.

NOTE—Except as specially permitted, fish

must not be taken except by angling in any of the rivers, lakes or inland waters of the State. "Angling" means taking fish by hook and line in hand or rod in hand; or if from a boat, not exceeding two lines, with or without rod, to one person. Fish must not be taken by means of explosives, or by drawing off the water for that purpose, or by fishing through the ice in waters inhabited by trout during the close season therefor.

A license costing $1 is required for netting minnows for bait except for nets less than four feet in diameter. Application blanks may be procured from the Forest, Fish and Game Commission. No licenses are granted for trout waters. Each license is granted for one stream or body of water only in one town. No license is required for angling.

GENERAL RESTRICTIONS.

Restrictions as to transportation—Woodcock, grouse and quail shall not be transported within this State or into the State from a point without the State less than twenty-five miles from the State line, unless accompanied by the actual owner thereof, and no person shall transport or accompany more than twenty grouse or thirty-six woodcock or thirty-six quail in any calendar year, or more than four grouse, six woodcock or six quail at one time. No person shall at any time transport any birds or fish for which a close season is provided in any package unless the kind and number of such birds or fish shall be plainly marked on the outside of said package, together with the names of consignor and consignee, the initial point of billing and destination.

Sale of certain game prohibited—Grouse, quail and woodcock taken in the State. Deer, except Sept. 16 to Nov. 5. (Possession or sale of quail, grouse or woodcock during December, presumptive evidence of illegal capture). Ducks, geese and swan if lawfully taken may be possessed until March 1.

Limit of game to be taken during open season—Two deer, twenty grouse, thirty-six woodcock, thirty-six quail a season; limit per day, four grouse, six woodcock and six quail.

Regulations for hunting licenses—Hunting licenses are required for any kind of hunting. Licenses may be procured from any county, city or town clerk, and are good in any part of the State from the date of issue to Dec. 31 of each year. The license must be carried on the person and presented for inspection when required. The fee required of residents of New York is one dollar and ten cents, to be paid to the clerk issuing the license; for non-residents and aliens the fee is twenty dollars and fifty cents. The non-resident has the privilege of taking one deer out of the State under conditions prescribed by the Commission.

Transportation out of State prohibited—Game or birds taken in the State, including deer (excepting head, feet and skin, and one carcass shipped with tag furnished with each non-resident hunting license), elk, antelope, moose, caribou, squirrel, hare, rabbit, quail, grouse, pheasants, plover, Wilson and English snipe, woodcock, curlew, shore birds, rail, mud hen, gallinule, water chicken, duck, goose, brant or swan.

FOREST LAW.

All the wild or forest land now owned or hereafter acquired in the counties of St. Lawrence, Franklin, Clinton, Essex, Warren, Washington, Hamilton, Herkimer, Oneida, Lewis, Greene, Ulster, Sullivan and Delaware, Fulton and Saratoga, constitute the Forest Preserve, and cannot be sold or leased nor the timber disposed of.

The Adirondack Park includes all lands now owned or hereafter acquired by the State within the county of Hamilton; towns of Newcomb, Minerva, Schroon, North Hudson, Keene, North Elba, St. Armand and Wilmington, in Essex county; the towns of Harrietstown, Santa Clara, Altamont, Waverly and Brighton, in Franklin county; the towns of Webb and Wilmut, in Herkimer county; the towns of Hopkinton, Colton, Clifton and Fine, in St. Lawrence county; the towns of Johnsbury, Stony Creek and Thurman, and the islands in Lake George, in Warren county. Such park shall forever be reserved and maintained for the free use of all the people. Chapter 304, Laws of 1904, enlarged the boundaries of the park at certain points and decreased it also by the exclusion of farming lands along the border in certain towns. The park now includes Township 10, Franklin county, and about 8,000 acres in the northeast corner of Saratoga county.

By a law enacted by the Legislature of 1904, the State undertakes to establish a State park in the Catskill mountains. It will comprise about 675,000 acres, situated in the counties of Greene, Ulster, Sullivan and Delaware.

All that part of the river St. Lawrence within the State, with the islands and such lands along the shore as are now owned by or shall hereafter be acquired by the State, has been constituted an international park, known as the "St. Lawrence reservation."

It is a misdemeanor to cut or carry away any tree, bark or timber on the forest preserve, and in addition the person cutting any timber thereon shall forfeit $10 for every tree cut or carried away by him.

Fire patrolmen, appointed, shall take necessary measures for extinction of forest fires, and may call on any person in their districts for assistance, such person refusing may be fined $20.

Cape Cod Canal.

One of the most important canal enterprises of modern times was launched June 22, 1909, when ground was broken for the construction of a canal across Cape Cod from Sandwich to Buzzards Bay. Four years and about $12,000,000 will be required for its completion. The canal will be dug at sea level and presents no engineering problems of unusual difficulty. It will be twelve miles long with a minimum depth at low water of twenty-five feet, thus making it available to the heaviest ships plying between this port and Boston.

The advantages of such a canal are obvious from even the most cursory examination of any coast map. Nearly one hundred and fifty miles will be saved to vessels that are accustomed to take the long sea voyage around Cape Cod. All the Atlantic coast ports—Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore, Charleston and others—which maintain water communication with Boston will share equally with New York in the saving of time assured by the canal. The coasting trade of New York, however, will most largely profit. Water traffic between here and Boston will be greatly stimulated.

PATENTS AND TRADE MARKS.

Trade Marks.

A trade mark may be registered by any person, firm or corporation in the United States or located in any foreign country which, by treaty, convention or law, affords similar privileges to citizens of the United States, and who is entitled to the exclusive use of any trade mark and uses the same in commerce with foreign nations or with Indian tribes.

An application for the registration of a trade mark must be made to the commissioner of patents, and must be signed by the owner of the trade mark.

All applications for registration are considered in the first instance by the trade mark examiner. Whenever, on examination of an application, registration is refused for any reason, the applicant will be notified thereof.

On filing an application for registration of a trade mark, $25 must be paid; for manuscript copies, for every 100 words or fraction thereof, 10 cents; for recording every assignment, agreement, power of attorney, or other paper of 300 words, or less, $1; for recording every assignment, agreement, power of attorney or other paper of more than 300 words, and less than 1,000 words, $2; for recording every assignment, agreement, power of attorney or other paper of more than 1,000 words, $3; for certificate of search, $1; for each brief from the digest of assignments, 20 cents; for assistance to attorneys and others in the examination of records, an hour or less, 50 cents; each additional hour or fraction thereof, 50 cents; for single printed copy of statement, declaration and fac simile, 5 cents; if certified, for the grant, additional, 50 cents; for the certificate, 25 cents. If the applicant be a corporation, it must be specified under the laws of what State or nation incorporated.

There must be a drawing made with India ink alone, on pure white paper, the thickness of three sheets of Bristol board, and containing a calendared and smooth surface. All drawings must be made with pen only and every line and letter, signature and shading must be absolutely black. The size of the sheet must be exactly 10x15 inches, and there must be an inch margin on each side, leaving the "sight" exactly 8x13 inches. When the view is longer than the width of the sheet, it may be turned on its side, while the signature of the proprietor of the trade mark must be placed at the lower right hand corner and the signature of the witnesses at the lower left hand corner, but, in no instance, shall they encroach upon the drawing. Drawings must be rolled for transmission to the Patent Office—not folded.

The government with which conventions for the reciprocal registration and protection of trade marks have been entered into by the United States are: Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Brazil, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, Russia, Servia, Spain and Switzerland.

Patents.

Applications for letters patent must be made to the Commissioner of Patents, and signed by inventors. It is advisable that applicants employ competent attorneys to prosecute their cases. The office can not aid in selecting such, but has a list from which selections can be made. Specifications and claim must be signed by inventors and attested by two witnesses.

The oath made is that inventor believes himself to be original and first discoverer of the art, machine, manufacture, composition, or improvement; that he does not believe or know that it was ever before known or used, and the country of which he is a citizen or subject. This oath may be made before any authorized persons in United States, or before any minister, charge d'affaires, consul or commercial agent, holding a commission under the U. S. Government.

Drawings must be artistically executed. The Patent Office will make necessary corrections at the applicant's option and cost. The office will furnish drawings at cost for applicants who desire that assistance. A working model is often desirable. Applications filed are classified according to the various arts, and are examined in order of filing. Upon rejection of application examiner must cite the best references at his command. If domestic patents be cited, their dates and numbers, the names of the patentees, and the classes of invention are stated. The applicant may amend before or after first rejection or action, and he may amend as often as the examiner presents new reasons for rejection, showing how amendments avoid references and objections. Patents for designs are granted for 3½, 7 or 14 years.

A reissue is granted to original patentee when original patent is inoperative on account of defective specification. Provisions are made for hearings before the commissioner, and interviews with examiners.

Any citizen who has made a new invention or discovery and desires further time to mature same may, on payment of $10, file in Patent Office a caveat setting forth objects and characteristics of the invention. Such caveat is operative for one year.

Following is a schedule of fees, paying in advance: Filing original application, $15; issuing of patent, $20; designs (3½ yrs.), $10; designs (7 yrs.), $15; designs (14 yrs.), $30; caveats, $10; reissue, $30; filing disclaimer, $10. Certified copies of patents, 10c. per 100 words. Certified copies, printed patents, 80c. Uncertified printed copies of specifications and drawings or any number of unclassified copies, 5c. each. For copies by sub-classes, 3c. each. Copies by classes, 2c. each. Recording every assignment, agreement, power of attorney, or other paper, of 300 words or under, $1. For every 300 and under 1,000 words, $2. For over 1,000 words, $3. A receipt or certificate of deposit must be filed in the office within 10 days after money is paid.

Frederick I. Allen, Commissioner of Patents, Washington, D. C.

Hall of Fame.

In March, 1900, Chancellor MacCracken, of New York University, announced that $250,000 had been given that institution for a Hall of Fame of great Americans. The conditions were that 50 names might be chosen in 1900 and 5 more each succeeding 5 years through the twentieth century. 100 electors from all the 45 States were asked to make nominations and to indicate each one his choice of 50 names. Upon Oct. 1, 1900, it appeared that 29 names had received a majority by Senate votes. These were approved by the Senate (which has the power of veto), the number of votes for each being as follows: George undertook to consider the names of women. A majority of 51 was demanded, but in the case of the names of women a majority of only 47. The following persons were found to be duly chosen: John Q. Adams, 60; James R. Lowell, 60; Wm. T. Sherman, 58; James Madison, 56; John G. Whittier, 53; Alex. Hamilton, 58; Louis Agassiz, 53; John P. Jones, 53; Mary Lyon, 53; Emma Willard, 50; Maria Mitchell, 48. A bronze tablet for each of these 51 names was unveiled on Decoration Day, 1907, and a bronze bust of Horace Mann placed upon the parapet over his tablet. Foreign born Americans as well as natives are now eligible. An election will take place in Oct. 1910.

Washington, 97; Abraham Lincoln, 96; Daniel Webster, 96; Benjamin Franklin, 94; Ulysses S. Grant, 93; John Marshall, 91; Thomas Jefferson, 91; Ralph Waldo Emerson, 87; Robert Fulton, 86; Henry W. Longfellow, 85; Washington Irving, 83; Jonathan Edwards, 82; Samuel F. B. Morse, 82; David G. Farragut, 79; Henry Clay, 74; Nathaniel Hawthorne, 73; George Peabody, 74; Peter Cooper, 69; Robert E. Lee, 68; Eli Whitney, 69; John J. Audubon, 67; Horace Mann, 67; Henry Ward Beecher, 64; James Kent, 65; Joseph Story, 64; John Adams, 62; Wm. E. Channing, 58; Gilbert Stuart, 52; Asa Gray, 51. In Oct., 1905, the Senate received the ballots of 35 electors, of whom only 83

NEW YORK STATE PRIMARY LAW.

The Primary Election Law was originally Chap. 179, Laws of 1898, and was wholly amended by Chap. 473, Laws of 1899, and in minor detail was amended by Chaps. 204, 205, 225, 506, Laws of 1900; Chaps. 167, 360, Laws of 1901; Chap. 195, Laws of 1902; Chaps. 111 and 595, Laws of 1903; Chaps. 350 and 488, Laws of 1904; Chaps. 207, 674, Laws of 1905; Chaps. 227, 466, Laws of 1906; Chaps. 296, 744 and 504, Laws of 1907, and Chaps. 456, 433 and 480, Laws of 1908, and Chap. 22, Laws of 1909. This act applies only to cities and villages having 5,000 inhabitants or more and provides for the enrollment of members of all political parties. Naturalized citizens may be required to show naturalization papers or certified copy before being registered, and date of such naturalization must be given. The general object of the law is to grant to every registered voter the right to enroll with any party he desires to affiliate with for the purpose of participating in the primaries of such party for the ensuing year. This is accomplished by furnishing, through the inspectors of election, to every person registering as a voter an envelope and secret ballot. The voter indicates his choice of parties by a cross mark in a circle under the emblem of his party. The ballot is then inclosed in an envelope, which is sealed by the elector. The sealed envelope is then deposited in a box and kept inviolate until a week after election, when all envelopes are opened and ballots examined, and the political faith expressed thereon of the voter is marked in the enrollment books opposite his name. Under the original law a time was appointed for a supplemental enrollment other than at registration, but that privilege has now been withdrawn in cities of the first, second and third class, in which one must have enrolled at time of registration to vote at a party primary in the succeeding year. The annual primary day is fixed for the seventh Tuesday before day of general election, except a presidential year, then it is fixed for the tenth Tuesday prior to election, except in cities having a population of a million or over, when the primary day is the sixth Tuesday before election day, except in gubernatorial years, when it is the eighth Tuesday before. A primary is also held on the last Tuesday in March in a presidential year for election of delegates to the National Convention. Independence in municipal elections does not deprive the voter of the right to participate in the primary of his party.

The enrollment shall be completed before the succeeding 15th of February in each year. If cross marks are found in more than one of the circles, or if no cross marks are found in any of the circles on the enrollment blank, the elector who used the enrollment blank thus deficient shall not be deemed to be enrolled. Under the law a majority of voters of any party can control the nominations by making nominations direct at the primary instead of by electing delegates, if the general committee of such party so directs. A political party is defined to be an organization which polled at least 10,000 votes at last election of governor. The custodians of primary records are officers or boards providing official ballots at general elections, viz., county clerks, commissioners of elections and the Board of Elections in N.Y. City.

Unofficial primaries may be held by the political parties at their own expense, but notice of same must be published in the same manner as for official primaries.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Headquarters, Park av. and 59th, Mhnt.

The Board of Education consists of forty-six members appointed by the Mayor Jan. 1, for a term of 5 years. It consists of 22 members from Manhattan, 14 from Brooklyn, 4 from The Bronx, 4 from Queens and 2 from Richmond, who serve without pay and can hold no office of emolument under county, State or municipal government, except notary public, commissioner of deeds, or offices in the National Guard. Its members may be removed by the Mayor after a hearing for neglect or misconduct, and the Mayor has power to fill all vacancies. It has management and control of the public schools and public school system of the city, and is a corporation. On the first Monday of Feb. in each year the board organizes by the election of one of its members as Pres. It has power to appoint a Sec. of the Board, a Supt. of School Bldgs., term six years; Supt. of School Supplies, term six years; City Supt. of Schools, term six years; Supervisor of Lectures, term six years; one or more Auditors, a Chief Clerk and other officers, clerks or subordinates as necessary; to appoint 8 Associate City Supts. for a term of six years each, who with the City Supts. constitute the Board of Supts., and to appoint, upon the nomination of the Board of Supts., 26 District Supts. to visit and inspect schools; to establish and conduct elementary schools, kindergartens, manual training schools, trade schools, truant schools, ev'g schools, vacation schools, free lectures and course of instruction, special classes, high schools, training schools for teachers, playgrounds, etc. All applicants for licenses to teach are examined by the Board of Examiners consisting of the City Supt. and four examiners appointed by Board of Education upon the nomination of City Supt. Principals, branch principals, heads of depts., teachers, assistants and all other members of the teaching staff are appointed by the Board of Education on nomination of Board of Supts. Nominations and appointments are made, except in cases of high schools or training schools for teachers, for the several Local School Board Districts, respectively, and of principals, teachers and others from eligible lists prepared by the Board of Examiners in order of the standing of candidates, provided that the Board of Supts. may consider for each appointment the three highest names on the appropriate list. It fixes salaries of members of supervising and teaching staff, salaries to be uniform in all boroughs. Salaries are fixed by the Board of Education in compliance with the Davis law. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment is required to appropriate for the General School Fund for payment of salaries an amount equivalent to 3 mills on every dollar of assessed valuation of real and personal estate in the city liable to taxation. The title to all property owned or acquired for educational purposes is vested in The City of New York, but is under the control of the Board of Education. The schools are free to all persons between 4 and 21 years of age, except that no child under 6 years shall be received except in kindergarten classes. The Board purchases all books, apparatus, stationery, etc., and upon recommendation of Board of Supts. approves text books, apparatus, etc. Money for the schools is raised by taxation in two funds—special school fund and general school fund. The general fund is for payment of salaries of teachers and the supervising force and the special fund all moneys not comprised in the general fund. The Board has the management of the public school teachers' retirement fund. It makes an annual report to the Mayor between Aug. 1 and Nov. 30, on conditions for the preceding school year, and also reports on the amount of money expended during preceding year. Members of the Board of Education, together with the Pres. of the Normal College, constitute the Board of Trustees of the Normal College, a separate and distinct organization furnishing education gratuitously to girls, pupils in the common schools of the city, or residents of the city. The Board of Trustees has the powers and duties required of trustees of colleges by the Revised Statutes.

The City Supt. of Schools has the right of visitation and inquiry in all of the schools of the city, and reports to the Board on the educational system of the city and the condition of the schools. He has a seat in the Board of Education and the right to speak on all matters before the Board, but not to vote. He must make an annual report to the Board. The Supt. of School Buildings is the executive officer of the Board in all matters relating to school buildings. The Supt. of School Supplies is executive officer of the Board respecting the purchase, storing and distribution of supplies, printing for the Board, transportation of school children, etc.

There are 46 local School Board Districts. In each district there is a Local School Board of 7 members (term five years)—5 appointed by the Pres. of the Borough, a member of the Board of Education designated by the Pres. and the District Supt. The duties of a Local Board are: To visit and inspect schools in the district; report thereon to the Board of Education; to recommend sites and erection of buildings; report to the Board dereliction of duty on the part of the Supt. of School Supplies, Supt. of School Buildings, City Supt. or any of their deputies, assistants or employees; to excuse absences of teachers, subject to the approval of the Board of Supts., where teachers are excused with pay; to try and determine all matters relating to discipline, corporal punishment and other matters of administration arising on complaint of pupils, parents or guardians against teachers or principals; to try charges made by principal, Dist. Supt., parent or guardian against a teacher for misconduct, insubordination, neglect of duty or inefficiency; to present charges of any dereliction of duty of janitors; to procure enforcement of the laws of the Board relating to the sanitary condition of schools and the health of pupils, etc.

Columbus Day.

The 12th day of October was made an annual legal holiday in New York State by Chapter 112 of the Laws of 1909. This law is an amendment to the general construction law and commemorates the discovery of America by Columbus 416 years ago. The measure was introduced in the Legislature by Senator T. D. Sullivan, among whose constituents are a great many Italians, who especially urged the bill. The holiday was fittingly celebrated by many Italian and other societies in Mhntn.

THE BUSINESS CORPORATIONS LAW OF NEW YORK STATE.

The corporate form of conducting business enterprises, both large and small, possesses so many advantages over private ownership or a partnership, that the desirability of incorporation has become generally recognized. Some of the many advantageous features of incorporation are: The immunity from individual liability, the element of perpetuity, the unimpaired preservation of surviving interests in the event of the death of a member of a firm, the retention of good-will or the prestige of a concern, and the ease with which an interest may be disposed of. In 1901 and 1909 the New York Legislature remodeled the State laws for the organization, regulation and management of corporations, tending to popularize New York among charter granting states. The General Corporation Law constitutes an extensive chapter of the laws of the State, covering all forms of incorporations. The purpose of this article is to furnish a general idea of the requirements and fees for incorporation under that section of the chapter designated as The Business Corporations Law, viz.:

Three or more persons may become a stock corporation for any lawful business purpose or purposes other than a moneyed corporation, or a corporation provided for by the banking, the insurance, the railroad and the transportation corporations laws, or an educational institution or corporation which may be incorporated as provided in the education law, or a corporation organized for the purpose of conducting any branch of the practice of law, by making, signing, acknowledging and filing a certificate with the Secretary of State, which shall contain:

1—The name of the proposed corporation. (The name of the corporation must not conflict with that of any other domestic or state corporation, and it must not contain the word trust, bank, banking, insurance, assurance, indemnity, guarantee, guaranty, savings, investment, loan or benefit.)

2—The purpose or purposes for which it is to be formed. (A stock corporation may be formed under this law to carry on any business that may be lawfully conducted by an individual, except as limited above.)

3—The amount of the capital stock, and if any portion be preferred stock, the preferences thereof. (The capital stock shall not be less than $500. One-half of the capital stock is required to be paid in within one year, in cash or property, provided the capital stock of the corporation amounts to more than $1,000, but failure to comply with this provision creates a liability for a forfeiture of corporate rights, though proceedings must be taken to effect actual dissolution. No debts must be incurred until the amount of capital specified in the certificate of incorporation, as the amount of capital with which it will begin business, shall have been paid in money or property.)

N. Y. STATE HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT.

For over a hundred years each annual session of the legislature has passed laws regarding the public highways, but without regard to a comprehensive scheme of improvement. Many of these laws were conflicting, many were obsolete, while the few remaining, having no practical utility, required revision in order to meet existing conditions. In 1909 the entire highway laws of the State were revised by the passage of an act which repealed existing laws and embodied in one concise, comprehensive code all of the highway laws required to provide for the improvement, maintenance and repair of the 75,000 miles of highways in the State. This law also provided for the establishment of a State Department of Highways under the charge of three commissioners to be appointed by the Governor. The organization of this department became effective on February 18, 1909, by the appointment of S. Percy Hooker, T. Warren Allen and Robert Earl, Commissioners.

Under the present highway law the improvement and maintenance of the highways of the State will be carried on under three distinct heads, namely: Through routes running north and south, east and west aggregating upwards of 3,000 miles to be built at the sole expense of the State; County highways forming a system of main market roads connecting county seats and principal places to be improved at the joint expense of the State, county and town, and aggregating about 7,500 miles, and town or earth roads amounting to about 60,000 miles and comprising all highways not improved either as State routes or as county highways. These town or earth roads are maintained by the towns with moneys raised from the highway tax raised in cash (the labor system of working out the highway tax having been abolished) and moneys donated to the town by the State.

During the year 1909 no State roads have been constructed, as the Commission were obliged to determine the exact location of these routes and prepare the plans for their improvement. Work on the improvement of about 500 miles of county highway has been in progress throughout the year, about three million dollars having been expended by the State and counties therefor. Something over three million dollars has also been expended by the State and the 933 towns in the maintenance of earth roads.

During the winter of 1909-10 contracts will be awarded for the construction of State routes at a total expense of about two and one-half million dollars, and of county highways at a total cost of about four million dollars, the actual work beginning early in the spring.

The State Commission of Highways is charged with the entire work of the improvement of State and county highways and has supervisory direction over the maintenance and repair of earth roads, so that every mile of public highway in the State of New York is now being improved, maintained or repaired under a comprehensive plan providing for the conduct of the work along lines adopted by the Commission, and which will result in the improvement of a large system of macadamized highways throughout the entire State aggregating about 10,000 miles, and which will be fed by a network of well-constructed and maintained earth roads leading into all the rural sections and remote localities. The cost to the State for its share of State roads and county highways will amount to fifty million dollars, and to the several counties upwards of twenty-five million dollars; exclusive of the appropriations made by the State from year to year for donations to the town for maintenance of town roads and the highway tax raised in cash each year in each of the 933 towns.

FOURTH AV. SUBWAY.

The building of the first six sections of the Fourth Avenue Subway, Brooklyn, was authorized by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on Friday, October 29, 1909. It was five and a half years ago, on April 21, 1904, that the South Brooklyn tunnel first assumed anything approximating definite form. On that day the committee on plans of the old Rapid Transit Commission reported on the route, but it was not until three years later that further action was taken. In December, 1906, the Board of Estimate went so far as to authorize the commission to advertise for bids for the construction and operation of the road. Restrictions of the Elsborg Law prevented further action. Early in May, of 1907, a vacancy in the board occurred through the death of one of the members, and Mr. Hurley was named to fill it.

At the very first meeting he attended, Mr. Hurley introduced a resolution requesting the Board of Estimate to take up the action of a few months previous and now provide for the advertising of bids for construction only, the city to foot the bill. After protracted debate, this measure was passed on May 31.

In the meantime, the law creating the Public Service Commission, to succeed the Rapid Transit Board, had been passed. As there was not time for the old board to comply with the necessary preliminaries, the fate of the Fourth Avenue Subway had to be left in the hands of the new board.

The Public Service Commission assumed office on July 1, 1907. On Oct. 2, after three months of deliberation, the subway route was approved. It was not until the following spring that the plans and specifications were completed and contract forms framed.

The Fourth Avenue Subway route was authorized by the Board of Estimate on March 27, 1908, appropriating $2,850,000 for the building of the first six sections. Controller Metz announced that he feared there would not be sufficient money to build the road. On June 12, 1908, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment was served with an injunction restraining it from authorizing the contracts requested by the P. S. Commission to start the work, on the ground that the city was too close to its constitutional debt limit to undertake a work of such magnitude. The bids had already been opened, May 8. The Supreme Court appointed General Benjamin F. Tracy, referee, to ascertain the extent of the city borrowing capacity as of June 30, 1908. The referee took testimony and reported, in December, 1908, that the margin on the date mentioned was about $100,000,000. The case was taken up to the Appellate Division, which confirmed the referee's report, and was then taken to the Court of Appeals, which, in October, 1909, affirmed the refere's report in part, but sustained the contention of the city that the full amounts of contracts entered into should be charged against the city in computing the margin under the debt limit. This decision cut down the city's borrowing capacity as of June 30, 1908, to about $54,000,000. Upon receipt of the Court of Appeals' decision, the injunction against the Board of Estimate was dissolved and that board, on October 29, 1909, approved the contracts as awarded by the Public Service Commission in May, 1908. On being advised of this action, the Public Service Commission immediately notified the contractors to whom the awards had been made, to execute their contracts within ten days from the date of notification, October 30.

Contracts for the first six sections of the Fourth Avenue Subway, which are included between the Brooklyn terminal of the Manhattan Bridge and Forty-first st on Fourth avenue have been let as follows:

Boody, former Mayor, City of Brooklyn. In the evening a banquet was held at the assembly, at which addresses were given by Hon. Wm. R. Willcox, Frank Bailey, Andrew McLean, Hon. Wm. McCarroll, Hon. Bird S. Coler, Rev. Robert B. Hull and Wm. Bradley. Routes for extensions to the Fourth Avenue subway from 43d st, Brooklyn, to Coney Island and to Fort Hamilton have been adopted by the Public Service Commission and approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. Plans for both extensions have been made by the commission and probably will be advertised for bidders this winter. The Coney Island branch leaves the Fourth Avenue Subway at 40th st and runs out to New Utrecht av. and other streets to Coney Island. The Fort Hamilton extension continues out 4th av. to Fort Hamilton.

OTHER SUBWAYS.

The Public Service Commission has in hand the completion of plans and specifications for the Broadway-Lafayette subway route in Brooklyn and the Broadway-Lexington route in Manhattan. The Broadway-Lafayette route will be a four track subway from the Brooklyn end of the Manhattan Bridge under Flatbush av. extension to Fulton; thence to Lafayette av.; thence Reid or Stuyvesant to E'way, and down E'way to the Brooklyn end of the Williamsburg Bridge. The other end of the so-called loop running from the Manhattan side of the Williamsburg Bridge, through Centre st. to the Manhattan Bridge, is already completed.

THE HUDSON TUNNEL SYSTEM.

The Hudson Tunnel system is controlled by the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, with offices at 30 Church st., Mh'n. The company was incorporated Dec. 5, 1906, in New York and New Jersey as a consolidation of the Hoboken and Manhattan Railroad Company of New Jersey, New York and Jersey Railroad Company and Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company of New York.

It owns and is now operating double tube tunnels from 6th av. and 23d st., Mh'n., under the Hudson River to the D., L. and W. R. R. station, Hoboken, N. J., a distance of about three miles. The first trains were operated Feb. 26, 1908. The line under 6th av. is being extended to 33d st. A branch will also be built from 6th av. under 9th st. to a connection with the subway at 4th av. A double tube tunnel has been constructed from Hoboken southwardly through the Erie and Penn. R. R. stations in Jersey City and thence under the Hudson to the Hudson Terminal Buildings on Church st. This is the main line of the system. The southerly one of the two tubes was bored through on Jan. 27, 1909, and the northerly tube on March 11, 1909. On July 19, 1909, the first train was operated through these tubes to the Penn., Erie and D., L. and W. stations.

Work has been started on an extension to be built from the Penn. R. R. station, in Jersey City, to a connection with the present main line of the Penn. R. R., and, upon its completion, in 1910, a through train service will be established between the Hudson Terminal Buildings in New York and Newark, trains running through the tunnels and over the present main line of the Penn. R. R. into Newark.

On May 4, 1909, this company was granted a franchise to extend its line from 33d st. north under 6th av. to 42d st., thence east to the Grand Central station.

On Sept. 20, 1909, direct service from the Hudson Terminal Buildings to 23d st. was inaugurated, via Jersey City. The running time from the Hudson Terminal station to 23d st. and 6th av. is 16 minutes. W. G. McAdoo is Pres. of the company and E. T. Munger, Gen. Supt.

BELMONT TUNNEL.

New York and Long Island R. R., commonly known as the Belmont tunnel, will connect the New York and Queens Co. Electric Railway Co. in L. I. City, controlled by the Belmont interests, with the subway and elevated lines in Mh'n. The tunnel proper is completed, but not in operation. On June 30, 1909, was incorporated in a general proposition made to the Public Service Commission by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, covering new subways and extensions, the offer to sell it to the city, so as to place it on a parity with other subways, and to operate it as a part of the enlarged subway system with a single 5 cent fare between Long Island City and all subway stations. The proposition was not accepted at that time. The office is at 165 E'way, Mh'n.

TUNNELS—Continued.

PENNSYLVANIA TUNNELS.

The line of the Pennsylvania Railroad's tunnel extension into New York begins near Newark, N. J., crosses the Hackensack Meadows, passes through Bergen Hill and under the North River, the Borough of Manhattan and the East River, to the large terminal yard known as Sunnyside Yard, in Long Island City. There is a centrally located station at Thirty-third street and Seventh avenue Manhattan, from which passengers will be transported also by the Long Island Railroad system, and by means of the New York Connecting Railroad, this extension will connect the Pennsylvania system with the New England States. The road will be operated by electricity, and in the case of the heavy express trains from the South and West, the electric locomotives will take up the work of the steam locomotives at Harrison, N. J. The station building covers two city blocks and one intersecting street, with an area of about eight acres. The engineering work is in charge of Charles M. Jacobs, Chief Engineer, North River Division; Alfred Noble, Chief Engineer, East River Division, and George Gibbs, Chief Engineer of Electric Traction and Station Construction.

The tunnels under the North and East Rivers, as well as Bergen Hill and the Borough of Manhattan, are completed, and the work of track laying and electrification is now in progress, while the construction of the station building is well advanced. It is expected that the tunnels to Long Island City will be in operation by February 1, 1910, and the tunnels to New Jersey a month or two later. The official train with the officers of the Pennsylvania and Long Island railroads passed through the tube Nov. 18, 1909. It started from Harrison, N. J., 10:50 A.M., arriving at Sunnyside Yard, L. I. City at 12:54, after stopping at the new station in Mh'n for a ten minutes inspection. The train passed on its eastern trip through tube D and returned through tube B of the tunnels on its way to Long Island and return. There are four tubes designated by the letters A, B, C and D. They are all completed so far as the actual tunnel work is concerned, but much is to be done before they are ready for the enormous traffic for which they are designed.

The twenty-three electric locomotives being constructed for this traffic, each weight 330,000 lbs. Each engine is capable of 4,000 horse power, and a speed of 60 to 70 miles an hour. The drive wheel is 68 inches in diameter, and length of locomotive over all, 65 feet. For history, see 1908 Almanac, page 398.

THE EAST RIVER TUNNEL.

The Rapid Transit Commission, Jan. 24, 1901, adopted the route to Bkln. (For details of contract, see 1908 Eagle Almanac, page 399.)

Ground on the Bkln. tunnel was broken in Jan., 1903. Two shafts were erected in Joralemon st. and one at the Battery in Mh'n. Shields were driven under the East River from both the Bkln. and the Mh'n. shores to the center of the river. Work on the Fulton st. section of the tunnel was begun in 1904. Early in April, 1905, owing to change in plans to provide additional tracks and connections to other routes, construction in Fulton and Flatbush av. was almost completely suspended pending the obtaining of the necessary consent of the municipal authorities and property owners for this change, and work was resumed in Oct. of that year on the lines of the amended plans and completed so as to allow operation to begin on Jan. 9, 1908, as far as Borough Hall. (Account of celebration, 1909, Eagle Almanac, page 68.) On May 1st trains were first operated to the L. I. R. R. depot terminus.

The P. S. Com. reports that the Interborough R. T. carried on its subway division for one year ended June 30, 1909, 237,451,171 passengers, and on the elevated, 275,734,974.

The Passion Play.

Ober-Ammergrau is 43 miles s. w. from Munich, Germany, with a population of 1,500.

The Passion Play was inaugurated on account of a vow made by the inhabitants of the place to be delivered from a plague.

1633, year first given, and yearly until 1690, when the Pope gave a dispensation, allowing it to be performed once in every ten years.

1870, no play on account of the Franco-Prussian war.

The Passion Play is given each Sunday beginning May 16 up to October, 1910, and will be sometimes repeated on a week day if occasion warrants.

The sacred play commences at 8 A.M. and lasts till 5:30 P.M.; one and a half hours intermission for lunch. Tickets can be obtained for $2.50.

The performance is given at the open end of a covered building which seats 4,000 people.

Fully 685 persons take part in the performance, 125 of whom have speaking parts.

How France Gathers Gold.

Nearly every nation under the sun is to-day paying golden tribute to France. She has an army of creditors, but no debtors. About two score governments have to remit interest money to her. The interest and dividends on the capital for her small investors represent earnings in all parts of the world. The road to Paris becomes, therefore, the route of least resistance for the floating gold supplies. Paris is absorbing into her banks from 35 to 40 per cent. of the metal freshly taken from the mines. So uniformly favorable is the international credit balance to France that, since 1891, about one-fifth of all of the gold mined has found its way into the republic. In the year following the panic the stock of gold in the chief banks of the world increased $400,000,000. This actually equals the twelve months' production of new metal. Of this gold the Bank of France secured $100,000,000; Bank of Germany, $75,000,000; associated banks of New York, $100,000,000; Bank of Russia, $55,000,000; Bank of Italy, $50,000,000; the Bank of Austria-Hungary, $17,000,000, and the Bank of England about $9,000,000.

U. S. BANKRUPTCY LAW.

The United States Bankruptcy Act was passed in July, 1898. Aub's Bankrupt Law, Eagle Library, No. 28 contains the complete act, with all amendments and tabulated index of 72 pages. Price, $1.00. The sections below give some very important points regarding the law:

Extracts from the United States Bankruptcy Act of July 1, 1898:

Sec. 4. Who may become bankrupts (a)—Any person who owes debts, except a corporation, shall be entitled to the benefits of this act as a voluntary bankrupt. (b)—Any natural person (except a wage-earner or a person engaged chiefly in the farming or the tillage of the soil), any unincorporated company, and any corporation engaged principally in manufacturing, trading, printing, publishing or mercantile pursuits, owing debts to the amount of $1,000, or over, may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt upon default of an impartial trial, and shall be subject to the provisions and entitled to the benefits of this act. Private bankers, but not national banks or incorporated banks, may be adjudged involuntary bankrupts.

Sec. 7. Duties of bankrupts—(a) The bankrupt shall (1) attend the first meeting of his creditors, if directed by the court or a judge thereof to do so, and the hearing upon his application for a discharge, if filed; (2) comply with all lawful orders of the court; (3) examine the correctness of all proofs of claims filed against his estate; (4) execute and deliver such papers as shall be ordered by the court; (5) execute to his trustee transfers of all his property in foreign countries; (6) immediately inform his trustee of any attempt by his creditors or other persons to evade the provisions of this act coming to his knowledge; (7) in case of any person having to his knowledge proved a false claim against his estate, disclose that fact immediately to his trustee; (8) prepare, make oath to, and file in court within ten days, unless further time is granted after the adjudication if an involuntary bankrupt, and with the petition of a voluntary bankrupt, a schedule of his property, showing the amount and kind of property, the location thereof, its money value in detail, and a list of its creditors, showing their residences, if known (if unknown, that fact to be stated), the amount due each of them, the consideration thereof, the security held by them, if any, and a claim for such exemptions as he may be entitled to, all intriplicate, one copy of each for the clerk, one for the referee, and one for the trustee; and (9) when present at the first meeting of his creditors, and at such other times as the court shall order, submit to an examination concerning the conducting of his business, the cause of his bankruptcy, his dealings with his creditors and other persons, the amount, kind, and whereabouts of his property, and in addition all matters which may affect the administration and settlement of his estate; but no testimony given by him shall be offered in evidence against him in any criminal proceedings. Provided, however, that he shall not be required to attend a meeting of his creditors, or at or for an examination at a place more than 150 miles distant from his home or principal place of business, or to examine claims except when presented to him, unless ordered by the court, or a judge thereof, for cause shown, and the bankrupt shall be paid his actual expenses from the estate when examined or required to attend at any place other than the city, town or village of his residence. Discharge in bankruptcy relieves the bankrupt from all his provable debts, except taxes due the U. S. state, county or municipality in which he resides, liabilities for money or property obtained by false pretences, wilful and malicious injury to persons or property, alimony, debts created by fraud or misappropriation, etc. The U. S. Court of Appeals, in the case of Keppel, trustee, against the Tiffin, Ohio, Savings Bank, the U. S. Supreme Court laid down a new principle in bankruptcy proceedings on April 3, 1905. This was that a creditor who has received a merely voidable preference, and who has in good faith retained such preference until deprived thereof by the judgment of a court upon a suit of the trustee, might thereafter prove the debt so voidably preferred. Justices Harlan, Brewer, Brown and Day dissented, and the last named in his opinion said that the Bankruptcy law contemplated that a secured creditor who held a security voidable under the law must make his choice while he yet had something to give for the privilege of being placed in the class which should share in the equal distribution of an estate. To permit him to prove his claim as a general creditor would tend to defeat the purpose of the act.

Japan's Great Sinking Fund.

The 28th of August, 1903, placed a white stone in the history of Japanese finance. On that day the Katsura Cabinet decided to lay aside every year at least 50,000,000 yen ($25,000,000) for the purpose of paying off the principal of the national debt. The minimum amount of 110,000,000 yen, provided in the national debt consolidation fund referred to above, allows not much over 25,000,000 or 30,000,000 yen for the principal. Therefore, the Katsura programme of laying aside 50,000,000 yen a year would raise the amount in no mean degree. If this policy be followed every year, the war debt will be redeemed very much sooner than the time specified—namely, thirty years. As a matter of fact, it speaks well for Japanese finance that, in the very bitterest period through which it has passed, the administration could manage to set aside on the debt charge 151,133,514 yen in 1906-7, 174,390,457 yen in 1907-8 and 176,839,532 yen in 1908-9, in each case a much greater amount than the 110,000,000 yen planned.

Forests of the U. S.

Forest conservation is now a vital issue in national development. It is estimated that 32 per cent. of all the land in the United States, or 600,000,000 acres, is forested. At the present rate of cutting, these forests can not long withstand the heavy drain now made upon them. The rich forests of the Lake States, once the center of the lumber industry, now produces comparatively little lumber, and the Southeast, which at present is supplying the bulk of the lumber cut, will soon be outstripped by the Pacific Coast, which is steadily gaining in output. In 1908 between 20 and 35 billion feet of lumber, valued at 500 to 525 million dollars, was produced.

Congress authorized the President to establish National Forests in 1891. They were called "forest reserves" then, and in fact they were "reserves," for Congress did not at that time provide for the use of their great resources, which are estimated to be worth over $2,000,000,000. A law was passed in 1897, however, which made it possible to use and to protect their resources. To give them a name in better accord with their object, the "reserves" were renamed "National Forests" by Congress in 1907. Now there are nearly 195,000,000 acres of National forests, including about 27,000,000 acres in Alaska and Porto Rico. Since Feb. 1, 1905, the Forest Service has had the management of the National Forests.

U. S. REVENUE CUTTER SERVICE.

The Revenue Cutter Service was founded by Alexander Hamilton in 1790, several years prior to the establishment of the regular Navy. It is under the Treasury Department. It enforces the customs, quarantine, neutrality, navigation, and other maritime laws of the United States. Its vessels patrol the coasts and lend aid to vessels in distress. In peace or war the service becomes, by direction of the President, a part of the naval establishment. Its officers are on an equal footing, in rank and pay, with officers of the Army and Navy. Appointments to cadetships are made after competitive examinations conducted by boards of commissioned officers of the Revenue Cutter Service. Cadets are educated at the School of Instruction at Arundel Cove, Md. The course covers three years and embraces professional and academic subjects. Candidates for cadetships must be not less than 18, nor more than 24 years of age, citizens of the United States and unmarried. A class of cadets is appointed each year.

Appointments as cadet-engineer are made after competitive examinations conducted by boards of engineer officers of the service. Candidates for cadet engineer must be not less than 20½ years of age and must serve a probationary term of not less than six months before being commissioned third lieutenant of engineers. No person can be commissioned third lieutenant of engineers who is less than 21 or more than 26 years of age. This branch of the government is under the charge of a captain-commandant, who is Chief of Division of Revenue

Cutter Service. Captain-Commandant Worth G. Ross is the present incumbent. Headquarters are at the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C. Following is a list of vessels in the service, their class, guns and stations:

UNITED STATES ARMY.

On Aug. 15, 1903, the system of military control in the Army was reorganized under the provisions of the General Staff Act, approved Feb. 14, 1903. This act abolished the separate office of General Commanding the Army, provided for a military Chief of Staff to the President, who, acting under the directions of the President, or of the Secretary of War representing him, should have supervision not only of all troops of the line, but of the special staff and supply departments which had theretofore reported directly to the Secretary of War; and it created for the assistance of the Chief of Staff a corps of 44 officers, who were relieved from all other duties. The function of this new corps is described by the statute in the following words:

Sec. 2. That the duties of the General Staff Corps shall be to prepare plans for the national defense and for the mobilization of the military forces in time of war; to investigate and report upon all questions affecting the efficiency of the Army and its state of preparation for military operations; to render professional aid and assistance to the Secretary of War and to general officers and other superior commanders, and to act as their agents in informing and co-ordinating the action of all the different officers who are subject, under the terms of this act, to the supervision of the Chief of Staff, and to perform such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be from time to time prescribed by the President. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y.

Each Congressional district and Territory—the District of Columbia and also Porto Rico—is entitled to have one cadet at the Academy. Each State is also entitled to have two cadets from the State at large, and 40 are allowed from the U. S. at large. The appointment from a Congressional district is made upon the recommendation of the Congressman from that district, and those from a State at large upon the recommendations of the Senators of the State. Similarly the appointment from a territory is made upon the recommendation of the delegate in Congress. Each person appointed must be an actual resident of the State, district or territory from which the appointment is made. The appointments from appointment of the cadet from Porto Rico is made by the President on the recommendation of the resident commissioner. Applications may be made at any time, by letter to the Adjutant General, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C., to have the name of the applicant placed upon the register that it may be furnished to the proper Senator, Representative or delegate, when a vacancy occurs. The application must exhibit the full name, date of birth and permanent abode of the applicant, with the number of the Congressional district in which his residence is situated. Appointments are required by law to be made one year in advance of the date of admission, except in cases where, by reason of death or other cause, a vacancy occurs which cannot be provided for by such appointment in advance. These vacancies are filled in time for the next examination. For each candidate appointed there may be nominated two alternates. The principal and each alternate will receive from the War Dept. a letter of appointment, and must appear for examination at the time and place therein designated; those previously accepted by Academic Board on certificate or mentally qualified, appearing for physical examination only. Should the principal and alternates not qualify for admission they will still be entitled to appear for the examination, but if the principal fails to appear for that examination, or, appearing, fails to qualify, then the qualifications of the alternates will be considered, and if only one has met the requirements he will be admitted; if both alternates have met the requirements, the better qualified will be admitted. Immediately after reporting to the Supt. for admission, the candidate must sign an engagement for service for 8 years, unless sooner discharged by proper authority. He shall also swear to support the Constitution of the U. S. and bear true allegiance to the National Govt.

The alternates, like the principal, should be designated as nearly one year in advance of the date of admission as possible. Candidates selected for appointment shall appear for mental and physical examination before boards of army officers to be convened at such places as the War Department may select, on the first of May, annually, except when that day comes on a Sunday, in which case the examination shall commence on the following Tuesday. Candidates who pass successfully will be admitted to the Academy without further examination upon reporting in person to the Supt. at West Point before 12 o'clock noon the 15th day of June of the same year.

Any cadet who has gone through all the classes may be commissioned as second lieutenant in any corps in which there may be a vacancy. Pending such vacancy, the President, at his discretion, may cause such promotion, subject to the usual pay and allowances.

No appointed candidate shall be admitted who is under 17 or over 22 yrs. of age, or who is deformed or afflicted with any disease or infirmity which would render him unfit for the military service, or who has, at the time of presenting himself, any disorder of an infectious or immoral character. Accepted candidates, if bet. 17 and 18 yrs. of age, should not fall below 5 ft. 3 in. in height and 100 lbs. in weight; if bet. 18 and 19 yrs., 5 ft. 3½ in. in height and 105 lbs in weight; if over 19, 5 ft. 4 in. in height and 110 lbs. in weight. Candidates must be unmarried. Each candidate must, on reporting at West Point, present a certificate showing successful vaccination within 1 yr.; or a certificate of two vaccinations, made at least a month apart, within 3 months.

Supt., Col. Hugh L. Scott; Commandant of Cadets, Lt. Col. F. W. Sibley.

UNITED STATES NAVY.

(See also Dept. of Navy in U. S. Govt. chap.)

The origin of the Navy Dept. may be said to date from Oct. 13, 1775, when Congress authorized the equipment of two cruisers, mounting respectively 10 and 14 guns. Before the end of that year 15 more vessels of from 20 to 36 guns were authorized. The affairs of the Navy were at that time entrusted to a "Marine Committee." In 1798 the present department was formally created and Benjamin Stoddart appointed the first secretary.

The active list of the Navy comprises 2,165 commissioned and 607 warrant officers on the active list, and 661 commissioned and 160 warrant officers on the retired list. The enlisted strength allowed by law is 44,500 men and apprentice seamen.

The United States Marine Corps consists of a force of 334 officers and 9,112 men. Major-General George F. Elliott is commandant.

The actual strength of the personnel of the Navy on Nov. 1, 1909, was 2,772 officers and 43,478 enlisted men—total, 46,250. There were lost to the Navy during the year ended June 30, 1909, 111 officers and 11,323 enlisted men. Of the officers 13 were killed in action or died from wounds or disease. Of the men 215 were killed in action or died from wounds or disease, the remainder representing men discharged at expiration of term of service, for disability, by sentence of court martial, desertions and retirements. In the Marine Corps on Nov. 1, 1909, there were 215 officers and 9,112 enlisted men. The corps lost 14 officers and 2,808 enlisted men during the year ended June 30, 1909.

OFFICE OF THE SUPERVISOR OF NAVAL AUXILIARIES.

Building No. 126 (Temporary Quarters.)
Supervisor, Rear Admiral L. C. Heilner,
Asst. Supervisor, Commander D. C. Redgrave.

This office was originally an adjunct of the Bureau of Navigation in Washington. Early in the year 1907 it was moved to Baltimore, and in October of the same year, transferred to New York, with quarters in the new Custom House. It was crowded out of the Custom House in October of 1908, and because no specific sum had been appropriated to cover office rent, it was transferred to the navy yard, where it will remain until such appropriation is made.

The navy yard location is not suited to its purposes, as it operates under the merchant marine laws, and its offices should be in the vicinity of the Battery where the shipping interests are congregated.

Capt. Heilner was promoted Nov. 16, 1909, to the grade of rear admiral.

This office controls all of the sixteen naval colliers, those supply ships that are commanded by civilian captains, and has jurisdiction, for inspection purposes only, over naval transports and supply ships that are commanded by commissioned officers of the navy.

Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

The students of the Naval Academy are styled midshipmen. Two are allowed for each Senator, Representative and Delegate in Congress, two for District of Columbia and five each year from United States at large. The appointments from District of Columbia and five each at large are made by the President. One is allowed from Porto Rico, who must be a native of that island. The appointment is made by the President on recommendation of the Gov. of Porto Rico. The Congressional appointments are equitably distributed, so that in regular course each Senator, Representative and Delegate in Congress may appoint one during each Congress. After June 30, 1913, each Senator, Representative and Delegate in Congress will be allowed to appoint but one midshipman instead of two.

The course for midshipmen is 6 years—4 at the Academy and 2 years at sea, at the expiration of which time examination for final graduation takes place.

Certificates from colleges and high schools will not be accepted in lieu of the entrance examinations at the Naval Academy; all candidates must take the prescribed mental and physical examination before being admitted.

Midshipmen who pass the examination for final graduation are appointed to fill vacancies in the lower grades of the line of the Navy and of the Marine Corps in order of merit.

Candidates allowed for Congressional Districts, for Territories and for the District of Columbia must be actual residents of the Districts or Territories, respectively, from which they are nominated. All candidates must, at the time of their examination for admission, be between the ages of 16 and 20 years. A candidate is eligible for appointment on the day he becomes 16 and is ineligible on the day he becomes 20 yrs. of age. The pay of a midshipman is $600 a year while at the Academy and $1,400 a year during the two years cruise at sea, pay commencing at admission. Supt., Rear Admiral Jas. H. Sands, Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

There are two preparatory schools in Annapolis for candidates for entrance into the U. S. Naval Academy—one conducted by Prof. J. R. Wilmer, the other by Prof. R. L. Wertz, both of Annapolis.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

The Philippine Archipelago is made up of Luzon, Visayas, Mindanao, Mindoro, Palawan and Sulu. The aggregate area of the 3,139 charted islands is 121,395.5 square miles, with a total population in 1908 estimated at 8,159,502, as follows: Civilized (all Christians), 7,475,824; wild (two-fifths Mohammedan, three-fifths savage), 682,678. The great bulk of the inhabitants are of Malay stock or origin. Of the total number of islands only about 342 are known to be permanently inhabited. The largest rivers are the Cagayan (220 miles), Pampanga (160 miles), Abra (75 miles), Pasig (18 miles)—all in Luzon—and the Rio Grande or Pulangui (292 miles) and Agusan (155 miles), both in Mindanao.

PORTO RICO.

Porto Rico is 108 miles east to west and 37 to 43 miles across; total area, 3,606 square miles. It is 1,050 miles from Key West, Fla. The rainy season lasts from Aug. to Dec. Porto Rico and adjacent islands lying east of the 74th meridian are governed under an act which became a law April 12, 1900, giving the island a civil government. The capital is San Juan. Persons who were Spanish subjects April 11, 1899, and who have not elected to preserve their allegiance to Spain are held to be citizens of Porto Rico, and entitled to the protection of the United States. The designation of the body politic is under the name "The People of Porto Rico." The Governor is appointed by the President and holds office for four years, having the powers conferred on governors of territories of the United States. He makes his reports to the Secretary of War through the Bureau of Insular Affairs. There is an executive council appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, consisting of a secretary, attorney general, treasurer, auditor, commissioners of interior and education, and 5 other persons, to hold office for 4 years. The Council is the upper branch of the Legislature, five of whom are natives of Porto Rico. The other branch is the House of Delegates, consisting of thirty-five members elected biennially by the qualified electors.

GUAM.

The Island of Guam was ceded to the United States by Spain by the treaty of Paris, signed December 10, 1898. It is 5,200 miles from San Francisco and 900 miles from Manila. It is in a direct line between San Francisco and the southern part of the Philippine Islands. It is 32 miles long and 100 miles in circumference; has a population of about 8,700, of which 5,219 are in Agaña, the capital. It is inhabited mostly by descendants of immigrants from the Philippines. Spanish is the prevailing language. It is thickly wooded, well watered, fertile. Commercial returns of Guam are grouped with those of Tutuila. Commander Edward D. Taussig, U. S. Navy, commanding the Gunboat Bennington, took possession of the Island and raised the United States flag over Fort Santa Cruz on February 1, 1899. There is a United States naval station at Agaña, in the harbor of Apra.

The Hawaiian Islands, annexed to the United States by the signature of the President July 7, 1898, lie in the North Pacific, little more than 2,000 miles west of the U. S., 3,400 miles from Yokohama and 4,800 miles from Hong Kong. The inhabited and only important islands of the group are 8 in number, comprising an area of about 6,700 sq. miles; the largest island, Hawaii, includes nearly two-thirds. They stretch out in a chain 400 miles long, running from southeast to northwest.

The islands are governed under a law enacted April 30, 1900. It provides that the islands shall be known as the "Territory of Hawaii," and that the capital shall be at Honolulu, on the Island of Oahu. The Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii consists of two houses, Senate and House of Representatives, styled "The Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii." The Senate is composed of 15 members, who hold office for 4 yrs. Senators must be citizens of the U. S. over 30 yrs. of age, and have resided in the Hawaiian Islands not less than 3 years. The House of Representatives is composed of 30 members, elected every second year. Representatives must be 25 yrs. of age, be citizens of the U. S., and must have resided in the Hawaiian Islands not less than 3 years. THE PANAMA CANAL ZONE.

Note—For details of the canal negotiations, see Eagle Almanac of 1905, page 361.

By the terms of the treaty with Panama of Feb. 26, 1904, the United States guarantees and is to maintain the independence of the Republic of Panama. The canal is to be neutral. The purchase price for the property of the Panama Canal Company was $40,000,000, and the sum of $10,000,000 was paid to the Republic of Panama. In addition, Panama is to receive an annual payment of $250,000 in gold during the life of the treaty, beginning nine years after date of ratification.

The total excavation of the canal on Sept. 1, 1909, aggregated 81,697,978 cubic yards, distributed as follows: Atlantic Division (including Culebra Cut), 42,418,091 cubic yards; Pacific Division, 19,354,323 cubic yards.

The total force of skilled and unskilled laborers of the Isthmian Canal Commission and the Panama Railroad Company actually at work September 1, 1909, was 32,758. During the fiscal year 3,357 men were brought to the Isthmus from the United States, Europe and the West Indies by the Commission, and statistics show that there was a total excess of immigration over emigration of 13,023, which shows that there is a source of labor supply independent of the men brought to the Isthmus by the Commission. The total amount of expenditure of the Canal Commission to June 30, 1909, was $171,849,271.75, including the $40,000,000 paid to the French Canal Company and the $10,000,000 paid to the Republic of Panama. There was a balance available on the first day of the new fiscal year of $42,057,732.09, including the 1910 appropriation of $33,638,000.00.

Lieut.-Col. Goethals' annual report (Nov. 1909), states that the first estimate of the total cost of the canal of $144,238,353, made by the board of Engineers in 1899-1901, and authorized by the Act of June 28, 1902, is now increased to $375,201,000. Of this amount $297,765,000 is for engineering and construction. The explanation of this difference is increased wages and gratuities.

During the year the designs for the upper locks at Gatun and the locks at Pedro Miguel were finished. These are in pairs, separated by a wall 60 feet thick, are 110 feet in width and have 1,000 feet of usable length. In the original plans for the canal the locks were to have had a width of 100 feet. The construction of such ships as the Delaware and North Dakota of the first line of battleships necessitated this change.

The great Gatun locks are nearly ready to begin the concrete and masonry work. For this purpose a plant for the manufacture of concrete has been installed with capacity of 2,400 cubic yards of concrete per day.

Culebra cut ranks with the Gatun dam and locks as the most difficult feat in the canal construction. The great cut will have a bottom width of 300 feet throughout its length. The mileage saved by the canal from New York to San Francisco is 7,796 miles.

CUBA.

The relations between the U. S. and Cuba are defined in what is known as the Platt Amendment to the Army Appropriation bill of 1901, the Cuban Constitutional Convention having accepted the conditions there imposed. For these conditions see 1909 Eagle Almanac.

A treaty between Cuba and the U. S. was concluded July 2, 1903, under which Cuba leased to the U. S. territory at Bahia Honda and Guantanamo, to be used as naval stations. The U. S. has established permanent barracks and a small force of men at Guantanamo.

After the election in March of 1906, insurrection against the government started, due to alleged wholesale frauds in voting. President Taft was sent there and became provisional governor Sept. 13, '06. Charles E. Magoon was appointed governor Oct. 9, '06, Palma having resigned. The elections on Nov. 14, 1908 passed off quietly with a majority of 65,000 for Gomez. President Roosevelt then turned Cuba over to its new government Jan. 23, 1909.

UNITED STATES TARIFF LAW OF 1909.

The Payne Tariff Law was passed at a special session of the first Congress and signed by President Taft on August 5, 1909. This law supplants the Dingley Act of 1897. The full list of duties under the new law in comparison with those of the old law is accurately and completely presented in Eagle Library No. 153, published by the Brooklyn Daily Eagle and purchasable at any Eagle Office for 10 cents. Congressman Payne has estimated that the revenue from the new tariff law will be increased about $4,000,000 annually. Following are his figures:

Tariff Treaties.

All reciprocal commercial agreements made under the former tariff law have been terminated, except five, which will be terminated as follows:

Great Britain, February 7, 1910.

Portugal, August 7, 1910.

Italy, August 7, 1910.

Spain, August 7, 1910.

Netherlands, August 7, 1910.

Corporation Tax.

The new tariff law contains a provision imposing a tax of 1 per cent. upon the net income, in excess of $5,000, of every corporation, joint stock company or association organized for profit and having a capital stock represented by shares, and every insurance company now or hereafter reorganized. The first tax will be levied in July, 1910. Corporations are expected to have their reports in by Mar. 1. It is required that the net income shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross income the ordinary expenses actually paid out of the income in the maintenance and operation of the business. The companies are required to make reports of their business and the government shall have the right to examine the same, and also to examine the books and papers of any company when, in its judgment, it is necessary. For the ascertainment of what is actually the net income, provision is made for the jurisdiction of the Circuit and District Courts of the United States, through which persons, books and papers may be summoned. This tax does not apply to labor, agricultural or horticultural organizations, or to fraternal beneficiary societies, operating under the lodge system, and providing for the payment of life, sick, accident and other benefits to the members of such societies, nor to domestic building and loan associations, organized and operated exclusively for the mutual benefit of their members, nor to any religious, charitable or educational organization, no part of the net income of which insures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual. This tax is made payable to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. In case any return is falsely made, 100% of the amount is added. In case of refusal or neglect to pay the tax 50% of the tax is added. When the assessments shall have been made by the Commissioner, they shall constitute a public record and be open for inspection. It is estimated that this tax will yield to the government about $25,000,000. Royal E. Cabell is the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Tariff Commission.

Under the Payne Tariff Law a tariff commission is provided for, appointed by the President, to investigate all phases of foreign commerce and the application thereto of tariffs. Such commission has been appointed by President Taft as follows: Professor Henry C. Emery of Yale, Chmn.; J. B. Reynolds, Mass., Asst. Sec. to Treas.; Alvin H. Sanders, Chicago, editor and proprietor Breeders' Gazette.

STATISTICS OF GOLD AND SILVER.

Imports and Exports of Gold and Silver, United States.

Troy weights are used, and while metric weights are by law assigned to the half and quarter dollar and dime, Troy weights still continue to be employed, 15.432 grains being considered as the equivalent of a gram, agreeably to the act of July 28, 1866. For statistics by years see 1909 Almanac, page 507.

One year's output of gold now—$440,000,000—equals a whole century's when the Spanish gold-seekers were despoiling the treasuries of Mexico and Peru.

Nine-tenths of the gold of the nineteenth century was mined after '49. In the past two years more gold has been mined than in the fifty years before '49.

Since 1900 the world has produced more gold than in the three and a half centuries from the discovery of America to the discovery of gold in California.

The United States, since '49, has produced $3,100,000,000 of new gold; Australasia, since 1851, $2,800,000,000; the Transvaal, since 1887, $1,100,000,000—a total of $7,000,000,000—three times the world's output in sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries combined.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE.

Officers—Three commissioners are appointed by the President to assist him in classifying the government offices and positions, formulating rules and enforcing the law. Their office is in Washington, D. C. The chief examiner is appointed by the commissioners to secure accuracy, uniformity and justice in the proceedings of the examining boards. The secretary to the commission is appointed by the President.

General Rules—The fundamental rules governing appointments to government positions are found in the civil service act itself. Based upon these are many other regulations formulated by the commission and promulgated by the President from time to time as new contingencies arise. The present rules were approved March 20, 1903, and went into effect April 15, 1903. In a general way they require that there must be free, open examinations of applicants for positions in the public service; that appointments shall be made from those graded highest in the examinations; that appointments to the service in Washington shall be apportioned among the states and territories according to population; that there shall be a period (six months) of probation before any absolute appointment is made; that no person in the public service is for that reason obliged to contribute to any political fund or is subject to dismissal for refusing to so contribute; that no person in the public service has any right to use his official authority or influence to coerce the political action of any person. Applicants for positions shall not be questioned as to their political or religious beliefs and no discrimination shall be exercised against or in favor of any applicant or employee on account of his religion or politics. The classified civil service shall include all officers and employees in the executive civil service of the United States except laborers and persons whose appointments are subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Examinations—These are conducted by boards of examiners chosen from among persons in government employ and are held twice a year and when the needs of the service require it in all the states and territories at convenient places. They can always be learned of by applying to the commission or to the nearest post office or custom house. Special examinations are held from time to time as the needs of the service require. Those who desire to take examination are advised to write to the commission in Washington for the "Manual of Examinations," which is sent free to all applicants. It is revised semi-annually on Jan. 1 and July 1. The January edition contains a schedule of the spring examinations and the July edition contains a schedule of the fall examinations. Full information is given as to the methods and rules governing examinations, manner of making application, qualifications required, regulations for rating examination papers, certification for and chances of appointment, and as far as possible outlines the scope of the different subjects of general and technical examinations. These are practical in character and are designed to test the relative capacity and fitness to discharge the duties to be performed. It is necessary to obtain an average percentage of 70 to be eligible for appointment, except that applicants entitled to preference because of honorable discharge from the military or naval service for disability resulting from wounds or sickness incurred in the line of duty need obtain but 65 per cent. The period of eligibility is one year.

Qualifications of Applicants—No person will be examined who is not a citizen of the United States; who is not within the age limitations prescribed; who is physically disqualified for the service which he seeks; who has been guilty of criminal, infamous, dishonest or disgraceful conduct; who has been dismissed from the public service for delinquency and misconduct or has failed to receive absolute appointment after probation; who is addicted to the habitual use of intoxicating liquors to excess, or who has made a false statement in his application. The age limitations in the more important branches of the public service are: Post office, 18 to 45 years; rural letter carriers, 17 to 55; internal revenue, 21 years and over; railway mail, 18 to 35; lighthouse, 18 to 40; life saving, 18 to 45; general departmental, 20 and over; clerks, draftsmen, bookkeepers, stenographers and typewriters, 18 and 20. These age limitations are subject to change by the commission. They do not apply to applicants of the preferred class. Applicants for the position of railway mail clerks must be at least 5 feet 5 inches in height, exclusive of boots or shoes, and weigh not less than 130 pounds in ordinary clothing and have no physical defects. Applicants for certain other positions have to come up to similar physical requirements.

Method of Appointment—Whenever a vacancy exists the appointing officer makes requisition upon the civil service commission for a certification of names to fill the vacancy, specifying the kind of position vacant, the sex desired and the salary. The commission thereupon takes from the proper register of eligibles the names of three persons standing highest of the sex called for and certifies them to the appointing officer, who is required to make the selection. He may choose any one of the three names, returning the other two to the register to await further certification. The time of examination is not considered, as the highest in average percentage on the register must be certified first.

Removals—No person can be removed from a competitive position except for such cause as will promote the efficiency of the public service and for reasons given in writing. No examination of witnesses nor any trial shall be required except in the discretion of the officer making the removal.

Salaries—Entrance to the departmental service is usually in the lowest grades, the higher grades being generally filled by promotion. The usual entrance grade is about $900, but the applicant may be appointed at $340, $760 or even $600.

The first Atlantic cable was completed in 1858, when the first message was received by President Buchanan from Queen Victoria. The second cable was in operation in 1866.

Citizenship—The State and Federal statutes declare the following persons to be citizens:

All persons born in United States and not subject to any foreign power, excluding Indians not taxed.

All persons legally naturalized.

All children born out of jurisdiction of United States, whose fathers are at time of their birth citizens thereof, but the right of citizenship shall not descend to children whose fathers have never resided in the United States.

A child born in a foreign country of a mother who is a citizen of the United States is not himself a citizen by reason of his mother's citizenship. The inhabitants of Hawaii are citizens of the United States by virtue of annexation. The inhabitants of the Philippines and Porto Rico, while entitled to citizenship, are not United States citizens until they do not enjoy the privileges of citizenship until Congress sees fit to admit them to the Union as States, or organizes them under a territorial form of government.

Naturalization—The applicant for citizenship must have resided in United States for the continued term of at least 5 years next preceding his admission, and 1 year within State or Territory where the court is held that admits him. Not less than 2 nor more than 7 years before his admission he must declare, on oath or affirmation, before any court of record, with seal, of unlimited jurisdiction, of any State or Territory, or before a Circuit or District Court of the United States, his intention to become a citizen, etc. The language excludes County Courts, hitherto having jurisdiction. Any person over 18 years of age may declare intention and every person desiring naturalization must declare intention. There is a fee of $1 for receiving and filing declaration of intention; of $2 for filing petition, and of $3 for making final order and issuing citizenship certificate. Question blanks for first or final papers may be had from court clerk.

NATURALIZATION AND QUALIFICATION OF VOTERS.

The petition must be accompanied by the affidavits of at least two witnesses who are citizens of the United States, who have known the applicant for at least five years and have known him to be a resident of the United States for five years.

Children of a naturalized citizen who become residents of the United States during their minority are entitled to citizenship without being naturalized.

Aliens of the age of 21 years and upward, who have enlisted in the armies of the United States, in the regular or volunteer forces, and have been honorably discharged, are entitled to become citizens upon petition, without previous declaration of intention, and are not required to prove more than 1 year's residence. Seamen of foreign birth, who have declared intention to become citizens, may be naturalized.

ized after 3 years' service on merchant ships. Seamen of U. S. navy and U. S. Marines, honorably discharged after 5 years of service, are entitled to citizenship upon presentation of discharge and affidavit of identity.

Naturalization forbidden to Chinese.

Residence—A residence once acquired continues to be the residence of a person until he absents himself therefrom and locates in another place with the intention of there remaining. For the purpose of voting, no person has gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while in the employ of the United States; nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of the United States, or while engaged in the service of the United States; nor while a student in any seminary of learning, while kept in an almshouse or institution wholly or partly supported at public expense or by charity, nor while confined in any public prison.

Qualifications of Voters—Every male citizen 21 years old is entitled to vote if he shall be on or before the day of election a citizen of the United States 90 days, a resident of the State 1 year, a resident of the county 4 months, a resident of the election district 30 days. A person otherwise qualified whose birthday is on the day following election is entitled to vote. A minor who has been convicted of felony and has served out his term during his minority is not entitled to vote on becoming of age. (See Eagle Library No. 182, pages 25, 26.)

HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION.
The dual celebration to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the discovery of the Hudson River by Hendrick Hudson in 1609, and the 100th anniversary of the successful inauguration of steam navigation upon the same river by Robert Fulton in 1807, was held by the State of New York, under the auspices of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission, from September 25 to October 9, 1909.

No celebration was ever before undertaken on anything like so large a scale, or that offered such a wide variety of events—naval, military and carnival parades, aquatic sports, air ship contests, etc. Appropriations of $75,000 were made by the State of New York and $50,000 by the City of New York, which were considerably augmented by private subscriptions and by appropriations of other municipalities along the Hudson Valley.

The celebration was inaugurated by the rendezvous of United States and foreign war ships in New York Harbor and the reception of replicas of the "Half Moon," built and presented by the people of Holland and manned by a crew in the costumes of the period of Hendrik Hudson, and of Fulton's "Clermont." Such an aggregation of warships of all nations has rarely been witnessed in any world harbor. The historical and carnival pageants and the military and naval parades were witnessed by the largest ever assembled at New York City. The historical pageants, which were novel and elaborate features of the celebrations, consisting of many enormous floats and growth of New York City and State, and many allegorical features, surpassing any other exhibition of the kind ever given. The fire-works and general illumination of public and private buildings excelled in brilliancy anything ever before attempted; the whole celebration, inclusive of the interest taken therein by residents of New York City and of the Hudson Valley and by visitors made the event an incident long to be remembered. The concluding days of the celebration, from October 3 to 9, were fittingly and elaborately observed by the various cities along the Upper Hudson. The further celebration of the event comprised the oration of St. Clair McKelway, followed by talks from various laymen, and clergymen in Brooklyn Academy of Music, also the arrival of the pageant at the head-on the arrival of the pageant at the head-waters of the Hudson.

THE NOBEL PEACE PRIZE.

The Swedish scientist, Alfred B. Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, died in 1896, bequeathing his fortune, estimated at $9,000,000, to the founding of a fund, the interest of which should yearly be distributed to those who had mostly contributed to "the good of humanity." The interest is divided in five equal shares, given away, "One to the person who in the domain of physics has made the most important discovery or invention, one to the person who has made the most important chemical discovery or invention, one to the person who has made the most important discovery in the domain of medicine or physiology, one to the person who in literature has provided the most excellent work of an idealistic tendency, and one to the person who has worked most or best for the fraternization of nations and the abolition or reduction of standing armies, and the calling in and propagating of peace congresses."

The prizes for physics and chemistry are awarded by the Swedish Academy of Science; that for physiological or medical work by the Caroline Institute (the faculty of medicine in Stockholm); that for literature by the Swedish Academy in Stockholm and the peace prize is awarded by a committee of five persons elected by the Norwegian Storting.

In accordance with these statutes the awarders of the prizes (the four above named institutions) elect fifteen deputies for two consecutive years, the Academy of Science electing six and he other prize awarders three each. These deputies elect for two consecutive years four members of the board of directors of the Nobel Institute, which board, exclusively of Swedes, must reside in Stockholm. A fifth member, he president of the board, is nominated by the Government. The board of directors has in its care the funds of the institution, and hands yearly over to the awarders of the prizes the amounts to be given away. The value of each prize is on an average $40,000. The distribution of prizes takes place every year on Dec. 10, the anniversary of Mr. Nobel's death.

QUEENSBORO BRIDGE.

The general plan for a cantilever bridge from 2d av., bet. 59th and 60th, Mhntn., across Blackwell's Island to an intersection with Jane st., L. I. City, was submitted to the Sec. of War, Dec. 2, 1899. Its estimated cost was $12,548,500, of which $3,400,000 was for the structure itself, $2,398,500 for land required in Mhntn. and $750,000 for land in L. I. City. Nov. 15, 1900, the ordinance authorizing construction was approved by the Mayor, and on Feb. 23, 1901, the plans were approved by the War Dept. March 29, 1901, the Aldermen authorized condemnation proceedings for the land required, and June 27, 1901, the contract for the construction of the 6 masonry piers was let to Ryan & Parker, for $745,547.

Construction of the piers was commenced July 19, 1901, and was completed June 10, 1904, at a total cost of $83,565.01. The contract for the steel superstructure was let to the Pennsylvania Steel Co., Nov. 20, 1903, for $5,132,985, and was completed June 15, 1908. The contract for power houses and elevator towers on the piers was let to the Williams Engineering and Contracting Co. on Dec. 31, 1903, for $685,000.

Other contracts have been awarded, bringing the total amount of contracts awarded up to $11,974,402.06 to Dec. 1, 1908.

The total length of this bridge, from the east side of 2d av., Mhntn., to Jackson av., Queens, including the Queens Plaza, is 8601 ft. The length of the spans are: Manhattan anchor span, 469.5 ft. West Channel span, 1,182 ft. Island span, 630 ft. East Channel span, 594 ft. Queens anchor span, 459 ft. The clear height over river channels is 135 ft. Plans were approved by the Art Commission Feb. 10, 1903.

The bridge was opened for pedestrians and vehicles on March 30, 1909. The celebration of the completion of the bridge was commenced June 12, 1909, under the auspices of the Queensboro Bridge Celebration Committee, of which Mr. William H. Williams, Jr., of Long Island City, was chairman. Very elaborate preparations were made, and the celebration was continued for a week. Governor Hughes spoke.

The operation of surface cars on the bridge began Sept. 19, 1909.

MANHATTAN BRIDGE.

When completed, the Manhattan bridge will be the greatest suspension bridge in the world.

On Dec. 2, 1899, the Bridge Com. forwarded to the Sec. of War plans for a wire cable suspension bridge to extend from the Bowery and Canal, in Mhntn., to Myrtle av., between Gold and Prince, in Bkln. The ordinance authorizing construction was approved by the Mayor Jan. 8, 1900, and Jan. 29, 1900, the Sec. of War approved the plans. The estimated cost was fixed at $15,833,600, of which $9,552,000 was for the structure, $4,000,000 for land in Mhntn., and $2,281,600 for land in Bkln. The Bkln. tower foundation contract was let to J. C. Rogers, May 1, 1901, for $471,757, and the foundation was completed in Dec. 1, 1902. The Mhntn. tower foundation contract was let to J. C. Rogers, Dec. 22, 1902, for $482,726.56, and the foundation was completed in March, 1904. Under Bridge Com. Lindenthal the plans as approved by the War Dept. and upon which construction was authorized were radically changed. These revised plans were approved by the Art Commission on March 10, 1903, and on July 3, 1903, the contract for masonry pedestals on top of the tower foundations was let to J. C. Rogers for $150,000. These pedestals were completed in Aug., 1904.

Bids for the two anchorages were opened Dec. 22, 1904. The Brooklyn anchorage contract was let to Kosmos Engineering Co., Jan. 24, 1905, for $1,212,554, and the Mhntn. anchorage contract was let to Williams Engineering and Contracting Co., Feb. 9, 1905, for $1,197,000. On Aug. 10, 1905, bids were opened for furnishing the metal work for the anchorages and constructing the towers, cables, suspenders and suspended superstructure. Five bids were received, that of the Pennsylvania Steel Co., for $7,243,739, being the lowest.

The contract was awarded to the Pennsylvania Steel Co., but this award was set aside by the courts on a taxpayer's action. Bids were again advertised for and the contract was awarded to the Ryan-Parker Construction Co. on June 15, 1906, at a price of $6,493,223.

On Sept. 20, 1907, the Brooklyn anchorage was completed. The anchorages are 237 ft. long by 182 ft. wide and contain 115,000 cubic ft.

On Oct. 8, 1907, the city acquired the title to most of the property required for both the Manhattan and Brooklyn approaches.

On Dec. 9, 1907, bids were opened for the construction of the masonry piers, surface and sub-surface changes and steel superstructure of the Manhattan and Brooklyn approaches.

The contract was awarded to John C. Rodgers at a price of $3,163,304, since which time the work has progressed rapidly.

The first wire for the temporary cables supporting footwalks was strung on June 15, 1908.

The first cable wire was strung August 1, 1908; the last one on Dec. 10, 1908. These four cables weight 6,300 tons and contain 37,883 galvanized acid steel wires. They are 239 ft. longer and $2\frac{1}{2}$ in. larger in diameter than those in the Williamsburgh bridge.

On December 10, 1908, an informal celebration of the completion of the cables was held at which Mayor McClellan and Bridge Com. Stevenson were present and warmly commended the record work of the contractors, the Carbon Steel Co., and sub-contractors, Glyndon Contracting Co.

The steel towers over which the cables are swung are 336 ft. high. They are constructed on masonry piers which extend 92 ft. below and 32 ft. above mean water level. The largest steel plates in these towers are 362 in. long, 88½ in. wide, and $2\frac{1}{2}$ in. thick, weighing each 16,460 pounds.

The erection work on the bridge and approaches is nearing completion. On June 18, 1909, a contract was entered into with the Lord Electric Co. for the construction of railings, roadway and footwalk pavements and track and electrical equipments, the total cost of which is $424,000. The total length of the bridge is 6,855 ft. and the extreme width 120 ft. The elevation above mean high water at center is 135 ft. Provision is made for 4 trolley and 4 elevated railway tracks, one 35-ft roadway and two 11-ft. promenades.

On Dec. 11, 1909, members of the Brooklyn League walked over the bridge.

On Dec. 31, the roadway was thrown open to the public and the bridge formally opened by Mayor McClellan and Bridge Com. Commissioner Stevenson, with celebration addresses at Brooklyn Club.

Passengers Crossing East River.

Under the direction of the P. S. Commission and the Dept. of Bridges, the count of all passengers crossing the East River was taken Nov. 16, 1909, 437,024 people went from Long Island to Manhattan, and 433,513 returned.

The count was made on the ferries, the Brooklyn Bridge, Williamsburg Bridge, Queensboro Bridge and Interborough subway. Travel over the Brooklyn Bridge increased 10,756 toward Brooklyn and 2,467 toward Manhattan over last year, while that over the Williamsburg Bridge increased 10,440 toward Brooklyn and 13,933 toward Manhattan. The ferries show a loss both ways, the travel toward Brooklyn being 30,027, and toward Manhattan 24,881 less than the year previous. The subway travel increased 14,098 toward Brooklyn, and 19,878 toward Manhattan. The result showed a net gain toward Brooklyn of 18,844. In the opposite direction, toward Manhattan, showed a net gain of 24,220, or about 5% gain one way and 6% the other.

By the end of the brief minute taken to read this paragraph the nations of the civilized world will have struck three million matches. That is the average for every minute of the twenty-four hours of the day. Seven billion is the enormous number for the entire year, and those living under the American flag are said to be responsible for the consumption of one-half of this amount.

THE TRANSPORTATION DEVELOPMENT OF BROOKLYN.

The transportation history of Brooklyn properly begins with that of the old mail routes of Kings County and the west end of Long Island. The earliest of these was established by King George II. in 1741, and it crossed the present-day Brooklyn from historic Fulton Ferry to equally historic, but now forgotten, DeNyse's Ferry, at Fort Hamilton. It was an integral part of the Royal Mail route from New Amsterdam to the King's Virginia colonies and the coaches that traversed it were escorted by troops of the King's soldiers. From that early start other coach roads and routes developed steadily, with interruption through the seven years of the American Revolution, into established stage routes which gave something that remotely approached a regular transit service to and from the heart of New York. The old Royal Mail route preserved in memory now only through the Brooklyn thoroughfare, King's Highway, was soon taken from Long Island and transferred to more direct routes across New Jersey. The local stage routes remained and developed rapidly.

In the first half of the last century these were already consequential carriers. Between Fulton Ferry, the chief point of crossing to New York at all times before the completion of the first bridge, and Fort Hamilton, for instance, was operated the "Church" line of coaches, carrying 15 passengers, running once a day, taking from two to three hours to make the single trip and charging 50 cents fare in each direction. Stage routes established in 1836 from Fulton Ferry to Flatbush only charged half this fare, and made more frequent trips. Their route ran through Flatbush avenue, thence across the present Prospect Park by way of what is now the Willink Gate and through Battle Pass, where a toll-gate stood until 1860, and so on through Atlantic street to Fulton Ferry. This stage route was constantly increasing in business until the coming of the horse cars.

The horse railroad was the first real step toward transit improvement in Brooklyn. True, the Long Island Railroad had been built from South Ferry through Atlantic avenue, in 1836, first to Jamaica and then a little later to Greenport as an integral part of a direct rail and steamboat route between New York and Boston, but its infrequent service of steam trains was of little value to Brooklynites as a method of local transportation. In fact, the tracks were torn out of Atlantic avenue in 1861 in favor of a roomier terminal at Hunter's Point, and not replaced to the terminal at Flatbush avenue until 1876.

The Brooklyn City Railroad Company, forerunner of all the present street railroad companies, was organized December 17, 1853, with a capital of $2,500,000. It immediately set about the construction of horse car lines in Fulton street from Fulton Ferry out, with branching routes through Court street, through Myrtle avenue and through Flushing avenue. The Court street line terminated for many years at Twenty-fifth street, which was a point of general transfer to the suburban district. Cars on these four lines began operation July 3, 1854, and a new era in Brooklyn transportation was acclaimed. The cars were crude affairs, stage-coach bodies set upon cast-iron wheels, grooved to fit the rail. Even after they had been lengthened, platforms added and otherwise improved they were still crude affairs compared with the Brooklyn trolley cars of to-day. They were half-lighted and ill-ventilated, and the heating system, in most instances, consisted of a litter of dirty straw in the floor of the car. There was not much comparison to be made between them and the present-day Brooklyn trolley, adequately heated and lighted by electricity and presenting the maximum seating capacity of all the various types of street cars in the country, any more than there was comparison to be made between the rough riding, primitive track of the horse car days with the heavy steel and concrete surface track construction that goes into Brooklyn streets to-day, or between the short-haul for which a six-cent fare, without transfers, was charged, and the universal Brooklyn street car fare of five cents to-day, with the broadest system of free transfers in the world. It would cost a man from eighteen to twenty-four cents to cross the community where to-day he makes the trip in much greater ease and comfort for a single five-cent fare.

The first open car made its appearance on Brooklyn streets in 1864. By that time the Brooklyn City Railroad had extended its tracks considerably, operating new lines to Greenpoint and through Flatbush, Greene and Gates avenues. But other surface car railroads had been organized and were operating in Brooklyn, which had already absorbed the old city of Williamsburgh. One of the earliest of these was the Grand Street & Newtown R. R. Co., which began the operation of its cars from Grand street ferry to Newtown, October 31, 1860. The following year saw the Brooklyn & Coney Island R. R. operating a horse car route through Smith and other streets to the ocean. Other early horse car lines were the Sackett, Hoyt and Bergen street, the Metropolitan Avenue, Brooklyn & Newtown, the Broadway R. R. to East New York, the Van Brunt Street & Erie Basin—which has never lost its identity as a separate railroad corporation—and the important system of railroads beginning at South Ferry, with a spur to Fulton Ferry, that ran out through Atlantic avenue.

The Crosstown Line was built in 1869 and, maintaining its separate existence for many years, achieved a noteworthy popularity and was, in a measure responsible for a change in routing for the Greenpoint cars of a rival system, from Sands street to Myrtle avenue. The following year saw the building of the Putnam-Halsey and the Third avenue routes. Other lines followed in quick succession, the Prospect Park and Coney Island built in 1874 and opened on October 9 of that year, being planned for horse car operation through Vanderbilt avenue to Ninth avenue and Twentieth street, where a change was made to steam cars bound for the ocean.

By the Centennial year of 1876 the then city of Brooklyn was pretty well gridironed with horse car lines, and a start had been made toward supplying transit facilities to the other parts of Kings county. Without the city limits the suburban type of steam railroad seemed to offer the best field for development. The rapidly growing popularity of Coney Island as a resort was also an important factor in the development of this type in the southern part of the county.

The earliest of the suburban railroads was built at the close of the Civil War and financed by C. Godfrey Gunther, who had won a deal of distinction as Mayor of New York. It was known as the Brooklyn, Bath and Coney Island, and its single-track line started from the horse car terminal at Third avenue and Twenty-fifth street, rounded Greenwood climbed the hill, followed New Utrecht avenue to the village of the same name, Bath Beach and what was then called Unionville, the present Ulmer Park. It was a crude affair, and incurred the enmity of the farmers of Gravesend and New Utrecht, but it was distinctly the forerunner of bigger and better things to come. The train—there was but one at first—made a trip in the morning and another in the afternoon, and the round trip fare from Twenty-fifth street to Unionville was fifty cents, an interesting contrast with a ten cent round trip fare, as at present, and a present day headway of seven to twelve minutes. Nor were the first crude trains to be compared in comfort or speed with the luxurious electric trains that now run through to these points, nor from Twenty-fifth street, but direct from Park row and downtown Brooklyn. Still Gunther's road was a beginning, and after a little time he found it necessary to make four or five trips a day. After that his patronage increased still further, yet the railroad was a failure financially.

Little better fortune seemed to await the other railroads of the same sort that linked

THE TRANSPORTATION DEVELOPMENT OF BROOKLYN—Continued.

Brooklyn to the beaches of Coney Island. The Prospect Park and Coney Island, popularly known as the Culver Line, was hardly more fortunate. It was built in 1875 and three years later the Brighton Beach road was built, running its train from its station at Willink Gate, Prospect Park, July 2, 1878, and from the Long Island station in lower Flatbush avenue on August 20 of the same year. The new York & Sea Beach R. R. was opened for traffic July 19, 1879. It ran from Sixty-fifth street, Bay Ridge, where it had excellent ferry connections to the Battery, New York, through Gravesend to an elaborate terminal at Coney Island, and was the most popular of any of these railroads. It was a financial failure, none the less. The railroad to Manhattan Beach was built in 1877, and originally ran from a terminal in Greenpoint. Later it was sold to and merged with the Long Island R. R. and this terminal abandoned.

Still, despite their pitiable failures as money earners, the suburban steam railroads pointed the way to the next step in the development

Brooklyn transportation facilities—the elevated railroads. After much discussion and many plans under consideration, work began late in 1884 on the actual construction of a Brooklyn elevated railroad, and on May 14, 1885, the operation of trains for passengers began from Washington street, through York street, Hudson avenue, Park avenue, Grand avenue, and Lexington avenue to Gates avenue and Broadway. This line formed the nucleus for what was known for more than a dozen years thereafter as the Brooklyn Union Elevated Railroad system. It was opened through Broadway to East New York on June 14, 1885, and Alabama avenue, September 5, 1885. Down town the line was extended to Fulton ferry, November 11, 1885. Three years later the Myrtle avenue line was built, being opened from Johnson and Adams streets, April 10, 1888, and on the Bridge station, September 1, 1888. The line down Broadway to the ferries was opened in the midsummer of the same year.

A line from the corner of Park and Hudson avenues and operating through from Fulton ferry and the bridge was opened to Atlantic and Flatbush avenues, November 5, 1888. Election Day, but was closed on the following day because of a serious accident at the right-angled crossing at Hudson and Myrtle avenues. A complete revision of the operating scheme of the Brooklyn Union Elevated failed with the abandonment and dismantling of the structure in Park avenue and more recently a similar fate for the Fulton Ferry line in Hudson avenue, north of Myrtle.

Under the new plan the Myrtle avenue line came the trunk of the system. It was extended through to Ridgewood, being opened to Rockoff avenue, July 20, 1889. In the meantime the right-angled crossing at Hudson and Myrtle avenues having been torn out, the Myrtle avenue elevated was completed, being opened to Thirty-sixth street, May 30, 1889.

Other additions were made to the Brooklyn Union Elevated system before it passed into the hands of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The extension of the Broadway line to Cross Hills via Fulton and Crescent streets was opened May 30, 1893, and the extension of Fifth avenue elevated to Sixty-fifth street, Bay Ridge, on Oct. 1 of the same year.

The Brooklyn Union had the Kings County Elevated as its chief competitor. Construction began on that system, which occupied the best part of Brooklyn's spinal cord—Fulton street—between at Fulton street and Red Hook lane in the autumn of 1885. The system was formally opened for traffic, April 24, 1888. A few years later it acquired the Brighton Beach Railroad and by means of a short elevated connection at Franklin avenue united it with itself.

But even the elevated railroads soon came to their limitations, although not until they, too, had faced financial disaster. The rapid development of electricity as a mechanical agent and its early application to the surface railroad problem boded no good for the elevated railroads. The street car lines had been struggling hard to throw off the use of horses as motive power. The immensely expensive and highly impractical cable was even considered and for a time, about 1885, Brooklyn had a road of this type in operation in Park avenue. Another road built through Montague street in 1891, is still in operation by cable.

It is a matter of historical interest that Brooklyn had one of the earliest of electric railroads in the country. The horse car gave way to electricity at the beginning of 1888. On May 5, 1893, general operation of trolley cars began upon the Brooklyn City Railroad. The other lines rapidly followed.

But there were other and greater developments coming for Brooklyn transit. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit system, comprising all the elevated railroads and practically all the surface car lines of Kings County, with extensive mileage in Queens, was being born. The Brooklyn City Railroad was placed in a fighting position by the organization of a powerful rival, the Nassau Electric Railway, which was chiefly a merger of existing lines, with Atlantic avenue as its main stem. Then the powerful Brooklyn City fought and won a bitter strike of its employes in the spring of 1895. A short time after that it was leased to the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company, the short cable road operating in Montague street, and after some little additional leases and transfers the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, one of the world's greatest passenger carriers, was born. The Nassau system, the Brooklyn, Queens County and Suburban, operating the surface car system with Broadway as its main stem, and some other less important lines were acquired and merged one by one and later both of the elevated systems of the city were brought into B. R. T.

The problems that confronted the owners of this great and newly consolidated property were stupendous. Most of the roads had been notoriously unsuccessful as money-makers and almost all of them were in a highly debilitated and ramshackle condition. The plant had been ravaged repeatedly by fires, the tracks were worn out, elevated structures weakened and the equipment represented almost every conceivable type of railroad car and locomotive. Almost the first step was to abolish the use of this last form of equipment. Despite the fact that electricity for the movement of heavy trains was still in an experimental state the Brooklyn Rapid Transit engineers took the problem in hand with the result that within a remarkably short time the unsatisfactory locomotives had been banished to the scrap-heap and the elevated railroads operated by electric third-rail exclusively. More than that, their service was immediately extended to include all of the former suburban steam railroads in Kings and annoying changes at outlying terminals were for the most part abolished.

But a matter of even greater importance was accomplished by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit management when in 1898—the same year that saw Brooklyn and New York consolidated into a single city—through surface car operation was begun across the Brooklyn bridge to Park row and the extra three-cent toll demanded of all Brooklyn passengers on all routes across the bridge abandoned. That one liberal step on the part of the Brooklyn system contributed many millions of dollars to the value of realty in the borough.

Nor was this all. The elevated lines have been extended to Canarsie and to Middle Village in Queens, the Brighton Beach line reconstructed into the model four-track electric high-speed railroad of the world, surface and elevated routes established across the Williamsburg bridge, many miles of new surface lines constructed, fireproof car barns, shops and powerhouses of types that are recognized as models were built, the elevated structures rebuilt and reinforced at enormous cost, a thousand new cars constructed, while fares have been steadily reduced. The present day Brooklyn trolley car or high-speed electric train is a far cry from the mail coach that used to traverse the King's Highway.

HOW TO SECURE COPYRIGHTS.

Subjects of copyright—The author, inventor, designer, or proprietor of any book, map, chart, dramatic or musical composition, engraving, cut, print, or photograph or negative thereof, or of a painting, drawing, chromo, statue, statuary, and of models or designs intended to be perfected as works of fine arts, and executors, administrators, or assigns of any such person shall, upon complying with the provisions of the copyright law, have the sole liberty of printing, reprinting, publishing, completing, copying, executing, finishing and vending the same; and, in the case of a dramatic composition, of publicly performing or representing it or causing it to be performed or represented by others; and authors or their assigns shall have exclusive right to dramatize and translate any of their works for which copyright shall have been obtained under the laws of the United States. The words "engraving," "cut" and "print" shall be applied only to pictorial illustrations or works connected with the fine arts, and no prints or labels designed to be used for any other articles of manufacture shall be entered under the copyright law, but may be registered in the Patent Office.

NICARAGUAN REBELLION.

Rebellion broke out in the early part of October, 1909, against the government of José Santos Zelaya, in Nicaragua. Zelaya had been elected President in 1906, and his term would have lasted until 1912. Nicaragua has thirteen departments corresponding to American states, and a population of about half a million. Her commerce with the United States is through the ports of Greytown and Bluefields on the Atlantic coast. It was the Atlantic coast departments which were most dissatisfied. Juan J. Estrada led the revolt, which was understood to have a strong backing among men representing American interests. The rebels captured Greytown, Bluefields and Cape Gracias a Dios. They were reinforced by hundreds of exiles from Costa Rica and Guatemala, and marched west to attack Zelaya, who held Corinto, the only good harbor on the Pacific coast, and Managua in the interior, which is Nicaragua's capital. Rather vague news of the engagements was given out, in each case by the insurgents, and in each case asserting an insurgent victory. Greytown, however, was recaptured by the Zelaya men, and immediately besieged by a force of rebels.

The United States had not recognized the belligerency of the rebels. On November 12, at 10 A.M., in Managua, President Zelaya had two Americans shot on the public plaza. It is reported that they were tortured before being killed. They were Leonard Groce and Leroy Cannon, both officers in the army of Estrada. Secretary of State Knox demanded an explanation, and got none that was satisfactory. On November 30 he broke diplomatic relations with Nicaragua, hinting in a note to the Zelaya Charge d'Affaires that the United States would hold each side responsible for any injury to Americans in Nicaragua, and that it would withhold any demand for indemnity till the personal responsibility for the fate of Groce and Cannon could be fixed. Simultaneously United States war vessels were ordered to Greytown, and to Corinto. A force of several hundred marines was gotten on the way as soon as possible. Many unsubstantiated rumors of the slaying of political prisoners in Managua have confused the new frame. On November 29 started a warship from Martinique to Greytown to protect French property, but notified the United States that she contemplated no interference with what our government was doing. Mexico has since then offered to act as mediator, but her services have been politely declined by Secretary Knox.

On Dec. 16 President Zelaya resigned his office, his place to be filled by a congress in his own control. The next day he cabled President Taft, saying that he would leave Nicaragua, but stood ready to account for his acts. There was no change in the State Department policy. On Dec. 21 there was battle at Rama between the Zelaya men and Gen. Gonzales and Estrada's forces. About 6 were killed or wounded. The rebels won 1,900 government soldiers surrendered. The wounded were taken to Bluefields, and surgeons were landed from the Des Moines to care for them. Col. Gabe Conrad of Louisiana handled the machine gun for the insurgents.

FOR CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

Conditions Governing Payments to Charitable Institutions.

The appropriations in this Budget are made subject to the following conditions:

1. The accounts and records of all charitable institutions receiving public moneys shall be so kept as to show all receipts, disbursements and population in such form as shall be satisfactory to the Comptroller. Records must show the addresses of parents, guardians or nearest relatives of inmates and other information designed to facilitate inquiry into their financial inability to make provision for dependents in the institutions.

2. Moneys received from the City Treasury shall be used by such institutions for recurring expenses of "care, support, education and maintenance."

3. All institutions receiving public moneys and all their books of record and accounts shall at all reasonable times be open to the visitation, inspection and examination of duly authorized representatives of the Department of Finance and at all proper times the Department of Public Charities shall have access to the record of inmates.

4. Upon its appearing to the satisfaction of the Comptroller that it would be to the public interest to withhold payments to any charitable institution for which an apportionment has been made, he shall in his discretion suspend payments and give written notice to such institution of his intention to apply to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for authority to cease making further payments, and upon the determination of said board that such payments shall terminate the right of any such institution to receive payment for services rendered thereafter shall thereupon end.

5. Where apportionments are made upon a per capita basis for inmates of private charitable institutions, there will be no payments unless the inmates shall have been accepted by the Commissioner of the Department of Public Charities as proper charges against the city; and except in emergency cases, the Commissioner of Charities shall not accept as proper charges persons capable of paying for their own support, or for whose care adequate provision can be made in public hospitals.

In determining the acceptance of patients in private hospitals as proper charges, the Commissioner of Charities shall first consider the nature of the services actually rendered to the patients by the hospitals. The records of the institutions and the bed-card notes showing the treatment given shall be received as the essential evidence in deciding acceptances or rejections. The city shall not be liable for any payment to charitable institutions in excess of the apportionment which may have been made to such institutions, notwithstanding the acceptances of the Commissioner of Charities or any per capita rates of payment that may have been fixed for the inmates thereof.

6. All institutions receiving money from the city are required to state specifically the amount so received, as from the City Treasury, in their printed annual reports.

7. No money shall be paid to any private charitable institution which pays any salary to or gives any consideration, financial or of any kind, for services to, or that has any business dealing with, or secures goods or merchandise, directly or indirectly, from any officer or trustee or member of its Board of Managers.

8. That charitable institutions for children now carried in the budget and not sending their inmates to the public schools, and not sharing in the corporate school fund, and not receiving teachers and school supplies from the Board of Education, but giving in their own building secular education to the children resident in the institutions, shall be paid a per capita of 7 cents per day, five school days in the week for each child of four years of age and over receiving such instruction during public school year. This money to be paid under the authorization of Sec 230 of the Charter, but under the general conditions relating to institutions receiving corporate school money, as provided in Section 1154.

9. Magistrates are requested to transfer dependent, and when judicious, no proper guardianship children, and all cases coming to their attention in the courts where no crime is proven against the child, to the Commissioner of Charities, who can commit to institutions. Magistrates are earnestly requested not to commit a dependent child to an institution on a court commitment.

10. The Commissioner of Charities is instructed to take such steps, either by appeal to the national authorities or by proper bills to the Legislature, as to provide that the children of emigrants abandoned within one year after arrival in this city be returned to the country whence they came.

11. No dependent child under sixteen years of age shall be accepted as a proper charge upon the city and no money will be paid for the care, support, maintenance or education of such child unless it shall have been lawfully committed to a suitable private charitable institution having its own plant and equipment for the proper protection and care of children, under the supervision of the State Board of Charities, and has been placed in this Budget by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

This order has no relation to the class of children of such mental and physical condition as those cared for in the city institution at Randalls Island.

INFORMATION FOR TAXPAYERS.

Assessments are made by the Deputy Tax Commissioners. They commence to assess real and personal property on first Tuesday of Sept. and complete their work before the second Monday of the following Jan. The State Tax Law directs, that all property, real and personal, shall be assessed at its full value. The Charter of The City of New York requires the Deputy Tax Commissioners to assess and furnish the Board of Taxes and Assessments a detailed statement of all property, showing that said deputies have personally examined the same; also the sum for which said property, under ordinary circumstances, would sell.

When assessment books are open for inspection and correction—The annual records of the assessed valuation of real and personal property in each borough are open for public inspection, examination and correction from the second Monday of Jan. until the first day of April in each year.

Application for correction—Between the second Monday of Jan. and the 31st of March, application may be made to have assessments corrected. Applications for correction of assessed valuation of real estate must be made in writing, stating ground of objection thereto. The Board of Taxes and Assessments examines into the complaints, and if the assessment is erroneous, it causes same to be corrected. Applicants for the correction of the assessed valuation of their personal estate are required to be examined under oath by a Commissioner of Taxes and Assessments, and if the Board determines the assessment to be erroneous it causes same to be corrected.

When assessed valuations may be increased or diminished—The Board of Taxes and Assessments may increase or diminish at any time before the first day of April the assessed valuation of any real or personal property as may be just and necessary for the equalization of taxation; but not increase such valuations after the books of annual record are open for correction and review except upon notice given to the individual or corporation affected by such increase, at least ten days before the 15th day of April, in each year.

The power to remit or reduce a tax—The Board of Tax Commissioners may remit or reduce, if found excessive, a tax imposed upon real or personal property.

Certiorari to review final determination—A certiorari to review or correct on the merits and final determination of the Board of Taxes and Assessments in regard to assessment of real or personal property may be begun at any time before first day of Nov. in the year in which the determination sought to be reviewed or corrected is made.

The certified assessment rolls must be completed and delivered to the Board of Aldermen on the first Monday of July. The corrected assessment rolls must be delivered by the Board of Aldermen to the Receiver of Taxes on or before Sept. 15. All taxes become liens on real estate affected on the first Monday of Oct. Taxes payable on the first Monday in Oct.

Directions as to payment of taxes—Persons applying for tax bills must state whether tax is on personal or real estate; before paying any tax bill it should be examined to see if it embraces all property on which it is intended to pay taxes, and that no mistake is made in the section or ward, block and lot numbers of real estate.

Persons applying for tax bills should be careful to compare their deeds with the maps in the office of the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments to see they have correct section or ward, block and lot number before making payment. If taxes shall remain unpaid on the 1st day of Nov., interest will be charged at 7 per cent. per annum, and will be calculated from the first Monday of Oct. If personal taxes are not paid by Jan. 15 the receiver of taxes may issue his warrant to the Marshal for collection by distress and sale.

Real estate taxes not paid June 1 are returned to the Bureau for the Collection of Arrears.

Personal Property Exemptions.

The term "personal property" includes all property other than real estate; for example: Household furniture, chattels, money, things in action, debts due from solvent debtors, whether on account, contract, note, bond or mortgage, debts and obligations for the payment of money due or owing to persons residing within the state, however secured, or wherever such securities shall be held, debts due by inhabitants of this state to persons residing within the United States for the purchase of real estate, public stocks, stocks in moneyed corporations, and such portion of the capital of incorporated companies liable to taxation on their capitals not invested in real estate.

Among the various classes of "personal property" exempt from taxation may be enumerated the following: Property exempted by constitution of State, of United States, or by act of the Legislature. All property contained in the buildings of any incorporated academy, seminary of learning, or of a religious or charitable character. All property exempt by law from execution other than an exempt homestead. (Articles enumerated in Sec. 1839 and 1890 of the Civil Code.) Professional instruments, furniture and library, not over $250.

The pay and bounty of a non-commissioned officer, musician or private in military or naval service of the U. S.; a land warrant, pension or other reward granted by the U. S. or by a State for military or naval services; a sword, horse, medal, emblem, device, etc. But if the pension funds have been embarked in business and mingled with other funds so as to be incapable of identification, they are not exempt either as personal property or in real property, if the claim is made that the same has been purchased therewith, only proportionately as such pension fund can be identified. The Asteroids and Vesta.

Between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter there is a group of planet-like bodies, numbering about 500, all generally invisible to the unaided eye. One, Vesta, can be seen with good eyes when brightest by knowing just where to look for it. An opportunity to see her will occur in 1910, in September and October, but not again until in February, 1912. She will be at her opposition and brightest October 28, in the constellation Cetus, the Whale. She will, on that occasion be moving westward past the stars in the head of the Whale. The last of September she will be almost 2° north of the brightest star in that constellation, Menkar, and early in November, 5° N. of Mira, the wonderful variable star. It will be interesting to watch her pass 1° N. of Gamma Ceti, October 10, and 4° N. of Delta Ceti on the 13th. These stars are of the fourth magnitude or about two degrees magnitude brighter than Vesta. On October 28 Vesta will be on the meridian at midnight and about 40° up from the southern horizon in Lat. 40° N.

DISCOVERY OF THE NORTH POLE.

COMMANDER PEARY.

After nearly four hundred years of effort by men of many nations, the North Pole was reached on April 6, 1909, by Commander Robert E. Peary of the United States Navy, who now stands unchallenged as the only white man who has ever stood at the top of the earth. A claim set up by Dr. Frederick A. Cook of Brooklyn that he reached the Pole on April 21, 1908, has now been discredited, and Cook's so-called proofs have been thrown out as worthless by the University of Copenhagen, upon whose scientists Cook relied for substantiation of his story.

The Peary and Cook announcements reached the civilized world within five days of each other, last September, Cook being first to make the claim. Peary, when he heard of Cook's claim, promptly stamped it as fraudulent. In the bitter controversy which followed, Peary was criticised for what was believed to be an ungenerous and, jealous attitude toward a fellow explorer. After the Cook story had been exploded by scientists, there was a great revulsion of popular opinion in favor of Peary, it being then recognized that he knew whereof he spoke and that he was justified in branding the Cook claim as soon as he heard of it.

The National Geographical Society of the United States, after examining Peary's records, unqualifiedly accepted them as proof of his achievement. The Danes, upon whom Cook relied, just as positively discredited his data. Cook's disappearance from view during the latter part of the controversy also had much to do with the reversal of public opinion.

Concerning the matter which follows, it must be borne in mind that the account of Cook's expedition is made up solely from his own statements, since so thoroughly discredited.

Peary's Discovery of Pole, April 6, 1909.

Com. Peary with his crew left New York Harbor on July 6, 1908, aboard the steamship Roosevelt, which had been built by the Peary Arctic Club in 1905. Robert A. Bartlett was captain. On Aug. 7, Cape York was reached and Cape Sabine was passed on August 17. Cape Sheridan was made on Sept. 5 and there the party went into winter quarters. Aside from Com. Peary, Capt. Bartlett and the many Eskimos there were also in the party John W. Goodsell, surgeon; George Borup, photographer; Prof. Donald B. McMillan of Worcester Academy, Matthew Henson, negro aid to Peary, and Prof. Ross G. Marvin of Cornell, who was drowned on April 10, 1909. During the early winter a base of supplies was established at Cape Columbia. From here the party started to move on Feb. 15, Capt. Bartlett going with one of the divisions and Com. Peary following on Feb. 22. There were 17 Eskimos and 137 dogs. Varying from Cook's expedition, the party did not all travel together, there being more men to spread along the trail. At lat. 82° 20' Bartlett's trail was lost, due to the wind and open ice floes. Bartlett detached Borup to return and find Peary. He missed him, but ran across Marvin, who had been sent out by Peary. Together they hastened to catch up, but it was not until March 15 that they joined the party, which had already crossed the 85th parallel. Dr. Goodsell and Prof. McMillan had been sent back to Cape Columbia the day previous. When lat. 86° 38' had been reached,

March 23, Marvin was sent back to Cape Columbia. There remained only 9 men, 7 sledges and 60 dogs. From here the ice was more level and the going better. On March 28 Peary caught up to the path breakers, but the whole party came very near losing their lives that night. A waterway was discovered to be widening near the camp and it was only in the nick of time that the party was saved from being dragged into the water or crushed by the ice. After two days of marching the 85th parallel was nearly reached and Capt. Bartlett was ordered to return. This was April 1. On April 4 the 89th parallel had been crossed, the way becoming much smoother, but very dangerous in places, due to the new ice.

The next march brought them to 89° 25'. The next day, after a wonderful march of 40 miles, the instruments showed a reading of lat. 89°, long. 57°. It did not take long to get to the top. Thirty hours were spent here in taking observations and in a cold, but enthusiastic, celebration. Unlike Cook, Peary had little trouble on his return trip. Everything was left behind which possibly could be, and Cape Columbia was reached on April 23 and the Roosevelt on April 27, 1909, a record breaking trip across the northern ice. By July 18 the Arctic boat was prepared to leave her winter quarters as the summer had quite released her from the solid ice. Cape Sabine was passed on Aug. 8. On Aug. 23 the Jeanie was sighted 100 miles north of Cape York. This boat had been sent out as a relief. The expedition arrived at Indian Harbor on Sept. 5, where the Roosevelt went under repairs. On Sept. 21 Peary landed at Sydney, where he and his crew were accorded a hearty welcome. The Roosevelt figured in the Hudson-Fulton parade Oct. 1. Peary was aboard.

On Nov. 3, Com. Peary was voted a gold medal by the National Geographical Society of the United States.

Cook's Narrative of Polar Discovery.

In the summer of 1907 Dr. Cook and John R. Bradley, a wealthy New Yorker, co-operated to make an attempt for the North Pole. A suitable yacht was found and reconstructed and fitted out for the trip, being named the John R. Bradley. The yacht sailed from Gloucester on July 3, 1907. The last of August, Etah, at the upper extremity of Baffin's Bay, was reached. Near there at Anoraktok all the provisions and equipments were landed and the Bradley turned back. Dr. Cook organized the many Eskimos who were gathered there for the hunts, and determined to start his 700-mile dash in winter, when there would be fewer open lanes of water and shifting ice floes. By Feb. all was ready and on the 19th the party comprising 11 selected Eskimos, 11 sledges and 103 picked dogs, left for the North. Crossing the sound they reached Ellesmere Land. Bears were hunted each day as the party made its way across. After reaching the western coast the party turned in a northerly direction and followed the coast down to the mouth of Nansen Sound. There six of the Eskimos were sent back and after a few days' rest camp was again broken on March 21. The cold so far had been terrific, the lowest recorded being -83° Fahr. The remainder of the journey was to be made over the ice-covered Arctic Ocean. In some of the places there was open water and moving ice and the task of reaching the North Pole looked by no means easy. After working their way 60 miles further north all the Eskimos were left behind but Etukishook and Ahwelah, with 26 dogs. On March 30 an observation showed N. lat. 84° 17', long. 86° 36'.

Dr. Cook's narrative of the final stages of the journey is substantially as follows:

The wind had been fierce and travel painful, with nothing ahead but a plain of moving ice. No sign of life in the air or on the surface helped to break the monotony. Nine days carried them 100 miles. Beyond the 86th parallel ice became smoother and more firm. There were not so many high and irregular fields of it. On April 14 the instruments read lat. 88°

PEARY'S ROUTE TO THE POLE.

The map also shows the route which Cook alleged that he followed.

21', long 95° 52'. Almost as soon as water appeared in cracks of the ice it froze again and there was no delay now, except that the dogs were dying one by one due to the intense cold. They were greedily eaten by the other dogs. On April 21 the sextant read 89° 59' 48" lat. A few more steps and the top of the earth was reached. It was too cold to do much celebrating. The Stars and Stripes were quickly planted, some observations taken and after another night the party set out for the return to Nansen Sound, where a store of provisions lay. The journey back was more perilous than ever. The sky was low, the sun hidden and strong winds, open water and moving ice greatly retarded travel. Food was running low. When at last an observation of the sun could be made, it was found they had drifted southwest and were separated from Nansen Sound by impassable seas. Fortunately some bears and walrus appeared on the scene and saved them from sure starvation. On June 30 Ringnesland was reached. The end of Jones Sound was made about Sept. 1, and the journey up the East coast of Ellesmere Land commenced. All the time starvation was staring them in the face and as the ammunition was practically all used, bows and arrows made from pieces of the sledges and straps were the only weapons for killing game. At last Etah was reached. The party traveled southward, reaching Upernavik in May, 1909. After a wait of some days Dr. Cook set sail on the Hans Egede bound for Copenhagen. It was from this boat that the world received its first message of the discovery. The boat reached port Sept. 4. A banquet was given Dr. Cook that evening by the Geographical Society. During his stay he was decorated by the King of Sweden with the Order of Merit. Dr. Cook arrived in New York on the Oscar II. Sept. 21. He was royally welcomed by the citizens.

Dr. Cook's data went before the University of Copenhagen and was quickly rejected on the ground that it contained no proof of his claim.

ANTARCTIC DISCOVERIES.

South Polar exploration has not attracted attention so insistently as has North Polar exploration, because by the latter the North-west Passage was expected to be found. The latest South Polar expedition was that of Lieut. E. H. Shackleton, British Navy.

Lieut. Shackleton left England in the ship Nimrod, July, 1907. Hut Point, in McMurdo Bay was reached early in Feb. 1908, S. lat. 76° 50'. Here headquarters were made and the Nimrod sent back. During the Southern autumn and winter every preparation was made, and on Nov. 2, 1908, the expedition again set out. Professor David had already been sent with some of the party to explore the South magnetic pole. On Nov. 26, Captain Scott's furthest south, 82° 16½' was reached, and on Dec. 1, 83° 16' was passed. There is not space here to devote to the narrative of the hardships encountered. The furthest south, 88° 23' was reached on Jan. 9, 1909, after crossing probably the greatest glacier in the world, which leads to the plateau on which the South Pole is situated. Prof. David's party reached the magnetic pole on Jan. 16. Lat. 72° 25', long. 154° E. The expedition returned to Invercargill, N. Z., on March 22. Over a hundred new mountain peaks were discovered during this trip, and Mt. Erebus, 13,350 ft., the southernmost volcano, was ascended for the first time. The expedition was very valuable to science.

A French exploring expedition on the Pourquoi Pas, under supervision of Dr. Charcot, is now in the Antarctic.

Commander Robert F. Scott is organizing an expedition for the attainment of the South Pole.

Halley's Comet.

Halley's Comet will probably be visible to the unaided eye March, 1910, after it comes out from behind the sun. Before May 18 it will appear in the east in the morning and after that date in the western sky in the evening. It is believed that the earth will pass through its tail on that date. Halley's Comet is named after the great English astronomer who first proved its periodical return, identifying the comet of 1682 with that of 1456, 1531 and 1607 by careful observations in 1682 and comparisons with records of earlier appearances. Halley's Comet traverses its orbit in about 75 years; it appeared, as Halley predicted, in 1759 and again in 1835.

NEW YORK CITY WATER FRONT.

The water frontage of Greater New York, including Newtown Creek (3 miles)—less the small islands—measures 341.22 lineal miles.

Brooklyn.

From Newtown Creek south are passed successively large establishments for almost every class of industries, the piers of the Williamsburg Bridge, Wallabout Market shipping basin, railroad freight terminals, the Navy Yard water front, the piers of the Manhattan and Brooklyn Bridges. The ferries to Manhattan start from ft. of Greenpoint av., Grand st., B'way, Main, Fulton, Montague sts., and Atlantic av. Going north the Hunter's Point Ferry, Penn. R. R. tunnel, Astoria Ferry, Queensboro Bridge and the connecting line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, now building. South are situated the important railroad terminals in Williamsburg, at Jay st., Montague st., Baltic st. and at Forty-third st. These handle much of the Western manufactured goods for the department stores.

Adjoining Hamilton av. is the Atlantic Basin, under control of N. Y. Dock Co. The largest vessel can enter it in any stage of tide. It covers an area of 40 acres, included between Piers No. 33, 1,250 ft. long by 166 wide, and No. 38, 880 ft. long by 165 ft. wide, with railroad tracks running along each.

The Erie Basin covers 161 acres and is protected by a mile of breakwater. It contains 2 large covered piers and 8 smaller open piers, stores for grain having capacity of over 3,000,000 bu. 500 to 700 canal boats seek winter protection in this basin, the crews and families of which form a colony of over 2,000 persons.

The dry docks here are among the largest in the United States. From the ft. of Court and Clinton sts. to 25th st. are various vessel building firms. In succession follow land and water front between 26th and 35th sts., taken by city for a public market; E. R. T. E. R. Co. property; the 39th st. Ferry approach, the Naval Reserve Corps, land for armory (51st to 52d st.); the terminal for L. I. R. R. at 63d to 65th sts. From 65th, at the foot of the bluff, on to Gravesend Bay runs the Bay Ridge parkway.

At 84th st. is the Crescent Athletic Club House; farther on the U. S. Govt. reservation and defenses of Ft. Hamilton; Bath Beach, Bensonhurst, Sea Gate, W. Brighton, Brighton Beach, Manhattan Beach, Pt. Breeze, Sheephead Bay, Bergen Beach and Canarsie, on Jamaica Bay, and Rockaway Beach, Arverne, Wave Crest, Isle of Wight and Far Rockaway take up the bay and ocean shore to the extreme eastern limit of N. Y. City, making a total water front of 33 miles.

Manhattan and Bronx.

Beginning at Battery Park going along the shore line of the Hudson River are: The Aquarium, headquarters of the fireboats, the Dock Dept., occupying Pier A, Washington Market at ft. of Fulton st. W. Washington Market at ft. of 12th st. The piers number from 1 to 91. Between Perry and Gansevoort sts. are the landing piers of foreign steamships. Between Bloomfield and W. 23d sts. is the Chelsea Improvement. At Barrow st., W. 51st st. and W. 129th st. are recreation piers. Between W. 153d and W. 158th sts. are Trinity Cemetery and Audubon Park. Ft. Washington and Ft. Washington Park are between W. 170th and W. 185th sts. At W. 219th st. is the mouth of the Spuyten Duyvil Creek and the Harlem Ship Canal, which connects the Hudson and Harlem rivers. Beyond Mt. St. Vincent, 15 miles from the City Hall, is the northern limit of the city. The ferries are at ft. of Liberty, Cortland, Barclay, Chambers, Franklin, Desbrosses, Christopher, 23d, 24th, 42d, 130th sts.

Following the East River shore line from the southeast corner of Battery Park are located the ferry to Liberty Isl., the Barge office, a department of the customs, a bureau of immigration office of the U. S. Marine Hospital, ship news office and ferry to Governors Isl., the ferries to Staten Isl. and 39th st., South Bkln. and the ferries to Hamilton av. and Atlantic av., South Bkln. At Wall and Fulton sts. are ferries to Bkln. Between Fulton and Beekman sts. is the principal wholesale fish market of the city. At Roosevelt st. are the western piers of Bkln. Bridge. At Pike slip are the west piers of Manhattan Bridge. Corlears Hook Park is between Jackson and Corlears sts. Between Broome and Delancey sts. is the anchorage and west piers of the Williamsburg Bridge.

E. 26th to 28th sts. is Bellevue Hospital. Between ft. of E. 59th and 60th sts is western anchorage of Queensboro Bridge. At the head of L. I. Sound is Pt. Morris; two miles beyond the Bronx R., the limit of city improvements, empties into L. I. Sound. At Throg's Neck, farther on, is located Ft. Schuyler. Pelham Manor is the northern and eastern limits of Greater New York. Total water front of Manhattan Island available for vessels is about 25 miles, 13 miles on North River and 9 on East River, the remainder on the Harlem.

Queens.

Across the Sound from Pelham Manor to Long Island is Little Neck Bay. On the western side of the bay is Willets Point. Whitestone, College Point, Flushing, North Beach, Steinway, Astoria and Ravenswood line the shore to L. I. City.

Staten Island.

St. George is the municipal ferry terminal between Mhtn. and Staten Island. The U. S. lighthouse establishment is at Tompkinsville. At Stapleton is building a second landing for the municipal ferry. Then comes the quarantine boarding station and the fortifications on the west side of the Narrows. South of the Narrows is So. Beach, a seaside resort. Adjoining is Midland Beach. Various manufacturing industrial plants follow. At the northwest point of the island is the abutment of the Arthur Kills railroad bridge, which connects the States of New Jersey and New York. High Pressure System.

BROOKLYN.

Boundary: East River to Navy Yard, to St. Edwards, to Ashland pl., 4th av., Dean, Clinton, Harrison, Henry Rapalye, Columbia, Erie Basin, to East River, to point of beginning.

Cost: Approximately, $1,475,000.

Installed October 7, 1908.

Operation: On receipt of fire alarm at pumping station, simultaneously with that at Fire Headquarters, a pressure of 75 pounds is immediately put on the mains, which pressure reaches the entire system before the Fire Department can arrive at a fire. The system is utilized at all fires within the above mentioned boundary, there being 681 high pressure fire hydrants placed therein. There are 121 fire alarm boxes within the district, and 121 high pressure telephone boxes, one adjacent to each fire alarm box, through which telephone boxes instant communication with the pumping station can be had, and orders for increase or decrease of pressure, or the shut-down of the system, immediately communicated. It has worked excellently since its installation in this borough.

MANHATTAN.

Boundary—Hudson River to Twenty-third to Broadway, to 14th, to Third av. and Bowery, to James, to East River, to New Chambers and Chambers to Hudson River.

Area covered: 1,456 acres including the Dry Goods District.

Cost, complete, $3,900,000.

The system consists of 262,000 lin. ft. mains 12 to 24 inches diameter; 1,274 4-nozzle hydrants, 214 telephone boxes directly connected to pumping station, so that orders to regulate pressure during fire can be instantly given. Communication also by double telephone system with Fire Headquarters, and with the main and subsidiary stations of the Edison Electric Co.

Two pumping stations, one at Oliver and South, serve the district from Houston to Oliver, the other at Gansevoort and West serving the district from Houston to Twenty-third. Either station can serve either district, or both combined, at any point. Each station has five electrically driven centrifugal pumps, each pump, under actual test, has delivered 3,800 gallons against a pressure of 350 lbs., giving a combined capacity of the two stations of 38,000 gallons per minute or 55,000,000 gallons per day, available within two minutes after the alarm sounds at any point within the High Pressure Service District.

System in complete operation as a High Pressure System, since July 6, 1908.

Operation: The alarm is received at the pumping station on the regulation gong as well as on a recording machine, at the same time it is received at the engine house. On receipt of the alarm, one pump is started on the pressure raised to 125 lbs. on the entire system, so that by the time the firemen reach the fire, they have but to couple up to the hydrant and the pressure is available.

SALVAGE CORPS.

The Salvage Corps of Greater New York are owned and maintained by the insurance companies of the city for the purpose of protecting life and property at and after fires. There are two separate organizations, one in Manhattan called the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, and one in Brooklyn, called the Fire Insurance Salvage Corps of Brooklyn. Each organization has established stations equipped with fire alarms, which are connected with those of the City Fire Department, patrol wagons and other apparatus necessary for the prevention of the destruction of property by fire and water. Each station is supplied with force of men to answer all fire alarms. The charter the Salvage Corps have the same right of way in the streets and same privileges entering houses as the Fire Department.

NEW YORK CITY'S CATSKILL MOUNTAIN WATER SUPPLY.

Four watersheds in the Catskill Mountains are to be developed in the following order: 1. Esopus; 2. Rondout; 3. Schoharie; 4. Catskill Creek; with a total estimated yield of about 700,000,000 gallons daily. The cost of the project, including filtration plant and main delivery aqueducts to the five boroughs, is estimated at $161,837,000.

1. Esopus watershed, area 255 square miles. Water to be stored in Ashokan Reservoir.

2. Rondout watershed, area 176 square miles. Water to be stored in Lackawack Reservoir, which is to be connected by Rondout Aqueduct with Catskill Aqueduct, $8\frac{1}{2}$ miles below Ashokan Reservoir.

3. Schoharie watershed, area 228 square miles. Storage in Prattsville Reservoir, connected by a 10-mile tunnel through the divide with Esopus Creek and Ashokan Reservoir.

4. Catskill Creek watershed, area 163 square miles. There will be several reservoirs along Catskill Creek, and from the lowest an aqueduct will convey the water into the eastern extremity of Ashokan Reservoir.

Ashokan Reservoir, $13\frac{1}{2}$ miles west of Kingston, will be the main impounding reservoir, with a capacity of 130,000,000,000 gallons; length about 12 miles; average width, 1 mile; maximum depth, 190 feet; full reservoir water surface, 590 feet above sea level. The area to be submerged is 12.8 square miles and contains seven villages and 13 miles of railway; 40 miles of new highways will be built.

From the Ashokan Reservoir, Catskill Aqueduct, with a capacity of 500,000,000 gallons daily, extends 92 miles to an equalizing reservoir of 900,000,000-gallon capacity at Hill View, in Yonkers, just north of the New York City boundary, with full water level, 295 feet above tide. This elevation corresponds to 134 feet for the existing Jerome Park Reservoir and 118 feet for Central Park Reservoir. A storage reservoir near White Plains of 35,000,000,000-gallon capacity, known as Kensico Reservoir, will be built at the location of the existing Kensico Lake and will have its water surface 355 feet above sea level.

A filtration plant, sufficient to purify the entire Catskill Mountain supply, is planned for future construction at Eastview, 3 miles east of Tarrytown.

From Ashokan Reservoir, Catskill Aqueduct is located on the west side of the Hudson River to a point 4 miles north of West Point, at which it will cross the river between Storm King and Breakneck mountains in a tunnel through solid rock, probably about 1,200 feet below the river surface. The aqueduct crosses the lower portion of Croton watershed and passes under Croton Lake on its way to the Kensico Reservoir. Below Hill View Reservoir the delivery aqueduct will be a tunnel, $17\frac{1}{2}$ miles long, deep in the rock, passing under the Borough of The Bronx, Harlem River, Manhattan Island and East River, to a point in Brooklyn about 1 mile from the river shore, from which pipe lines will extend north to Queens and south by submerged pipe, under the Narrows, to a terminal reservoir in Staten Island, these pipes aggregating about 16 miles.

Under normal conditions the elevation to which water will rise by gravity at the Brooklyn end of the tunnel will be approximately 260 feet above tide, contrasting with 140 feet and 180 feet, respectively, obtained from the Ridgewood and Mt. Prospect Reservoir systems.

December 31, 1909, contracts to the value of nearly $65,000,000 had been let for the construction of the Ashokan, Kensico and Hill View reservoirs, and nearly 82 miles of the Catskill Aqueduct north of the city line. Seven miles more are to be put under contract in January, 1910. In point of time, the delivery of the first Catskill water in the city is half accomplished.

The advantages of a tunnel delivery aqueduct over pipe construction include: Non-interference with street traffic while building; possible concentration in any borough of high pressure water to check a conflagration; and practical elimination of maintenance and repair charges.

The Board of Water Supply is situated at 299 Broadway, Manhattan. See page 485 for roster.

Other boards which have to do with the City's water supply are, the State Water Supply Commission (p. 383), the Aqueduct Commission (p. 485) and the City Dept. of Water, Gas and Electricity (p. 488).

The water supply of MANHATTAN and the BRONX is received from the Croton watershed. (See 1908 Almanac, page 402). The system of water mains in Manhattan and Bronx now includes 1,171 miles of combined mains, with 17,376 fire hydrants.

BROOKLYN'S water supply is obtained mostly from Long Island west of Amityville, about 1-5 from surface streams and remainder from driven well stations. (See 1908 Almanac, page 402). The distribution system consists of about 900 miles of distributing mains, with 14,000 stopcocks and 13,200 hydrants.

The public water system of QUEENS includes 156 miles of mains, 1,778 hydrants, 2,117 gates, 13,560 houses are supplied. Private water companies supply part of borough.

Name Liberia Commission.

An amendment to the deficiency bill appropriating $20,000 to enable the Secretary of State to investigate matters in the Republic of Liberia was passed and Robert C. Ogden, Jacob
H. Hollander and Booker T. Washington have been asked to serve on a commission to Monrovia. It is understood they will act and they will be sent to some Mediterranean port on a regular steamship and thence to Monrovia on a warship. The proposition originated with Secretary Root, its object being to assist Liberia in strengthening its hold on the reins of government, and is the direct outcome of the visit to Washington of a special legation from Liberia.

CITY OF NEW YORK MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

The government of the City of New York has three officials elected by the whole city, the Mayor, the Comptroller and the President of the Board of Aldermen. The last is Vice Mayor. There is a Borough President for each of the five boroughs, and certain departments are borough departments, with the Presidents as executives. The general city departments are filled by appointees of the Mayor, who also names members of the Board of City Magistrates. The legislative branch is the Board of Aldermen, elected by districts. Certain constitutional officers of counties are still elected, though they are paid out of the city budget, and the counties are otherwise not considered. The charter of 1901, which went into effect January 1, 1902, defines the functions of all departments.

CHARTER OF NEW YORK CITY.

The charter of the City of New York is a development of the charters of the former cities of New York, Brooklyn and Long Island City, differing from all of them, however, by the introduction of the principle of local control over local affairs. In this feature the charter provides a system of government more nearly like that of London and continental cities. For a history of charter making see introduction to Eagle Library, No. 119, and 1902 Eagle Almanac, page 404. The greater part of the charter is the law as it has existed for half a century, and the chief change has been made necessary by the adoption of the borough system and the system of giving control to localities over their own affairs. The City Charter, which contains over half a million words, has been severely criticised as being complex, redundant and contradictory. Two charter revision commissions appointed at different times by the Governor of New York State have made their reports, but no further action has been taken, except that a legislative committee was appointed in the summer of 1900 to investigate the report of the last commission, of which William M. Invis was the chairman. The names of these committees are: Senators Brough of New York, Gledhill of Brooklyn, Grady of New York, Assemblymen Hammond of Onondaga, Murphy of Kings, Robinson of New York, A. E. Smith of New York and Geoghegan of Brooklyn. Undoubtedly some action will soon be taken on a new charter for New York. The "Invis Charter," so called, is completely given in Eagle Library No. 116. Price 10 cents.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE MAYOR'S OFFICE.

Room 5, City Hall, 9 A.M. to 4 P.M. Saturday to 12 M.

The executive power of the city is vested in the Mayor, the Presidents of the Boroughs and the officers of the departments. The Mayor is the chief executive officer. His term begins at noon on the first day of January after his election and continues for four years. He is eligible for reelection. The Mayor appoints the heads of departments and commissioners, except those over which the Presidents of the Boroughs have jurisdiction, and except, also, the head of the Department of Finance. He can remove at any time any official appointed by him, except the members of the Board of Education and Aqueduct Commissioners, trustees of the College of the City of New York, and trustees of some hospitals, and certain judicial officers. He himself can be removed from office by the Governor, after a hearing, upon charges.

The Mayor has the power of veto over all ordinances and resolutions of the Board of Aldermen, but if he does not disapprove they become laws after a lapse of ten days.

An ordinance or resolution can be passed over the Mayor's veto by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to the Board of Aldermen, except that when it involves the expenditure of money, the creation of a debt, or the laying of an assessment, a three-fourths vote is required: The Mayor countersigns all warrants drawn by the Comptroller upon the Chamberlain for payments on behalf of the corporation. He has also to sign all bonds, together with the Comptroller. In the absence or sickness of the Mayor the President of the Board of Aldermen is the Acting Mayor. He shall not appoint to, or remove from, office any official, unless the absence or sickness of the Mayor continues thirty days, nor shall he approve or disapprove any resolution or ordinance unless such absence or sickness continues nine days. (For duties of Mayor see Charter, Sec. 115 to 123.)

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The legislative power of the City is vested in the Board of Aldermen, consisting of 73 members elected for 2 yrs., of the President of the Board and the Presidents of the Borough. The salary of the Aldermen is $2,000 per year. The Pres. of the Board receives $5,000 a year. He is elected by the city for 4 yrs. Each head of an administrative department of the city is entitled to a seat in the Board of Aldermen, and shall attend its meeting when required by the board, but has no vote. No member elected to the Board of Aldermen is eligible to any other office under the city during the term for which he is elected. The board is required to meet at least once a month, except during the months of August and September. Resolutions and ordinances of the board must be passed by a vote of a majority of the members of the board. It cannot authorize the expenditure of any money for any celebration, procession, funeral, reception or entertainment, except by a vote of four-fifths of its membership. See City Charter, Sec's 17 to 61.

THE LOCAL IMPROVEMENT BOARDS.

The Aldermanic districts are divided into 25 local improvement districts. (See below) The President of the Borough as chairman and the Alderman residing in each local improvement district constitute the local board. The local boards are empowered to initiate such improvements as grading and paving streets and constructing sewers, subject to the approval of the Board of Estimate, if they involve an assessment. If the improvement involves a cost of more than $500,000, it must be approved by the Board of Aldermen. When the cost of flagging sidewalks, grading lots or fencing lots is less than $2,000, the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment is not necessary, and it then becomes the duty of the Borough President to execute the work. The local boards are also authorized to hear complaints and pass resolutions of nuisances in streets or against disorderly houses, drinking saloons conducted without the observance of licenses, gambling houses or other matters concerning the peace or good government, and concerning the condition of the poor within their respective districts. All petitions for local improvements should be addressed to the President of the Borough for presentation to the Local Board having jurisdiction. See City Charter, Sec. 442.

BOROUGH GOVERNMENT.

PRESIDENTS AND COMMISSIONERS OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Room 10, City Hall.
The Presidents of the five boroughs are elected at the same time as the Mayor; terms expiring Dec. 31, 1913. The President of the Borough presides over the local board. His secretary is the secretary of the local boards. Each Borough President is a member of the Board of Aldermen and has the same right to vote as any member elected to the Board of Aldermen. The Borough President may appoint, at his pleasure remove a Commissioner of Public Works for his borough, whose duty it is to discharge all of the administrative powers of the President relating to streets, sewers, public buildings and supplies. The President of the Borough has cognizance and control of all matters relating to the improvement and repair of public buildings, within his borough, except schools, hospitals, fire and police stations, nightmarles, etc. He is empowered to exercise the supervision vested in the city over the construction of buildings in his borough, except such powers are directly vested in the permanent House Commission, and to that end he is authorized to appoint a Superintendent of Buildings. In the Boroughs of Richmond and Queens the Presidents of the Boroughs in addition to their other powers, have jurisdiction over the cleaning of streets and the removal of ashes and garbage.—See City Charter, c. 382, 383.

The Superintendent and Chief Engineer of this bureau are appointed by the Borough President to carry out Sec. 388 of City Charter, which says that the President of the Borough has jurisdiction in his borough over regulating, grading, paving, flagging and guttering streets; constructing and repairing public roads; paving and laying streets, laying of all face railroad tracks; filling sunken and fencing vacant lots; the removal of incumbrances, and the issue of permits to construct vaults under sidewalks, and to builders and others to use the streets.

AERONAUTICS, 1909.

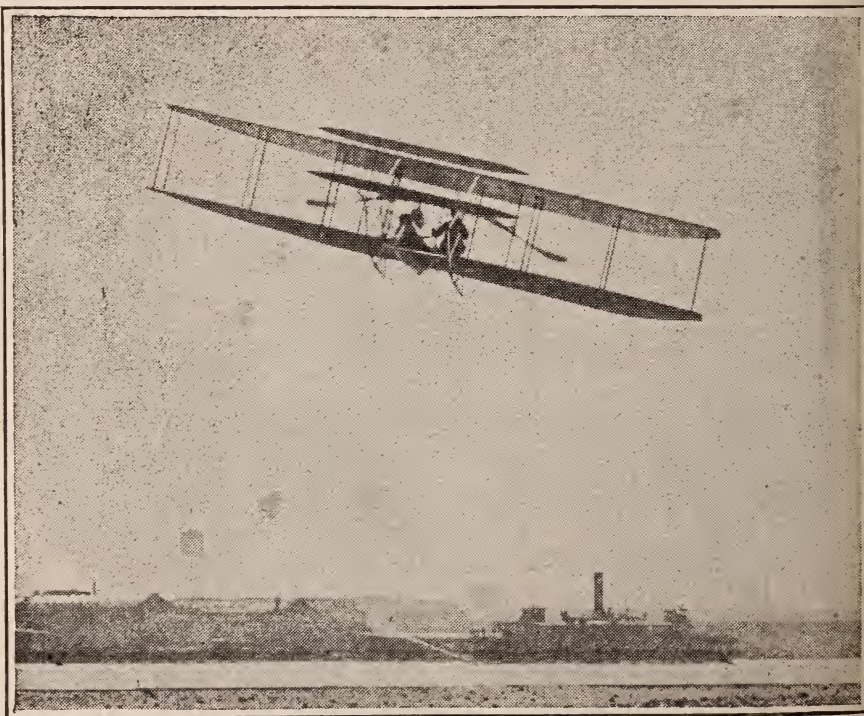

The year 1909 will be remembered for two things over all others; the discovery of the North Pole and the first definite adoption of air flight in man's transportation system. Within the past year the flying machine advanced from its rating as a scientific toy to a practicable means of locomotion, more reliable indeed in its present state than was the automobile in the first ten years of its development. At the so-called aviation meets, such as those at Brescia in Italy, Rheims in France, Johannisthal in Germany and the Hudson-Fulton centenary in New York, various demonstrations were made. Wilbur Wright, at the centenary celebrations, startled all New York City by successfully negotiating a flight from Governor's Island, in the bay, up the Hudson River to Grant's Tomb, and back again, for the first time in the history of the world, guiding an aeroplane over warships. But under the direction of the Frenchman, Louis Blériot, the monoplane form of aeroplane crossed the British Channel from France on July 24, electrifying the world; six days later Orville Wright, with one passenger, at Fort Meyer, made a five-mile flight across country, at the rate of forty-two miles an hour, again astonishing the world; the German, Count Zeppelin, made successful flights with his dirigible balloon from the extreme south of Germany to Berlin, and more or less irregular passenger service has been inaugurated along the Rhine provinces by enthusiastic supporters of Zeppelin. Orville Wright succeeded in reaching a height of more than 1,600 ft. during a flight in Germany, and Latham, a Frenchman, circled the Eiffel Tower in Paris. No single country can lay claim to leadership in the conquest of the air, but Germany, France and the United States in the order named are the pioneers in the surprising advance. Virtually all the countries used some form of airship in their annual army manoeuvres.

In many ways just beginning to be understood, applied aeronautics will affect changes of no inconsiderable moment in the every day life of the world at large. With the utilization of dirigibles and aeroplanes as a means of going from place to place, has come aeronautic insurance, especially designed to cover accidents by these methods of travel, a fixed rate having been made upon this class of hazard, both here and in Europe. Aeronautic jurisprudence is also just beginning to take a definite form, and before many years we shall find the laws of the air as well defined as those of the land and sea.

It is interesting to note that the science of aeronautics has introduced a new branch of study to educational instruction. The Catholic University of Washington has been the pioneer in adding an aerodynamic laboratory, with an appropriate curriculum, to its technical equipment. Aviation sections with distinct courses of study have likewise been initiated in Harvard University, Massachusetts Inst. of Tech., and among the eastern seats of learning as indeed, with others throughout the country.

Events of note have happened so fast in the world of aeronautics during the year 1909 that space hardly allows the chronicling of them all. One of the most interesting things is the announcement of the world's first airship line, which will run from Dusseldorf, Germany, to Lucerne, Switzerland, taking in a dozen cities, including Cologne, Frankfurt, Darmstadt and Stuttgart, these cities subscribing from $10,000 to $25,000 each. Passengers will pay $125 for the entire trip, that will be made in one day; beginning with May 1, 1910. Two airships of the style of Zeppelin III will constitute the fleet.

ENGLISH CHANNEL FLIGHTS.

Hubert Latham, July 19, flew from Calais, France, in his Antoinette monoplane, to cross the English Channel, his objective point being Dover, 21 miles distant in an air line. He flew by the compass, but when within 7 or 8 miles of the English coast the engine began to miss its strokes and finally stopped. The aviator glided safely downward from a height of 1,000 feet, and, discovering that his machine was resting easily on the water, lit a cigarette and waited until a rescuing water craft took him aboard. He made another unsuccessful attempt July 27.

Louis Bleriot, July 25, accomplished the first crossing of the English Channel on his No. 11 Monoplane, starting from Baraques, near Calais, at 4:35 o'clock A.M. and reaching Dover at 5:12 A.M., the time occupied being 37 minutes. Distance about 25 miles, a heavy drizzle shutting off any view of the English coast until the air navigator was close upon it, thus causing a detour of about four miles before the green field two miles east of Dover was reached, where a French flag designated his landing place. He was greatly aided by a twenty-mile gale and the drizzle which kept his motor working. Bleriot received as a reward the $5,000 prize offered by the London Daily Mail, the gold medal of the Aero Club of France, similar to that presented to the Wright brothers, and many other honors.

IMPORTANT CASUALTIES.

E. Lefebvre, Sept. 7, at Juvisy, France, killed while testing new Wright machine.

Antonio Fernandez, a Spaniard, Dec. 6, at Aerodrome, near mouth of Var River, France, was dashed to the ground and killed while making an initial flight with a machine of his own construction.

Louis Bleriot, at Constantinople, Turkey, Dec. 12, flying in a strong wind in his No. 11 style of monoplane, was driven a mile and a half against the roof of a building and fell to the ground, severely bruising his left side.

Leon Delagrangé killed Jan. 4, 1910 at Bordeaux, France, while attempting a flight.

CHESS.

The sudden rise to fame of Jose R. Capablanca, chess champion of Cuba, who came to New York to take a course in Columbia University, was the chief event of 1909. By one bound this young star took his place in the first rank of the world's masters. This he achieved by means of a one-sided defeat of F. J. Marshall, of Brooklyn, the international player, who in his time has won many important laurels. This match began at the Ansonia, on April 19, and was continued in successive sections at the Manhattan, Rice, and Brooklyn Chess clubs, the Staten Island Club and at Morristown, N. J., Scranton, Pa., and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., winding up on June 23 with a score of 8 games to 1 in favor of Capablanca, with 14 drawn. Prior to that match, under the management of the American Chess Bulletin, Capablanca toured all parts of the country with brilliant success, making a record of 720 games played, of which he won 686, drew 20 and lost only 14. The greatest number he played at any one time was 49 in a simultaneous exhibition in Pittsburgh. The international tournament in St. Petersburg resulted in a tie between Dr. E. Lasker, world's champion, and A. Rubinstein, Russian champion.

FINANCIAL REVIEW OF THE YEAR 1909.

The financial year 1909 was characterized by widespread and complete recovery from the panic of 1907, or a more rapid continuation of the improvement which marked 1908. In fact, the recovery was so rapid that in the latter part of 1909 not only were all ill effects of the previous panic wiped out, but industry and general business were on a high record plane of activity and with new high records in many leading and representative industries. Good crops, that were marketed at high prices, thus insuring the continued prosperity of our important agricultural sections, were the bulwark of the year's progressive prosperity. In manufacturing, in transportation and in other important industries there was similar steady improvement.

In addition, the year was marked by comparatively easy money rates, although with moderately stiffening in the fall months, so that the industrial prosperity was favorably reflected in a sharp, if at times irregular, advance in security prices. How extensive was the rise in securities, and also the general course of the stock market, is strikingly reflected in the average prices of leading issues. Thus, the average price of railroad stocks closed 1908 at 120.05 and declined to 113.90 by the middle of Feb. From then the advance was almost steady until 124.44 was reached in August. This is the highest level ever reached except in 1906, when the high record was 133.36. From August, however, there was an irregular decline to 126.05 on Dec. 1, but with a later recovery that reached 129.13 in mid-December. The industrial stocks' average followed a somewhat similar course. Closing 1908 at $6.15, the price dropped to 79.91 by the end of Feb., but with a fairly steady rise to 92.26 in Aug. From this level the average dropped to 95.36 in Sept., and then, with a very irregular and wide movement, it advanced to 100.53 in Nov. On Dec. 1 the industrial average was 96.02 and with a rally to 99.0 in mid-December. The industrial average, like the railroad average, was only surpassed in one year, or 1906, when 103.0 was reached.

The one poor harvest of the year was the cotton crop. Although this crop had a good start, the acreage planted of 31,918,000 acres was below recent years. Storms and insects were responsible for heavy deterioration, so that the June condition of 81.1 was down to 53.5 in Oct. Both the Aug. and Sept. condition were the lowest for the period ever reported by the gov't while the Oct. condition was the lowest, with the exception of 1902. The gov't preliminary estimate of the 1909 cotton crop was 10,088,000 bales, against the 1908 final crop of 12,920,000 bales and 11,678,000 in 1907. This is the smallest crop since 1903, when it was 9,962,000 bales. The cotton crop damage resulted in a big bull speculation in that commodity and with prices up to nearly 16 cents, or the highest level since the Sully boom in 1903-04, when spot cotton reached 17½ cents. Winter wheat also had a trying time and a rather poor start, especially as to acreage, which in May was reported as the smallest since 1900, with one exception. The April, May and June conditions were also the lowest for the period, with three exceptions, and the condition of 91.1 in April was down to 82.4 in July. The gov't final estimate of the winter wheat crop was 416,366,000 bu., against the 1908 final crop of 437,908,000 bu., and the 1906 high record crop of 492,888,000 bu. The 1909 winter wheat crop is the third largest on record. Spring wheat did better than winter wheat. Its June condition of 95.2 was the highest since 1903, although it dropped to 88.6 in Sept. The gov't final estimate of the 1909 crop was 290,823,000 bu., or the second largest on record, and comparing with the 1908 final crop of 226,694,000 bu. and the 1898 high record of 292,656,000 bu. The corn crop also had a good start and with an opening season promise of a bumper harvest. The July condition of 89.3 dropped to 73.8 in Oct., and the gov't final estimate of the crop was 2,772,376,000 bu., or the second high record harvest. In 1908 the corn crop was 2,668,651,000 bu., while the high record was 2,927,416,091 bu. in 1906. The gov't final estimate of the 1909 total wheat crop was 737,189,000 bu., or the second largest on record. In 1908 it was 664,604,000 bu. In 1906 the crop was 735,260,000 bu., and in 1901 it was 748,460,000 bu. The final crop of oats was 1,007,353,000 bu., or a new high record, and comparing with 807,156,000 bu. in 1908 and the previous high record of 987,842,000 bu. in 1902.

Although 1909 was an easy money year, rates stiffened somewhat in the autumn and fall, but with 6½ the maximum for call loans up to mid-December. Time rates also advanced from the early year low levels. During May call rates went to 1%. The fall crop moving demand for funds developed as usual, but the currency outflow from New York was much smaller than the average, and during only four weeks did this center lose on balance. By far the most interesting feature of the money market was the large and fairly steady gold exports, and which exceeded $106,000,000, or the largest in years. Heavy shipments to South America, dominated, especially to Argentina, which country secured about $55,000,000 of American gold, while Brazil secured about $12,000,000. These gold shipments represented the payment of our indebtedness to Europe and were mainly for English account. Abroad discounts ruled very easy during the first part of the year, but with a sharp advance in the fall. In Oct. the Bank of England made three successive weekly advances in its rate, or from 2½ to 5%, while the Bank of Germany made two advances, the latter in Oct., and also to 5%. Heavy drains upon the London gold supply were responsible for the advances noted and another reason commonly cited was that it was done to check excessive granting of credit to American borrowers. Bull speculation at Berlin was also behind the rise in the official rate at that center. The 5% London bank rate, which was the highest level for Oct. in ten years, excepting 1906, was promptly effective in checking the gold drain, and the Bank of England's gold holdings increased through the securing of the new gold arrival, and also shipments from the Continent. Paris where easy money ruled all year and the 3½ bank rate was kept unchanged, aided the London market, and there were also heavy payments of American loans which involved shipments of securities to this side. During Nov. and the early part of Dec. money relaxation became general here and abroad, and on Dec. 9 the London bank rate was cut to 4½%. A feature of the Paris market was the big gain in the Bank of France's gold holdings, which, on May 27, reached a high record of $738,925,800. The English money troubles were intensified by the political upheaval as a result of the rejection of the budget by the House of Lords, followed by the proroguing of Parliament, with a general election to be held in Jan., 1910. The deficit in government finance in this country resulted in withdrawals of public deposits in the banks during the first part of the year, but this was without effect on the easy rates. In contrast to 1908, the year 1909 was comparatively free from war rumors and the chief development was the successful Turkish revolution and the establishment of new government, based on more liberal lines.

The chief event in the way of new legislation was the passing of the new tariff bill which was signed on Aug. 5., and, after consideration by a special session of Congress opened March 15, or shortly after President Taft was inaugurated. The tariff legislative discussion caused some check on business expansion, but much less so than in previous years. One reason for this was the opposition to any radical downward revision of the customs rates, and with the result that when the bill was passed, there were many public complaints that the bill showed more advance than reductions. During the tariff fight, or June, Pres. Taft sent a special message to Congress advocating a tax on corporation income and the adoption of a constitutional amendment permitting a tax on incomes. Congress acted favorably on both measures and the corporation tax, which amounts to 1% on all compaincomes of over $5,000, became a part of the tariff bill. Preparations to begin the collection of this tax, which affects some 400,000 corporations and which is expected to result in government receipts of about $25,000,000 per annum, are now in progress, although a legal fight to test the constitutionality of the tax is certain.

There were many legal decisions during the year of financial and stock market importance. In January the 80-cent gas law of this state was declared constitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court and the Consolidated Gas Co. Shortly after began the work of distributing the odd $13,000,000 it had collected at the $1 rate. In the same month the highest court sustained the fine of $1,623,000 against the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. of Texas, and also sustained the ruling ousting it from that state for violation of the anti-trust law. In March, the Missouri state railroad laws were declared unconstitutional and confiscatory as regards the 2-cent fares and maximum freight charges. During this month the government abandoned its case against Standard Oil which on its first trial resulted in the famous $29,000,000 fine which was later overturned. In May the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that the commodities clause of the rate bill was constitutional. The decision, however, was a victory for the coal roads, as the courts ruled that they might control the mines and that a stock interest in a producing company is not an indication of interest in the coal transported. In order to come within the law the Lackawanna R. R. organized the Lackawanna Coal Co. and distributed stock of the latter company to its own shareholders. By far the most important legal decision of the year was made on November 20, by the U. S. Circuit Court at St. Louis. This was against the Standard Oil Co. and declared that company to be a monopoly in restraint of trade in violation of the anti-trust law. Its dissolution was ordered, but the latter was checked by the company's announcement of an appeal. The decision caused a four-day break in the stock market and Standard Oil in this period dropped about 50 points. If the decision is sustained, it is held to mean the ending of the holding company device to control large corporations and much concern is felt in capitalistic quarters over the outcome. In 1908 the American Tobacco Co. was convicted under the same law and that case is to be heard early in 1910 by the highest court. The ruling in that case will, it is expected, largely apply to the Standard Oil case. After the Standard Oil decision a movement was begun to induce Congress to amend the anti-trust law, but despite rumors, President Taft failed to recommend such action in his annual message to Congress.

Two important deaths in the financial world occurred. On May 19, H. H. Rogers, vice-president of Standard Oil Co., died, but this event had no stock market effect. On September 3, E. H. Harriman died. Previous to his demise the stock market had been wildly excited and with sharp breaks immediately preceding his death, but with a good recovery after the news was out. According to reports of the assessors, Harriman's fortune amounted to $149,000,000. Harriman had been abroad for his health and when he returned, statements were given out that he was in no danger and was going to take the "rest cure." Early in the year Harriman had been elected director in the N. Y. Central, and there were many believers in the rumors that he would supplant the Vanderbilts in control of that system. His return to this country in August was preceded and followed by a bull movement in Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and other Harriman stocks, and with rumors of coming dividend increases, and also the segregation of the U. P. assets through the formation of a holding company. U. P. stock went to 219, or its high record and not reached afterwards in 1909. After Harriman's death the stock market was unsettled by rumors that Morgan interests were to fight for control of Harriman's properties, but these were denied and proven untrue with the election of Harriman associates to fill the vacancies caused by his death. Judge Lovett taking the position of chairman of the board of the U. P. and S. P.

The passing of E. H. Harriman as the dominant figure in the railroad world was followed by the rise of Edwin Hawley to that position of prominence. Hawley syndicates bought control of the Chesapeake & Ohio and also of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas. In December the sale by the Rock Island of the St. Louis & San Francisco R. R. was announced and with Hawley associated with Yoakum in this deal. Another railroad deal was the purchase of Wisconsin Central control by the Canadian Pacific and the purchase of the Norfolk & Western stock sold by the Penn. R. R. to bankers in 1906 and by the latter road. During November plans for the merger of some of the leading copper companies were all but put into execution. Amalgamated, Guggenheim and Cole-Ryan properties were to be included in the combination which was expected to be to the copper trade what U. S. Steel is in that industry. The rumored capitalization of the new copper combine was estimated at $500,000,000, or more, and it was expected to control over half of the country's output. The Standard Oil decision against holding companies put a sudden check to the execution of the plan, although in mid-December it was reported that the subject was still under consideration, and that the Guggenheim properties would be combined first. Another deal that attracted much comment was the purchase of Equitable Life Assurance Co. stock by J. P. Morgan.

Many interesting new high records were made during the year in industry as well as in finance. Many of these amply reflect the business expansion and prosperity. Thus, Oct. bank clearings of the country were $15,851,214,417, or the largest on record for any month. Pig iron production in Sept. and Oct. was also the largest ever reported for the month, the total for the latter being 2,592,516 tons. In March the anthracite coal output of 6,332,000 tons was never exceeded by any month. The country's money circulation on Oct. 1, Nov. 1 and Dec. 1 made successive new high records, the total on the latter date being $3,131,310,334. National bank circulation made new high records in the country's history on the first of Sept., Oct., Nov. and Dec., with the latter total amounting to $707,433,457. Stock Exchange seats sold down to $72,500 in Feb., but early in Dec. one sold at $96,000, or the highest price ever paid. A large number of dividend increases were declared during the year, the most prominent being two advances in the U. S. Steel common dividend, or in July, when the annual rate was raised to 3%, and in Oct., when it was increased to 4% per annum. Other important dividend increases or initial payments were made by Reading, Lackawanna, Atchison, Chicago & Alton, Coast Line, C. & O., St. Louis Southwestern, Norfolk & Western, Jersey Central, B. R. T., Wells-Fargo, American Tobacco, Brooklyn Gas, Gloss-Sheffield, People's Gas, Calumet & Hecla, Republic Steel, American Ice, Westinghouse and a large number of banking and smaller corporations.

How railroad business improved is reflected in the fairly steady decrease in idle cars. On Jan. 6 these numbered 332,500, but by Oct. 27 the surplus was wiped out and there was net car shortage of 5,467 cars or the first reported since Nov., 1907. Railroad earnings made similar progressive gains, with gross decreases and heavy reductions in operating expenses the rule during the early months of the year, but with many roads reporting high record earnings in the fall. During the year there were three sales of N. Y. City bonds. In March, $10,000,000 of 4s were sold at an average price of $101.57; in June $40,000,000 of 4s brought 101.71, while in Dec. $12,500,000 in 4s brought 100.34. New security issues during the year were of record breaking proportions, the total issued up to Dec. 1 being $1,408,500,000 against $1,369,300,000 for same period in 1908. New securities authorized for the same period were $2,968,500,000 against $2,031,200,000. The earnings of the country's biggest corporation, U. S. Steel, reflect the general tendency of business. For the first three quarters they totaled $22,921,268; $29,344,491 and $33,246,907, respectively, and as the Dec. quarter is expected to show earnings of somewhat over $40,000,000, U. S. Steel's net earnings for 1909 exceeded $130,000,000, or comparing with $91,847,711 in 1908. Unfilled orders totaled 3,543,535 tons at the end of the March quarter and increased in the next two quarters to 4,057,933 tons, and then to 4,796,333 tons. In Feb. the Steel Corporation declared an "open market" in that industry and price cuts were sharp and general, while many independent plants cut wages. This policy, however, was eminently successful and new business was attracted so that by May wages were restored and in later months prices for manufactured products were advanced. The Copper Producers' Association was inaugurated in Jan. and made regular monthly reports as to production, consumption and stocks on hand. The copper trade was depressed all year as production was in excess of consumption.

The feature of the year's foreign trade was the increase in imports and the decrease in exports. There were heavy imports preliminary to the passing of the tariff bill and owing to the higher rates expected, while exports, especially of agricultural commodities, were held in check by the high prices ruling. During June, July and August there was an excess of merchandise imports or the first since 1897. Another notable foreign trade landmark was the Nov. imports of $140,392,012, or the largest ever reported for one month. One new record in our export trade was supplied by cotton exports in Oct. of $88,383,350, or the largest ever made for one month. For the fiscal year 1909 the exports of domestic products, our exports of breadstuffs and our total merchandise exports were the smallest for any similar period since 1905. For the same period the excess of exports was the smallest since 1897. For the eleven months of the calendar year, imports of merchandise were $1,356,622,669, or an increase of $332,169,441 over the same period in 1908, while exports were $1,555,621,069, or a decrease of $8,363,471. For the same period the excess of exports was $218,998,103, decreasing $340,552,912.

The Hughes commission to investigate various exchanges made a lengthy report in Jan. and advocated many reforms, although legislation was not advised. The Stock Exchange authorities put into execution some of the measures, notably in the abolishment of the unlisted department, which will go out of existence next April. Many stocks heretofore in the unlisted department were transferred to the listed department, which involves the making of more complete reports. Reforms were also inaugurated on the Metal and Mercantile exchanges, the Stock Exchange also exercised closer supervision of margin business and the effort was made to exercise some supervision over the curb by its members. In the banking world the main change was the going into full effect on February 1 of the state law requiring larger cash reserves by trust companies. During April there were fears of a coal strike, but after negotiations another three-year agreement, with minor changes, was signed. Security dealings were in excess of 1908, with stock transactions totaling approximately 216,200,000 shares against 197,305,892 shares in 1908. Bond dealings made a new high record of approximately $1,112,200,000, against the previous high record of $1,084,996,020 in 1908. Up to mid-December there were 48,000,000 share days in 1909, of which the largest was June 4, with a total of 1,623,900 shares, while the smallest was Sat., March 13, with 129,000 shares. The largest business in bonds was on April 22, with $10,259,000, while the smallest was Sat., Sept. 18, with $1,502,000.

BROOKLYN SECURITIES.

For the year 1909, Brooklyn banking institutions and corporations report a profitable period. The deposits of the majority of the banks and trust companies show a decrease as compared with a year ago, but generally there are gains in surplus. The banks and trust companies which suspended during the 1907 panic, with one exception, the Lafayette Trust Company, have resumed and are doing well.

Deferred payment plans under which several of the suspended banks reopened have been completed, in some cases months ahead of time, and at present there is no sign of a cloud on the local financial horizon. The outlook, in fact, is for expansion and local banking institutions should show a good gain in deposits and surplus during the coming year.

There were seven changes in bank presidents in Brooklyn in 1909. These were as follows: Willard Edmister succeeded Silas B. Dutcher, deceased, as head of the Hamilton Trust Company; Jacob Klinck was elected president of the Williamsburg Trust Company in the place of General Brayton Ives, resigned; William E. Harmon resigned as president of the Prospect Park Bank, and William D. Buckner was elected in his place; William F. Wyckoff was elected president of the Homestead Bank in place of Solomon Rubin, resigned; Lester Beasley was chosen president of the East Brooklyn Savings Bank in place of Thomas J. Atkins, deceased; Adolph Goppel took the place of Charles A. Schieren, resigned, as the head of the Germania Savings Bank, and John Schumann was elected president of the German Savings Bank in place of Charles Naehr, deceased.

There were few new banks organized during the year. In fact, only two new institutions began business. The first of these was the State Bank of Coney Island, which opened in August in the old home of the Coney Island and Bath Beach Park. The institution has the backing of some of the most prominent business men on the island, and its success seems assured, as it has done well so far. The other new institution was the Bay Ridge Savings Bank which has also been doing well. At the present time there is another savings bank in course of organization which will locate in Flatbush. Expansion in the way of opening branches was also less active in 1909 than in former periods. The only banking institution which did anything on this line was the Broadway, which in February opened an office at Myrtle avenue and Bleecker street. The Franklin Trust Company has planned to open a branch at 569 Fulton street, some time in 1910.

There were some dividend changes by the local banking institutions during the year just ended, and all of them were an indication of prosperity. The First National Bank in September resumed dividends at the rate of 8 per cent per annum; the Citizens Trust Company in January declared an initial dividend at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum; the Kings County Trust Company raised its rate from a 12 to a 14 per cent basis; the Title Guarantee and Trust Company increased its payment from 16 to 20 per cent. per annum, and the Manufacturers National Bank made two changes, the final one being a quarterly dividend of 4 per cent, and an extra payment of 1 per cent.

The most important feature outside of the banking news was the absorption of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company by the New York Telephone Company. This was in November, and was in line with the plans for the unification of the companies which were controlled by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The telephone company reported that its business during 1909 was very good and further expansion is expected during 1910.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company especially had a profitable period, and the stock was placed on a 4 per cent. dividend basis early in the year. At the end of the year there was talk of an increase over the 4 per cent. rate that has been in force, and from semi-official information, the company is earning over 5 per cent. on its outstanding stock. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, gross earnings of $19,694,692 were reported, while net totaled $8,299,807. From the outlook there will be good increases over these figures for the 1910 fiscal year.

Good gains in earnings were reported by the Kings County Electric Light and Power Company for 1909. The price of the stock of this corporation advanced materially during the year. The company now has a proposition before the Public Service Commission for a $5,000,000 6 per cent. bond issue.

There were several other increases in capital during the year. The Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company increased its capital from $3,600,000 to $5,000,000 by the declaration of a 50 per cent. stock dividend, and a subscription by shareholders of $500,000; the Kings County Mortgage Company issued $100,000 debenture bonds, and the Kings County Lighting Company issued $1,000,000 refunding mortgage 5 per cent.

The Security Safe Deposit Company was organized during the past year. This corporation is located in the new Dime Savings Bank building at DeKalb avenue and Fleet street, and is said to be doing a fine business. During the year Clement Lockitt resigned as president of the Long Island Safe Deposit Company and was succeeded by Frank L. Sniffen, Mr. Lockitt remained with the company as head of the executive committee.

The Lawyers Mortgage Company during the year increased its capital from $2,500,000 to $4,000,000, and also increased its dividend. The latter was a raise from 2½ to 3 per cent. quarterly, and was in line with the big business done by the company.

INTERIOR AND PUBLIC RIVER BATHS AND PUBLIC COMFORT STATIONS.

Interior Baths.

MANHATTAN AND BRONX.

326 Rivington, 133 Allen, 538 E. 11th, 23d and Av. A, 347 W. 41st, 232 W. 60th, 632 W. 76th, 243 E. 109th, 83-85 Carmine, 632 W. Oliver and Cherry, Rutgers pl.

These baths are open the entire year for both men and women, with 91 cold showers, from 6 A.M. to 9 P.M. Free.

BROOKLYN.

There are seven interior baths in operation, One on Hicks, near Degraw; on Pitkin av., near Watkins; Montrose av., near Union av.; Huron, near Manhattan av. Hamburg and Willoughby avs. and 4th av. and President, Duffield, in the Navy Yard section. The cost of these seven baths aggregated $315,704. The Hicks st. bath cost $60,617.20; the Pitkin av. bath, $57,850.90, and the Montrose av. bath, $95,766.80; the Huron st. bath, $104,000, and the Duffield st., or Navy Yard bath, about $114,000; Hamburg av., $159,504; 4th st., $171,600. The Hamburg av. bath is the most beautiful bath in the city and probably in the state. The 4th av. bath has a swimming pool, larger than any in Manhattan, being 39x50 feet. It has this further advantage that owing to the purity of Brooklyn water no alum is needed to purify it. Each bath costs an average of $20,572 (estimate for 1908) annually to support. The site for another bath has been purchased on Nostrand av, opposite Stockton st.

Public River Baths.

MANHATTAN.

The Borough of Manhattan maintains 15 free floating baths; the location of these baths vary from year to year. During the summer of 1909 there were 12 in operation, all the Bureau could procure locations for. Situated as follows: 2 at Battery pl., East River, Pike, 5th, 96th, 112th; North River, 51st, 82d, 96th, 136th, 218th and Randall's Island.

Total number of bathers, male and female, 2,323,070.

BROOKLYN.

Open in June. Close in September.

Bath No. 2, ft. of 58th; Bath No. 3, ft. of Noble; Bath No. 4, ft. of Pacific; Bath No. 5, Dock st. During the year 1908 floating bath No. 1 was out of commission, and Bath No. 7 was borrowed from the Borough of Manhattan and located at foot of 58th, in July. The berth at Dock, which was controlled in 1907 by John Arbuckle became available in 1908 and floating Bath No. 5 was put there.

Public Comfort Stations.

MANHATTAN.

There are nine public comfort stations maintained by the Borough of Manhattan: Battery Pk., Hanover Sq., City Hall Pk., Chatham Sq., Sheriff and Delancey, Long Acre Sq., Greeley Sq., 125th and Park av., Willis av., at entrance to Willis Av. Bridge.

BROOKLYN.

Six public comfort stations are maintained in Brooklyn, located as follows: One on Fulton at Borough Hall (opened in Oct., 1903); B'way and Lorimer (opened in Oct., 1903); Reid av. and B'way (opened in Oct., 1903); East N. Y. and Liberty avs. (opened in Sept., 1903); Hamilton av. and Richards (opened in Sept., 1903), and at Mhnt. and Greenpoint avs. (opened in Dec., 1903). Each of the stations cost $21,000 and costs for maintenance an average of $5,079.25 each per year. The estimate of expenses was made for a particular year, and varies somewhat from year to year.

Proposed State Park.

HARRIMAN GIFT.

Gov. Hughes, in his annual message, Jan. 5, 1910, announced that in accordance with the wishes of the late Edward H. Harriman, his widow, Mary W. Harriman, has offered to convey to the state a tract of about ten thousand acres of land in Orange and Rockland counties, about opposite Peekskill, to be held in perpetuity as a state park.

Mrs. Harriman also offers $1,000,000 in trust to be used for the purchase of land lying between this tract and the Hudson River, so that the park may have the advantage of a river frontage.

Other gifts for similar purposes amounting to $1,625,000, were announced by the governor as a result of the activity of the Palisades Park Commission, from residents of New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia. John D. Rockefeller and J. Pierpont Morgan each subscribed $500,000; Margaret Olivia Sage, William K. Vanderbilt, George F. Baker, James Stillman, John D. Archbold, Frank A. Munsey, Henry Phipps, E. T. Stotesbury, E. H. Gary and George W. Perkins gave $50,000 each; Helen M. Gould and V. Everit Macy contributed $25,000 each, and Ellen F. James and Arthur C. James jointly gave a similar amount.

These subscriptions were secured upon conditions stipulating among other things that New York State shall appropriate $2,500,000 for the acquiring of land and the building of roads and general park purposes; that the State of New Jersey shall contribute a fair share, and that the state discontinue work on the new state prison at Great Bear Mountain in Rockland County, where preliminary work on the site for a new $2,000,000 structure has been under way for several months. The contract for the new prison has not yet been let, and Governor Hughes recommends that the present site be abandoned and another one secured.

Founder

We congratulate the Eagle on its Silver Jubilee Edition of this very useful Almanac. When we want to know what we want to know, we know where to find it—in the Eagle Almanac.

Two years hence this Store will celebrate its Diamond Jubilee, when it will be 75 years young. When this business was founded, in 1837, Brooklyn's population was estimated at 10,000 souls—as many customers visit our Store daily—some days twice 10,000. Well, it's a fine thing to grow up with a community, to grow from a single counter to almost

G. P. Brush, Jr., started in the Carpet Cleaning Business in 1884, in Brooklyn; a few years later his brother, D. S. Brush, joined him and they formed a co-partnership. Their great success has been their strictly sanitary features, no two carpets ever being cleaned at the same time; this accounts for their being so highly recommended. Their process also restores carpets and rugs to their original color.

They are particularly adapted in making and altering carpets for other rooms, or into rugs. They pack and ship to any country. They also have a plant for making old-fashioned rag carpet. The Brush Brothers look after their business themselves, and in the past twenty-five years have not lost any customers, but have been gaining new ones by recommendations, which account for their large and successful business.

Hotel St. George

CLARK STREET, BROOKLYN HEIGHTS, NEW YORK CITY.

Few hotels have grown more in popularity in New York than the St. George, located at Clark and Pineapple streets, this borough. It is one of the largest hotels in the United States, containing nearly eleven hundred rooms and bathrooms, and has a reputation held by few hotels in America.

Families and business men find the St. George desirable as a home and the increased demand has made it necessary to again enlarge its accommodations. For this purpose 15,000 square feet of ground has just been acquired in Henry street, on part of which building operations will commence at once and be ready for the Fall of 1910. The St. George will then cover nearly 65,000 square feet, almost the entire block bounded by Clark, Hicks, Pineapple and Henry streets.

The popularity of the St. George Hotel is due to the fact that it is very centrally located and within easy reach of surface cars and subway and elevated trains. Its accommodations are excellent, nothing being neglected that would add to the comfort of the guests. No hotel in New York has grown in like proportion to the St. George. Prices are moderate for the service rendered. American and European plans.

S. S. TUMBRIDGE.

DR. A. CHAMBERS.

Dr. Albert Chambers, one of the best known reputable business men of Coney Island, was born in 1859. His first impressions of the science of chemistry were received when, at the early age of 9 years, he engaged himself, during his summer vacation, with a leading druggist of Newton, N. J. He was at first put to the task of washing bottles and running errands, but he kept his eyes and ears wide open and became familiar with the higher branches of the business, so that in 1880 he moved to Coney Island and, two years later, with his savings and a borrowed capital of $500, opened a small drug store on the Paul Bauer estate, where the business grew and, unfortunately, was burned out in 1893. Very soon after he purchased the property corner Surf avenue and Balmer's walk, just opposite to the stations of the Coney Island and Brooklyn and B. R. T., which from time to time has improved so that the building is one of the sights of that world-famous thoroughfare, Surf avenue. The store enjoys the reputation of being one of the best in New York, where prescriptions are very carefully compounded and every detail relating to the business personally supervised. It is also noted for the excellence of its sodas and ices.

The interior is probably the most handsomely decorated in the country, reminding one of the famous Italian gardens with its enchanting little bowers, where electric fireflies are seen flitting from beautiful artificial floral fixtures. Here the tired summer visitor seeks repose, while near at hand ices and sodas of every description are dispensed from a remarkably pretty fountain.

Dr. Chambers served four years as justice of the peace of the old Town of Gravesend and four years as foreman of the hook and ladder company, and is a prominent member of Kedron Lodge, F. and A. M.

Dr. Chambers is one of the originators of the Coney Island Mardi Gras, the proceeds of which for the first year were devoted to the support of the Coney Island Rescue Home, of which he is president.

In 1881 Dr. Chambers married Miss Emma Pierce of Newark, N. J. Mrs. Chambers, who is well known to the patrons of the store, is a lady of marked business ability and is a great help to her husband in his profession.

FRANK J. MORRISEY, 6 MYRTLE AVE.

The reputation of being the proprietor of one of the oldest and most reliable drug establishments in the Borough of Brooklyn is one well worth having. Such is the reputation of Mr. Frank J. Morrisey, proprietor of the large and up-to-date pharmacy located at No. 6 Myrtle avenue, just off Fulton street. In the year 1860, just about fifty years ago, the business was established by a Mr. Charles W. Kitchen, and was located at the corner of Fulton and Washington streets. It was established on the "always open" plan and it has the distinction of being the first "Always Open Pharmacy" in the Borough of Brooklyn. Mr. Morrisey, the present proprietor of the business, still adheres to the policy of Mr. Kitchen. His store is open day and night. This policy is not only a convenience to the public but it has grown to be almost a necessity. The business remained in the hands of Mr. Kitchen for twenty-eight years, when, in the year 1888, he was succeeded by Mr. John F. Morrisey, the father of the present proprietor. In the year 1893 Mr. Morrisey moved his pharmacy to the corner of Fulton street and Myrtle avenue, and continued the business at that address for ten years. In 1903, Mr. Morrisey, senior, retired from active business life and he was succeeded by his son, Mr. Frank J. Morrisey, the proprietor of the business at the present time. It was during this year also that the business was removed to No. 6 Myrtle avenue, where it is now carried on. Mr. Morrisey's stock is replete and comprises everything handled by a first-class drug store. His store is beautifully fitted up and the service is of the highest order.

Mr. Morrisey is an old Brooklynite, having lived in Brooklyn all his life. He received his education in the public schools of Brooklyn and graduated from the Brooklyn College of Pharmacy in the class of 1903.

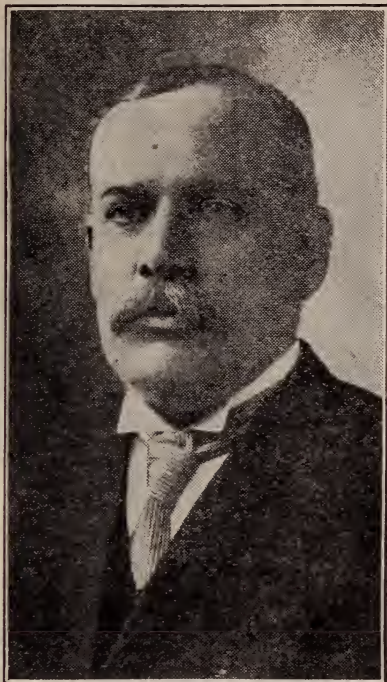

FREDERIC RIKER

One of the oldest reputable undertakers of to-day is Frederic Riker of Seventh ave. Robert Riker, his father, began business in 1843, when Brooklyn was a village. He opened his first place in Washington street under the name of Riker & Parsons. In those days an undertaker manufactured his own caskets, generally knowing the art of carpentry and upholstering. In 1850 they moved to Prince and Fleet St., and as the city began to grow up, so did the business, until in 1889 it was found necessary to open a branch store, the present one, at the corner of Carroll st. and Seventh Ave., and his son, the present owner, Mr. Frederic Riker, was placed in charge. The founder of this remarkable concern, Robert Riker, died in 1898.

Frederic Riker was born in 1849, in Cherry street, New York City. At the age of 6 he began his schooling in Public School No. 5.

His success is entirely due to his personal efforts and he has always tried to hold the undertaking business to a high standard. His beautiful funeral parlors are the only ones of the kind in Brooklyn.

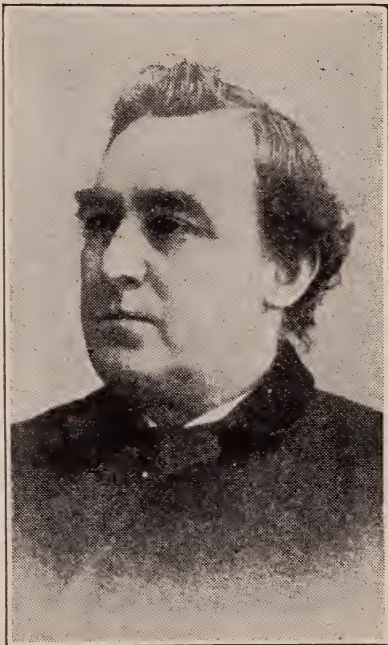

WILLIAM W. SIMPSON

The silver anniversary of a prominent funeral director is being celebrated this year by Wm. W. Simpson, who started in business on Myrtle avenue in 1885, moving from there to DeKalb avenue. He was then associated with the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, corner of Throop and Willoughby avenues, superintending the funeral of their late pastor, the Rev. Lewis Ray Foote, D.D. Mr. Simpson has been at his present location at 229 Sumner avenue for the past 18 years; was a very great friend of former Postmaster Collins, whose funeral he conducted. He is a Mason, member of Cosmopolitan Lodge; also R.A.M., R.A., K. of H., N. P. U. and other societies.

THE FIRST BREWERY IN BROOKLYN.

A good many old Brooklynites will remember the German Brewery started in 1846 by Nicholas Seitz. This was at that time one of the principal buildings in the old City of Brooklyn, and the beer, the real old German brew, was praised and had a very large sale, and has since grown under the management of his son, M. Seitz, who has continued the operation of the plant in a conservative and progressive way, and kept his beer up to the highest standard of excellence and purity. He attends to all the many details of his vast business himself. The brewery is situated in the Eastern District of Brooklyn, and is bounded by Maujer, Waterbury and Ten Eyck streets. His close attention to business has given him the name of being one of the leading and most practical brewers of Brooklyn.

That is the time to guard against weak ankles, cramped feet and ugly bow legs. It will be impossible for these misfortunes to develop in your children if they wear

THE KRIEGER CUSTOM WEAK-ANKLE SHOES.

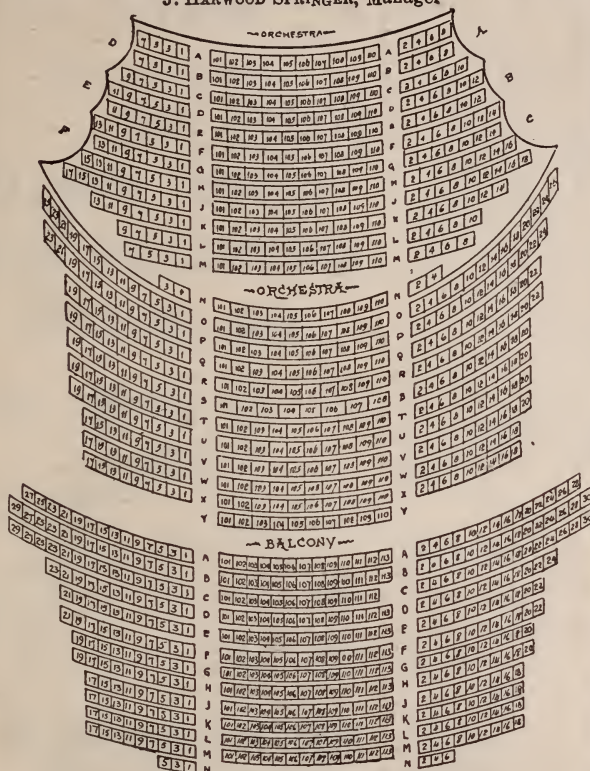

These shoes have a special ankle supporting counter which is invisible, and supports the soft, yielding ankle-bones until they become firm, insuring straight strong limbs.

Write for the Booklet.

It explains and illustrates the Krieger Shoes, showing several styles for girls, boys and babies. Krieger Shoes are just as stylish and handsome as any shoes you can buy. Mention your shoe dealer's name and write to-day.

CHARLES SCHOOL

Commercial & Preparatory
Jefferson and Franklin Aves.

One of the most natural and at the same time most important questions one asks when selecting a school is, "Which school shall I attend?" The answer to this question is easy to one who will investigate and leave the matter to his own judgment, making careful investigation as to the standing of the several schools in the community. If you cannot visit the schools personally, refer the matter to someone in whom you have implicit confidence and select a school that is responsible, one that has a reputation for good work, honest methods and is accredited high standing in the community. Remember that it costs no more to attend a good school than to attend an inferior one.

In an education as in everything else the best is always the cheapest; indeed, you cannot afford to waste your time and money in a school that cannot give you the training you need. A good business training will be a life long benefit to you and bring prosperity and happiness, so select the best—select "Charles."

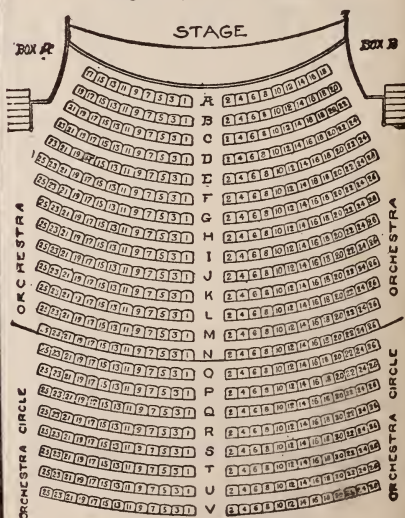

Our twenty-two successful years, the high standing of our school at home, the enviable reputation it has throughout the country, and the confidence expressed in it by business men, thousands of whom received their education within its walls, give to this school advantages few enjoy.

WHY NOT NOW?

Before taking notice of Starting Advertisements of so-called Varicocele Cures, see your family physician. Incidentally ask him about the Celebrated Schnoter's Suspensories—don't be surprised if he tells you he wears them himself. Any better endorsement wanted?
